BULLETIN.

LOSSIEMOUTH, Scotland, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald tonight received an important message regarding the situation at The Hague conference on reparations which requires his presence in London, and he will fly to the capital early tomorrow morning.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AIX LA CHAPELLE, Germany, Aug. 23.—Two infantry and two artillery regiments were ordered today to return to Belgium, ostensibly for maneuvers, but the officers and men were privately informed that they would not return to Germany. This leaves only one Belgian regiment on German soil at Eschweiler. City authorities said the Belgian headquarters had informed them that apartments and houses requisitioned for the officers would no longer be required.

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

The lord high chamberlain of the royal palace had the world's toughest job in arranging the dinner, as the Dutch court observes the rigidest protocol of any in Europe with the possible exception of Spain, and the diplomatic procedure presented one of the knottiest problems the venerable official of the palace has ever dealt with.

Queen Acts Like a Solomon.

Philip Snowden, British chancellor of the exchequer, the most conspicuous figure of the conference, should have been placed at the extreme lower end of the table because every one else outranks him in seniority of office—the Labor government only came into power in England a couple of months ago.

Not wishing to offend the fiery little Briton nor step on the toes of his distinguished veteran colleagues by placing him in precedency over them, the queen made a Solomon's decision and cut up the long regal banquet board into ten individual tables with some chief delegate presiding at each.

Eliminates Trains for Women.

The question of dress for the women raised another problem, as the Holland court requires that a woman formally appearing in the queen's presence shall be attired in a long train. Practically none of the delegates' wives or girl friends had any more train to their dresses than a jack rabbit, so Queen Wilhelmina sportingly decreed a royal dispensation, obviating the trailers. But she insisted that all dresses must reach the ankles—none of this revealed knee business. As a result many women at the banquet seemed abnormally long waisted because they undersling their robes as long as possible to get them into the nearest obtainable contact to the ground.

Gentle hints also informed the women that the queen disapproves of extremely décolleté gowns, so in numerous cases guimpes and makeshift underflummery screened deep, wide expanses of cuticle ordinarily displayed in accordance with modern styles.

Forced to Cover Bobs.

The monarch dislikes bobbed hair, too, so transformations were neatly planted on all cropped heads, and the coiffeurs did a roaring business camouflaging boyish bobs into graceful old style headdresses.

The delegates wore full soup and fish suits. Some donned court attire—plus knee pants, silk stockings and silver buckled patent leather pumps.

Scientist Finds Stuff to Make Old Men Frisky

Boston, Mass., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The discovery of a new method of rejuvenation simpler than any now used and based upon his isolation of the male hormone, was announced today by Dr. Casimir Funk of Paris before the International Physiological congress at the Harvard Medical school. The method applies to males only and will soon receive its first clinical tests in New York, he said.

Dr. Funk, who enjoys a world-wide reputation as a scientist, is the discoverer of vitamines. He has done research work for the Rockefeller institute and the Lister institute.

The experiments which led to his latest discovery were made in collaboration with Dr. Benjamin Harrow of the College of the City of New York, with money supplied by August Heckscher and Jules S. Bache of New York and Harold McCormick of Chicago.

Just a Shot in the Arm.

Under Dr. Funk's method it will no longer be necessary to resort to gland grafting or the process devised by Steinach. Having isolated the male hormone, regarded by him as the vital principle of masculinity, and credited as the agency which is affected in rejuvenation operations involving gland grafting, Dr. Funk told the congress that he has prepared an extract of this hormone which, injected hypodermically, revitalizes the entire system.

He said it was his aim eventually to apply this extract in the form of pills, to be taken on a doctor's prescription.

An Elusive Hormone.

The masculine hormone has been the object of search by scientists for many years. According to Dr. Funk, his experiments have shown that old age and loss of vitality in males are conditioned by the declining quantity of these hormones in the system.

Dr. Funk displayed lantern slides of elderly roosters to which the hormone extract had been given. The fowls were first shown with wilted comb and shriveled wattles, recognized signs of loss of masculinity.

Then the same roosters were displayed ten days after treatment. Their combs were erect with virility and the wattles puffed out.

Scientist Hopes to Defeat Death.

Dr. Eusabio A. Hernendez of Paris, who yesterday proposed the establishment of a special institution to study "the mechanism of death" in order that all researches in this direction might be coördinated, said that science should address itself more energetically toward the prevention of "the phenomena of death." Asserting that proof already exists that death is not unavoidable, he cited experiments of Prof. J. P. Heymans, who preserved life in an isolated head for three hours, and those of Prof. A. Kouliabko of Russia, who is supposed to have kept a human heart alive for 30 hours after the death of the individual.

AGED 'L' STATION CASHIER IS SHOT DOWN BY ROBBER

Merrill Norden, 71 years old, 2547 Leland avenue, a cashier at the elevated station at Clark and Roscoe streets, was shot early this morning by one of two young men who attempted to rob him of the contents of the cash drawer. When the robbers demanded his money he stepped aside in an effort to sound the burglar alarm. The robber fired once, the bullet striking the aged man in the cheek and coming out at the back of the neck. The robbers fled without loot. Norden was hurried to the John B. Murphy hospital, where his condition was said to be serious.

Convict Michael Cudahy of Driving While Drunk

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Michael J. P. Cudahy, 21, of the Chicago meat packing family, was convicted by a jury in Superior court tonight on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated. The jury recommended a $5,000 fine.

Cudahy today denied that he had been drinking and that he made a statement to police officers that "we had a party at the house," and that "we had a few drinks but I didn't have much."

Army Polo Star and Wife Hurt in Auto Crash

Lieut. C. M. McFarland of the polo team of Fort Hoyle, Md., now playing in a tournament at Onwentsia, was injured in an automobile collision last evening west of Des Plaines. His wife, Jean, was also hurt. Their year old daughter escaped uninjured, as did three occupants of the other car involved.

The McFarlands, motoring out of Fort Sheridan for a drive, were traveling south on the Elmhurst road. At the Higgins road their car was struck by the west bound coupe of Justin R. Swift, 2231 Wesley avenue, Evanston, manager of a Chicago tire agency.

The lieutenant, who suffered several broken ribs and a punctured lung, was taken to the Westlake hospital in Melrose Park, as was his wife, who incurred a fractured collar bone and possible internal injuries. Swift took the McFarland baby to Fort Sheridan.

Gets 1-14 Years; Manslaughter.

Justine Ribola, 36 years old, a war veteran, was sentenced to serve from one to fourteen years in the penitentiary for manslaughter by Judge Otto Kerner yesterday in the Criminal court. The automobile he was driving fatally injured Edward Sak, 4 years old, 715 Ayers court, who was being carried in his mother's arms on Christmas day at Chicago avenue and Lincoln street.

The plea of Billy Sunlim, 1223 West 46th street, saved his father, Mark Sunlim, a structural engineer, from a twenty day sentence and a $100 fine for driving while intoxicated, before Judge Francis Borrelli in the Speeder's court. The judge changed the sentence to two years' probation when the boy interceded for his father.

One Dead in County.

One death raised the 1929 Cook county motor toll to 551. The victim: John Kardceski, 31 years old, 4522 North Karlov avenue. Died of injuries received in an auto accident Thursday.

Torn from the grasp of his nine year old son when he was struck by a hit-and-run motorist, Stanley Kopach, 43 years old, of Gary, was fatally injured in that city. The child was not hurt.

Schools to Cost N. Y. City $136,810,790 for Next Year

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The board of education today adopted a budget of $136,810,790 for the maintenance of the city's public schools during 1930, an increase of $6,288,421 over the current year.

ELEVATED ROADS O. K.'D; COST TO BE $111,000,000

Monroe, Polk, Kinzie Routes Chosen.

BY HAL FOUST.

Plans for three west side elevated superhighways were approved yesterday by the west side committee of the Chicago plan commission. The total cost of construction was estimated at $111,367,108.

The streets are Monroe, Polk, and Kinzie. The designs provide for the elimination of all grade crossings from the downtown section to the city limits. When completed the improvements are expected to bring the city limits within a few minutes' motoring distance of the business district.

Kinzie street is to be constructed eighty feet wide on a fill next to the Chicago and North Western railroad embankment. The estimate on its cost was placed at $22,862,300. It will not have a lower level.

Monroe Street 120 Feet Wide.

Plans for Monroe street call for a two level highway 120 feet wide from Clinton street to Austin boulevard. The cost was estimated at $58,856,325.

Polk street also would have a lower level for trucks and local traffic and an upper deck for express passenger service. The engineers figure it would cost $29,648,483.

The committee also approved a proposal to widen Congress street between Michigan avenue and Canal street. The details of this improvement will depend upon the final decision in regard to the south side railroad terminal.

Edward H. Bennett, consultant for the plan commission, proposed a depressed 120 foot superhighway in Congress street to take the place of the Polk and Monroe street projects that were recommended by Hugh E. Young, chief engineer for the commission.

Committee O. K. Unanimous.

The committee's action was unanimous. Col. A. A. Sprague is chairman. The other members at yesterday's meeting were President Cermak of the county board, Ald. John S. Clark [30th], Ald. James B. Bowler [25th], William Scott Bond, and Michael Zimmer. W. Rufus Abbott was absent.

Ald. Clark made the motion for the approval of the Kinzie street improvement and it was seconded by Ald. Bowler. Ald. Bowler made the motion for the approval of the Polk and Monroe street projects and it was seconded by Ald. Clark.

Before the plans are presented to the public with recommendations for execution by governmental bodies, the program will be submitted to the executive committee of the Chicago Plan commission for formal approval. This will probably be done in the next few weeks. James Simpson, president of the commission, arrived in New York yesterday from Europe.

Plan Speedway Around Loop.

The three west side superhighways fit into the plan commission's recommendations for a quadrangular speedway around the loop to handle the great volume of automobiles at the eastern end of the new thoroughfares. The proposed route of this motorway loop, as made public yesterday, follows:

Clinton street, double decked at 120 feet wide, from Austin avenue to Roosevelt road; Illinois street, as a continuation of Austin, 100 feet wide and double decked from Clinton to the outer drive just north of the outer link bridge; Roosevelt road, already 118 feet wide, with a grade separation at Michigan avenue, to the lake front, and on the east, the outer drive supplemented by the inner drive and Michigan avenue.

North and South Side Program.

Chief Engineer Young also made public the remainder of his plan for a super highway system for the entire city for completion by 1950. Some of the projects have already been approved by the plan commission while others await committee action. On the north and northwest sides, Grand, Avondale and Ravenswood avenues and Lake Shore drive are designated. For the south and southwest sides, super highways are planned for Columbus [outer drive], La Salle street, Indianapolis, Vincennes and Archer avenues and Southwest highway.

The west side committee's report makes no reference to the methods of

Rocks Canoe; Two Drowned as It Upsets

Three youths were in a canoe. One of them rocked it and this caused two of them to be drowned last night in the south end of the Lincoln park lagoon, Clarence Burke, 15 years old, 2527 Haddon avenue, and Albert Korek, 18 years old, 2515 Haddon avenue, lost their lives. Louis Fuhr, 19 years old, 3847 Thomas street, third member of the party, was rescued by Lincoln Park Policeman Charles Henneman and Gus Meyer, 807 Willow street.

The lagoon was dragged an hour before the bodies of Burke and Korek were found. A half dozen life savers from the Diversey and Oak street beaches together with coast guards and police with grappling hooks took part in the search.

Fail at Resuscitation.

Life Guard Albert Furlong, a student at St. Viator's college, brought up the body of Korek and for half an hour the life savers labored with artificial respiration in a futile attempt at resuscitation. Internes from Augustana hospital had been summoned and they tried for a half hour to resuscitate Burke, whose body was recovered later by coast guards. Finally the youths were pronounced dead.

Fuhr said he and Korek bought the canoe for $10, paying a deposit of $5 on it last Saturday. The three youths worked yesterday, but at 7:30 p. m. they went out into the lake in their new boat. Coming back into the lagoon an hour later Korek rocked the boat, Fuhr said, and it tipped over. None of the youths could swim. Fuhr clung to the boat and his cries attracted Policeman Henneman, who with Meyer went out to his assistance in a boat.

Another Fatal Accident.

Nicholas Beukema, 30 years old, 7353 Aberdeen street, was drowned in the lake off 59th street when he was thrown out of a borrowed outboard motorboat when it made a sharp turn.

Beukema was entertaining Frank Ladek, 28 years old, of Rockford, Ill., and borrowed the motorboat of W. G. Bright, 7811 Chappel avenue. When he was thrown into the water Ladek jumped in to rescue him and held Beukema up till he became exhausted and was barely able to save himself.

CHINEE PROVES HE'S CHRISTIAN —AND PECULIAR!

John Fong, 27 years old, a Chinese laundryman of 152 West 22d street, was in the dock before Magistrate James M. Feron of Oak Park yesterday. The charge was speeding.

Policeman Ralph Wiltsey explained that Fong seemed bewildered and at a loss for English when halted Tuesday after driving 35 miles an hour. Wiltsey suggested an interpreter might be needed.

There followed a discussion of the defendant's ability to comprehend the proceedings. A question was raised as to the propriety of administering an oath to a heathen. Fong sat inscrutable until, finally, the judge turned to him.

"Young man," he asked, "do you understand the nature of a trial? Do you believe in the Christian Deity whom you call upon to witness the truth of what you say?"

"Certainly," came Fong's bland answer. "I am a Christian and a native born American. It might hasten matters for the honorable court if I pleaded guilty. I admit I was speeding."

When the magistrate recovered his composure he imposed a $10 fine and $5 costs. As Fong paid his fine, the policeman, of course, muttered:

SENATOR TYSON OF TENNESSEE TAKEN BY DEATH

Philadelphia, Aug. 24.—(AP)—United States Senator Lawrence D. Tyson, Democrat, of Tennessee, recipient of the distinguished service medal for "exceptionally meritorious and disinguished service" during the world war, died early today in the Manresa manor sanitarium, Stafford, near here, at the age of 68 years. Death followed a relapse suffered late yesterday. He had been under treatment for several weeks after a nervous breakdown.

Senator Tyson was a veteran of the world war and the Spanish-American war, and his five years in the senate were characterized by his interest in soldier legislation.

In the world war he served as brigadier general in command of the 30th. division. He engaged in the Ypres-Lys and the Somme offensives. Returning to Knoxville, Tenn., after the war, he was successful in business, engaging in the cotton industry and publishing the Knoxville Sentinel. In 1924 he was elected as a Democrat to the senate, his term expiring in 1931.

$3,000,000 State Peach Crop Being Sold Rapidly

The Illinois Chamber of Commerce, in a market bulletin issued yesterday, advised prospective purchasers of Illinois peaches to buy now. By Aug. 31, the organization estimates, the bulk of the $3,000,000 peach crop of approximately 4,000 cars will be on the market.

RIDES OUT GALE OVER PACIFIC ON DASH TO U. S.

"All Well" on Board, Wireless Says.

BULLETIN.

San Francisco, Aug. 24.—(AP)—A radio message sent from the Graf Zeppelin and intercepted here gave the airship's position at 11:00 G. M. T. (6 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time), 43:30 degrees north latitude, 171:10 degrees east longitude. This position indicated the air liner was approximately 1,700 miles out of Tokio, and that it was progressing more slowly than it had two hours before.

San Francisco, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The Radio Marine corporation station at Marshall, Cal., established direct two way radio communication with the dirigible Graf Zeppelin at 9:20 o'clock (Pacific standard time, equal to 12:20 a. m. Saturday, Chicago daylight saving time, or 2:20 p. m. Saturday, Tokio time) tonight.

Messages from the airship gave her position at 2400 Greenwich meridian time (7 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time) at latitude 39 degrees 20 minutes north and longitude 161 degrees 25 minutes east, and her position at 0400 G. M. T. (11 p. m. Friday, Chicago daylight saving time) as latitude 40 degrees 5 minutes north, longitude 165 degrees east.

The Radio Marine corporation announced it expected to retain continuous communication with the dirigible during the remainder of her voyage to Los Angeles.

An amateur radio station in San Francisco intercepted the 0400 G. M. T. position report to which the dirigible added the explanation "entering low pressure area; not making very good time."

Acts on Weather Reports.

Weather reports broadcast tonight to the commanding officer of the dirigible Graf Zeppelin by the San Francisco station of the United States naval radio disclosed that Commander Hugo Eckener apparently was taking advantage of the low pressure area in mid-Pacific in setting his course from Tokio to Los Angeles.

The weather message gave the situation at 5 p. m. today, Pacific standard time, equivalent to 8 p. m. Chicago daylight saving time and 10 a. m. tomorrow Tokio time. It said:

"The pressure is falling rapidly over the Aleutian islands and Bering sea, and the disturbance noted in previous bulletins is evidently moving steadily north-northeastward over middle and upper latitudes west of the 180th meridian, its trough probably lying along or near the 170th meridian east longitude."

(The 10 a. m. Tokio time position of the Zeppelin was in the "middle" latitude east of the 161st meridian, east longitude.)

"The ridge of the high pressure system extends from Dutch harbor, Alaska, south-southeastward to the 25th parallel, with highest pressure probably above 30.40 inches in latitude 43 degrees north and longitude 162 degrees west."

Tokio Keeps in Touch.

TOKIO, Aug. 24 [Saturday.]—(AP)—The position of the trans-Pacific dirigible Graf Zeppelin at 12:45 p. m. today, Tokio time [10:45 p. m. Friday Chicago daylight saving time], was given in a message from the airship intercepted by the Ochiishi wireless station as latitude 40 degrees north, longitude 163 degrees east. The dirigible was flying at an altitude of 350 meters [slightly over 1,100 feet].

This would be about 300 miles south of the great circle route between Yokohama and San Francisco.

"A V-shaped depression overlies the Gulf of Alaska, centered in latitude 54 degrees north and longitude 140 degrees west, and moving slowly eastward. The trough of this latter storm extends southward to the 40th parallel."

This would be about the latitude of Eureka, Cal.

(The position given was approximately 1,390 miles east of Kasimuguara naval station. The elapsed time of 21 hours and 32 minutes indicated an average speed of 65 miles an hour.)

Heading Northeast.

The Ochiishi wireless station heard the Graf Zeppelin broadcast this (Saturday) morning a position report as of 10 a. m. [8 p. m. Friday, Chicago daylight time] of longitude 161 degrees 25 minutes east, latitude 39 degrees 20 minutes north.

The message from the dirigible said she was heading northeast in the direction of the Aleutian islands. The passengers and crew were well. The passengers had enjoyed a Japanese breakfast.

The position indicated by the message is approximately 1,300 miles from Kasumigaura airport, from which the Graf Zeppelin departed for Los Angeles yesterday afternoon at 3:13 o'clock and about 900 miles to the south of Kamchatka peninsula. It showed the dirigible during 18 hours and 47 minutes over the Pacific had maintained an average speed of about 69 miles an hour.

Passes Through Storm.

Three hours after leaving Kasumigaura, the Zeppelin began plunging through a violent storm of wind and lightning. She came through unscathed and for the remainder of the night sailed in a moonlit sky.

Almost immediately great danger faced the dirigible with its crew of 41 and passenger list of 19. Storm areas were reported off the coast of northern Japan, over the Aleutian islands and the Bering sea, creating new hazards along the great circle route. Apparely without a moment's hesitation the Graf's commander ordered her nose pointed straight into the vast spaces of the Pacific along a route 500 miles to the south of the intended course.

But the Graf was unable to steer clear entirely of the storm area, wind and rain beat against her, and lightning flashed on her silver sides as she rode through the squall into clear weather. Despite the great danger there was no anxiety aboard the airship. The passengers gathered for dinner in the dining salon as if nothing had happened, according to wireless dispatches from the Graf to Japanese government radio stations.

Flies at 80 Miles an Hour.

When her position was reported at 10 p. m. Friday [8 a. m. Chicago daylight saving time] the Graf announced she was picking up her early lack of speed and was making 80 miles an hour. The storm had burst upon her three hours from Kasumigaura, but the experience was not reported to the Ochiibhi wireless station until 10 p. m.

The Graf carries 19 passengers and a crew of 41 over the Pacific. The addition to the crew is Chief Engineer Karl Beuerle, who came to Japan to supervise arrangements for the Zeppelin's stop at Kasumigaura.

Due in Los Angeles Tuesday.

Three new passengers are aboard—Lieutenant Commander Ryunosuke Kusaka of the Japanese naval general staff, Dofu Shiral, Japanese news agency representative, and Maj. Shinichi Shibata of the general staff of the army. They replaced four others who left the ship here after the trip from Friedrichshafen.

Unless new difficulties arise, the Graf Zeppelin should appear over Los Angeles Tuesday afternoon, or even Monday. If she can regain lost speed She could probably cruise until sundown, as she did over Tokio and Yokohama. Two or three days' rest for the crew, overhauling of motors if necessary, and the Graf will leave Los Angeles for Lakehurst, where she started her world journey Aug. 7.

ZEPPELIN OVER PACIFIC ON WAY TO AMERICA

The Graf Zeppelin, on its flight around the world, was far over the Pacific ocean last night, according to the latest radio reports. In order to dodge a storm Commander Eckener turned his ship south from the great circle route along the Aleutian islands and followed a course parallel to the latitude of about 35 degrees north. Later reports indicated the dirigible was being nosed back to the great circle route.

With her husband and instructor, Col. Lindbergh, on the ground, she took off in a Curtis Fledgling training plane, circled the field several times and landed successfully after about five minutes in the air.

Col. Lindbergh has been giving his wife flying lessons for about a week, and she has had nine hours of dual instruction. Prior to that she has flown as a passenger with him on all of his flights since their honeymoon last June.

Yesterday Mrs. Lindbergh handled the controls and made several landings, but her husband was in the plane ready to take the stick away from her if she got into difficulties.

Today's lesson, started at about 8:30 o'clock when the field was nearly deserted. After breakfasting at the club Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh climbed into the plane, and Mrs. Lindbergh took the controls. She took off and landed repeatedly for about an hour. Col. Lindbergh then got out, spoke a few words to his wife and watched her take off. She circled until she had attained an altitude of about 500 feet then swung into the wind and glided down to a good landing. Witnesses said she had landed exceptionally well for a first solo attempt. Both Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh wore parachutes during their flying today.

PASS VOLSTEAD ACT MEMORIAL IN WISCONSIN

Madison, Wis., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The Wisconsin assembly adopted without debate today Senator Walter S. Goodlands' memorial to congress asking a national referendum on amendment of the Volstead act, 18 to 65.

The senate has passed the Daggett income tax bill which decreases the state's revenue about $800,000; and the assembly has passed the Hill bill to increase the revenue about $1,500,000. When the Daggett bill came up in the house today, the main provisions of the Hill bill were attached to it and it was passed. A conference committee probably will wrestle with the matter next week.

A conference to settle differences between the two houses on gasoline tax bills also looms.

90 DEGREE HEAT RETURNS TODAY, FORECAST SAYS

A recurrence of Thursday's sizzling weather, the hottest of the year, was forecast by the weather bureau last night. The prediction called for fair and warmer weather today and much warmer tomorrow. Southerly winds may boost the temperature above 90 tomorrow, according to the forecast.

A lake breeze held the temperature yesterday to a maximum of 76 degrees, 17 points lower than Thursday's maximum. The normal temperature for the day is 71 degrees.

Planes Collide on Ground and Pilot Burns to Death

New Orleans, La., Aug. 23.—(AP)—One pilot was burned to death, and another pilot and four passengers narrowly escaped death late today when two airplanes collided at Menefee airport and were destroyed by fire. Both planes were on the ground. Elliott D. Coleman Jr., 19, of Waterproof, La., was killed, and Dan E. Thomas, 26, mail plane pilot, sustained lacerations about the head. The latter, and four passengers jumped to safety as their plane burst into flames.

ZEP PASSENGERS WILL GAIN A DAY ON PACIFIC HOP

Passengers on the Graf Zeppelin will experience a strange moment in world travel when they cross the place where "the day begins," the international date or calendar line. This is the 180th meridian in mid-Pacific.

The crossing probably will be tomorrow night and the Graf will gain one day, doubling the day she crosses the meridian. The Graf's passengers will go to bed Saturday night and wake to find it Saturday morning again. If the line is crossed Sunday, there will be two Sabbaths. If the flight was in the opposite direction, a day would be skipped altogether.

At the international date line the difference in time from Lakehurst is east 17 hours. The irregular imaginary line for calculating time was located in mid-Pacific by world agreement because it would cause the least confusion and because it is twelve hours from Greenwick. The line avoids all land because there would be different dates on each side.

HOW ZEP TOOK OFF

BY ST. CLAIR M'KELWAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Aug. 23.—Her stern sideling rakishly in the dying gusts of the gale that had imprisoned her in the hangar since the night before, the Graf Zeppelin cast off the ground ropes at 3:14 p. m. today and a few moments later was a silver ball rolling into the eastern horizon.

At 3:38 o'clock she passed over the coast city of Mito and nosed out over the sea. Unless the schedule is changed she will see no land again until she reaches the California coast. It is expected that the trip will be made in four days.

The whistling wind that rattled the guy wires and twitted the nerves of officers and passengers inside the hangar all night long died gradually after noon. The 400 sailors roused from the barracks arrived at about 1 p. m., anxious to prove that despite Thursday's mishap they could get the Zeppelin out safely. The passengers, who had stayed all night in the ship, lunched in a Japanese restaurant and got back in quick time. The faithful thousands of spectators, gathered in rude camps, inns and automobiles, got word somehow and rushed to the field.

Ease Ship Out of Hangar.

Then at 2:45 o'clock Dr. Eckener, commander of the Zeppelin, gave the word to go. There was a tedious trip under the guidance of the sailors out of the cramped hangar to the field. The sailors eased her out with the tenderness of nurses.

Once on the field, the Zeppelin forcook human power as her 2,500 horse power motors got under way. Officers shouting orders obtained the release of all the ground ropes except those of fifty sailors who were holding her nose. They misunderstood and held on for dear life, like anxious mothers. Then, understanding the orders, they let the pampered ship go. In her elements at last, she soared.

Passenger Regain Gayety.

The cheer that went up was not the wild hilarious cheer of Monday afternoon when the Graf Zeppelin came down from the sky. There was in it a stifled choking note.

The Zeppelin soared to the southwest, then wheeled and was gone.

Before the takeoff the passengers regained the spirit of gayety that marked the train ride the night before the mishap. At a Japanese restaurant, where Geisha girls gathered from all the surrounding towns, played, sang and danced, most of the passengers seemed to forget once more the perils that lay ahead.

HOLMAN LEADS ON FIRST DAY OF MEN'S AIR DERBY

Milwaukee Entrant Crashes; Unhurt.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Charles W. [Speed] Holman of Chicago was in the lead in the Portland-Cleveland air race tonight. He arrived here at 3:14:30 p. m. with an elapsed time of 1:55:12 from Portland. He had a lead of only 14 seconds over T. A. Wells of Wichita, Kas., who arrived here at 3:12 with an elapsed time of 1:55:26.

C. W. HOLMAN.

Holman and Wells led six other planes here from Walla Walla, where the contestants flew from Portland on the first leg of the race. All eight will stay here overnight and leave at 7 a. m. for Missoula, Mont., on the third lap of the Derby.

Holman took the lead from Wells on the Walla Walla-Spokane lap. When they arrived in Walla Walla, Wells was leading Holman by 16 seconds.

Clarence Bates of Milwaukee, who left Portland with the others this morning, crashed near Veil, Ore., and was forced from the race. Bates was uninjured but his plane was damaged.

East to West Hop in Doubt.

New York, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Capt. Roscoe Turner, who flew from Los Angeles with passengers day before yesterday and who had hoped to fly them back today, has indefinitely postponed the flight.

URGE STATE LAW TO GIVE MINORS HELP IN COURT

Enactment of a state law to provide for a public defender for delinquent boys was suggested yesterday in a report made to Municipal Judge Lyle of the Boys' court by a subcommittee of the Chicago Bar association. The group has just completed a study of the court's operation at Judge Lyle's request.

The report sets forth that many boys, haled into court for minor offenses, are without the aid of a lawyer, with the result that their story is never fairly heard. A public defender for such boys has been a help both to them and to the judge in other states, the report says.

Judge Lyle explained that the plan for a boys' defender is one of several initiated by Miss Harriet Vittum, director of the Northwestern university settlement. He said he hoped it would be a part of a program to build up an organization which will precede and follow up the work of the court.

CHICAGO PLANE IS UP AGAIN IN ENDURANCE TEST

C. E. Steele and Russell Mossman, co-pilots of the plane "Chicago-We Will," are expected to make their third refueling contact at 8 a. m. today in their endurance flight over Sky Harbor. At 11:31 o'clock yesterday morning, Chicago time, their Stinson-Detroiter plane took off with ambitions to exceed the 17½ days record recently established in St. Louis. All day they were favored by clear weather and made two refueling contacts.

Wilson Herren, one of the original three pilots on the two previous attempts over the municipal airport, when the plane came down after less than four hours on each occasion, is a disappointed observer of the flight. Upon agreement that only two aviators should undertake the flight, Herren, Steele, and Mossman flipped a coin Thursday night. Herren was the odd man, losing his chance.

Chilean Cabinet Continues Working After Resignation

SANTIAGO, Chile, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The Chilean cabinet, which tendered its resignation to President Carlos Ibanez yesterday, continued in power today after the president asked the ministers to fulfill their duties until the formation of a new government. The reason for the resignation was not divulged.

Aviation Notes

A specially chartered Universal lines plane yesterday carried eleven officials of Montgomery Ward & Co. to Rhinelander, Wis., for the opening of a new branch store.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the Graf Zeppelin, will be presented, upon his arrival in Los Angeles with a resolution passed yesterday by the Cook county commissioners urging the Zeppelin to "hover over Chicago long enough to allow the 3,000,000 interested citizens of our community to see this great master of the air."

The American Air Transport association yesterday appointed a committee to study the problem of a general air lines transfer system, comparable to that used by railways, which would allow aviation ticket offices to sell continuation tickets over other lines. Traffic managers of the thirty-two passenger carrying lines have recommended to their companies that such a system be placed in operation.

The possibility of establishing a nation-wide air passenger insurance system will be investigated by a newly appointed committee. No reliable air insurance system has yet been devised, according to officials of the American Air Transport association, although some companies are now insuring air passengers.

BROTHER OF CITY JUDGE SEIZED ON ROBBERY CHARGE

Fred Padden, 39 years old, 6226 North Fairfield avenue, a brother of Municipal Judge Frank M. Padden, was arrested last night a few minutes after he is alleged to have held up Andrew Schneider, a grocer, in his store at 3303 Bryn Mawr avenue. Schneider signed the complaint charging Padden with robbery and the prisoner was taken to the detective bureau.

Schneider said Padden entered the store shortly after 10 o'clock, displayed what appeared to be a pistol, and walked out with the contents of the cash register, between $20 and $30. The grocer ran out after him and hailed Policeman Theodore Lambett, who was passing. Lambett pursued Padden and captured him.

At the Albany Park station a police search of Padden's clothing yielded a monkey wrench. The police said they found no gun. Schneider was summoned to the station and identified the prisoner as the robber, according to the police. Padden gave his occupation as a broker.

BISHOP PREDICTS UNFROCKING RITE FOR EMPRINGHAM

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Bishop William T. Manning disregarded today the criticism directed at him by the Rev. Dr. James Empringham, former Anti-Saloon league leader and superintendent of the Church Temperance society, who has offered his resignation as a Protestant Episcopal clergyman, and gave his answer to Dr. Empringham's letter in a few significant words.

"The necessary ecclesiastical action in the case will, of course, be taken," the bishop said.

This means that Dr. Empringham, long frowned upon by the bishop because of his method of conducting anti-prohibition propaganda and because of his management of the Health Education society clinic, will be unfrocked in accordance with the solemn rites of the Episcopal church.

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Gladys Walton, actress and Clifford Parliman, world war aviator, were married today in the Church in the Gardens at Forest Hills. The ring ceremony, however, did not take place at the church. Instead the couple left Forest Hills for Roosevelt field. There, while a mile in the air, Mr. Parliman placed the ring on the finger of his bride. The bride is a Chicago girl who has played in "The Lady in Ermine," and "The Last Waltz." At present she is studying voice culture with a view to entering the operatic field.

Flyers Greeted by 12,000 as They Halt for Night.

Louise McPhetridge Von Thaden of Pittsburgh held her lead of around one hour over Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach in the heavy ship class with an elapsed time of 13:25:53, while Phoebe Omlie, Memphis, continued to lead the light plane division with 16:30:16.

Ten of the flyers had arrived at the airport by 5 p. m., where 12,000 persons greeted them.

Death, sickness and mishaps forced five flyers out of the race before the Wichita control was reached and tonight indications were a sixth pilot would be eliminated. Race officials received a telegram from the department of commerce at Washington advising that the license for Thea Rasche's plane had expired on July 15 and asking that the German flyer be withdrawn from further competition.

One Fatality in Contest.

Miss Marvel Crosson, San Diego, met death when her plane fell near Welton, Ariz., Monday. Claire Fahy of Los Angeles withdrew at Albuquerque because of damage done to her plane on the first hop when she attempted to avoid a collision. Florence Barnes, San Marino, Cal., was forced from the race at Pecos, Tex., after a collision with an automobile in landing.

Margaret Perry of Los Angeles, having contracted influenza shortly after she left the starting point, lies ill in a hospital at Fort Worth, Tex. She doggedly remained in the race up to that point despite the fact she was feverish. She finally quit on advice of a physician.

Miss May Haizlip of Kansas City and Blanche Noyes, Cleveland, were the last arrivals here tonight. Mary Von Mack, Detroit, also was delayed because of sickness. She returned soon after she left Tulsa and took off again after she had recovered.

Run Into Thunderstorms.

Several of the flyers ran into thunderstorms between Wichita and Tulsa. Miss Haizlip was forced down twice in Oklahoma with oil trouble.

Each of the flyers spoke into a "mike" before leaving the field, and a plane overhead broadcast a running account of the arrivals through radio station KFH, Wichita.

The flyers were guests at a banquet and dance tonight. They will depart at 9 a. m. tomorrow for Kansas City and East St. Louis, Ill.

CONFESSES HE SLEW CAFE MAN AND SHOT COP

Arthur Lenhardt, 31 years old, wanted by the police in connection with the slaying of a restaurant owner and the shooting of a forest preserve policeman, was captured by three detective bureau squads in an apartment at 2017 Monroe street early this morning. Lenhardt drew a pistol when the squad men entered, but was quickly overpowered by Policeman Edward Farr.

Lenhardt's wife, Alva, 28 years old, was seized with him. Both she and her husband at first denied any knowledge of the crimes of which he is accused, but after several hours' questioning Lenhardt confessed that he killed Milton Vasalopoulos, a restaurant owner of 1803 West 74th street in a holdup of the restaurant on June 20. He also confessed the shooting of Sergt. Clarence Falk of the forest preserve force on the same day when the policeman overtook him at Lawrence and Crawford avenues after the holdup of a drug store at 5726 Elston avenue. Both shootings were at first attributed to Willie Doody, who was recently captured.

JACKASSES! SAYS GEORGIA WRITER OF LEGISLATORS

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Dr. Sam Small, well known as a writer and prohibition advocate, today was barred from the privileges of the floor of the Georgia house of representatives because in a recent article in his column in the Constitution he had intimated that some of the members were "flop eared jackasses."

After a debate, however, on the meaning of the term, lasting more than an hour, the house finally decided to expunge the entire proceeding from the records.

The legislators did not admit they agreed with Mr. Small.

Public Works Office Aids Campaign.

Extermination of the ragweed, which spreads the affliction of hay fever, is being carried on each day by the health department in coöperation with improvement societies and the department of public works, Health Commissioner Kegel announced yesterday. The hay fever season has started but it is hoped to relieve those who have not yet begun to sneeze.

Upon receipt of complaints the health department sends out notices to owners of weedy property to hone the scythe and cut a wide swath, said Dr. Kegel. Inclosed also is a copy of the new city ordinance which carries a maximum fine of $100 for failure to cut the weeds.

Kegel Explains Procedure.

"I haven't enough inspectors to make a survey of the city," said Dr. Kegel, "but a man is sent out promptly when a complaint comes in. He notifies the owner, agent or tenants that they are responsible and subject to a fine. If the weeds are not cut then, the commissioner of public works is authorized by the ordinance to destroy them."

In the absence of a state law the city officials are handicapped in destroying the source of hay fever, according to the commissioner. He said weed pollen from a hundred miles away may cause trouble for a person subject to hay fever. Many sufferers can be aided, however, by the elimination of the weed in Chicago, he pointed out.

Neighborhoods Fight Weed.

Neighborhood associations, in some cases, have spent money to rid their sections of the weed and in other ways coöperated in the drive, Dr. Kegel said. The school board has promised to take care of its property and the Hay Fever association is working with the county commissioners to eliminate the pollen.

ARMY OFFICER TO BE AIR COP FOR COOK COUNTY

Maj. Ralph Royce Named Supervisor.

Maj. Ralph Royce of the United States army is to be Cook county's first policeman of the air. He has been appointed to supervise all aviation activities in the city and county, and to see that the laws and regulations governing flying out of this center of the industry are obeyed. His appointment was announced yesterday by Maj. Reed Landis, chairman of the county's advisory committee on aviation. He starts his duties the first week in September.

The appointment was hailed by Maj. Landis and other leaders in the aviation industry in Chicago as a far sighted step. Plans for Maj. Royce's work were outlined by Maj. Landis. They include an immediate inspection of all airports and all aircraft in use in Cook county, and an inquiry into the qualifications of all pilots.

Will Resign From Army.

Maj. Landis points out that Maj. Royce is preëminently qualified for the post. In order to take the position Maj. Royce must resign his army position; he now commands an air corps pursuit group at Selfridge field, near Detroit.

Maj. Royce has been flying since 1914. Before the war he had flown the old style pre-war planes in and out of Mexico, carrying supplies and obtaining information for Gen. Pershing.

Since the war Maj. Royce has continued in the army air corps, and he is now considered one of the outstanding officers and pilots in the pursuit branch of the service, Maj. Landis said.

Will Enforce Law.

"Maj. Royce will start his inspection of airports, aircraft and pilots as soon as he gets here," Maj. Landis said. "Equipment and pilots found unfit will be taken at once out of service. All planes violating the laws will be stopped operating."

Maj. Landis said a school for police officials will be operated in connection with Maj. Royce's service. This will offer fundamental instruction in aircraft types and maneuvers, air regulations, and the several types of licenses.

"This instruction will, of course, be given free to all officers in the county or city," Maj. Landis said.

Most Pilots All Right.

"We know that sound aircraft and sane pilots make safe, fast transportation. We know that most of the aircraft and the majority of pilots in Cook county are O. K. We want to make sure that there are no unsafe ships operating and that pilots are sane and qualified men."

The appointment of Maj. Royce to the particular post grew out of recommendations made recently by a coroner's jury in an air death, a jury of which Maj. Landis was foreman.

SEIZE BOAT, 500 CASES OF BEER AT MACKINAC

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The 16 ton motorboat Dryad, registered at Milwaukee, was seized in the Straits of Mackinac last night by the coast guard cutter 118, with 500 cases of Canadian beer on board.

Two men composing the crew of the Dryad were arrested and brought here for arraignment on smuggling charges.

The coast guard 118 is under command of Boatswain W. H. Tebo. The Dryad is listed as being owned by Emil H. Winjum of Sturgeon Bay, Wis. She was built in 1906 at Manitowoc.

SAWED BARS, FLED UNDER COPS' NOSES, YOUTH CONFESSES

David Bullock, 18 years old, arrested by an Evanston detective yesterday, confessed having escaped with two companions from a cell in the Englewood station two months ago, walking out past four policemen playing pinochle.

The youth told how he and his pals had made a file out of a pocket knife which the policemen had missed while searching them and sawed the bars of their cells. When they were taken to the showup at the detective bureau the knife was taken away but was replaced by a table knife they concealed when they were fed.

They finally sawed enough of the bar off to allow them to wriggle out. "Then we got out through a coal chute and walked right through the patrol barn past four coppers playing pinochle," Bullock said. "They didn't even see us." The other two boys were caught the following day in Gary.

Coup Balked by Federal Attorney's Office.

An attempt on the part of the prohibition department to dismiss the government's case against an alleged bootlegger who had accused two dry agents of drunkenness failed yesterday, when the United States' attorney's office refused to follow the recommendation. The agents—Charles Brown and Ernest Evans—were suspended during the day on orders from dry headquarters in Washington, D. C.

The attempted coup came when Theodore Josef, 4748 Washington boulevard, was arraigned before United States Commissioner Walker charged with selling booze to the two agents when they raided a speakeasy at 178 North Clark street. At his first appearance in court, on Wednesday, Josef claimed that Brown and Evans were tipsy when they came into the place and punctuated their visit by firing a pistol at the bartender.

Prosecutor Deaf to Hint.

Just before the arraignment yesterday Assistant District Attorney William Parillo said he was approached by another agent who said that Assistant Prohibition Administrator George H. Hurlburt had instructed him to ask Parillo to dismiss Josef's case.

This the prosecutor refused to do. When the case was called Parillo asked for a continuance to complete his investigation of Brown's and Evan's performance.

"There have been charges made here, your honor," he told the commissioner, "and the government wants the truth of the matter."

Josef's attorney, Fred D. Silloway, former prohibition official, objected to a long continuance and said he was ready for trial. Commissioner Walker, however, granted Parillo's request and the hearing was continued to Aug. 31. Neither Brown nor Evans was in court although they were to have been witnesses against Josef. Mr. Parillo said he would issue subpoenas for them.

Dry Official Explains.

Asked why he had recommended dismissal for Josef, Mr. Hurlburt said that since the agents had been suspended the prohibition department had no witnesses to take the stand against him. This disagreement of authority marked the first open breach between the dry office and the United States attorney's office.

On Thursday Hurlburt announced that Brown and Evans were to be kept on duty in the prohibition office pending a report on their conduct by the special intelligence unit of the department. He emphasized then that the move was not to be taken as a disciplinary measure. Yesterday a preliminary report by the intelligence unit was forwarded to Washington and Administrator E. C. Yellowley, now in the south, was notified of the charges.

Agents Ordered Suspended.

Mr. Yellowley then got into telephonic communication with Chief Counsel James J. Britt of the Washington headquarters and was told to suspend the agents. This order was relayed to Hurlburt. Dr. James M. Doran, prohibition commissioner, is now en route east from California, and it is expected that he will act formally in Washington when the full report of the happenings is forwarded to him.

More trouble for Former Agent Brown seemed a possibility when Mrs. Bertha Schupple, 53 years old, owner of the Elmo hotel at 219 Van Buren street, was arraigned yesterday before Commissioner Walker and charged with selling a drink to Brown several days ago. Her case was continued to Sept. 12, and she said that she may file charges against the agent on that date.

G. B. S. IS GIVEN THE AIR; RADIO BAN IS LIFTED

(Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.)

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The radio ban on George Bernard Shaw has been lifted and he will say exactly what he pleases when he speaks in the British Broadcasting corporation's series of points of view of prominent men scheduled to commence in September. Not even the most caustic Shavian thrust he cares to make is in danger of being blue penciled by the censor, although Mr. Shaw has been asked to remember the varied character of the radio audience.

When asked at Malvern today what he is going to talk about, Mr. Shaw replied, "I shall not know probably until five minutes before I start." He remarked he had no objection to broadcasting, but added, "If I broadcast I am going to say what I like."

Other celebrities who will participate in the series will be H. G. Wells, Sir Oliver Lodge, and Dean Inge.

Four Evanston Business Houses Robbed in Day

A series of petty burglaries which have annoyed the Evanston police for the last three weeks continued unabated yesterday. Some time between midnight and daybreak thieves thought to be juveniles broke into the Eugene L. Ray photographic studio, 1604 Chicago avenue; a Liggett drug store, 501 Davis street; the Heisen and Ruck grocery, 1018 Central street, and George Long's restaurant at 1020 Central street. A few dollars were taken in each of the first two places which are within two blocks of the police station. The other two places were ransacked but apparently nothing was taken.

Wind Driven Flames Ruin Sanitarium, Dozen Houses

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Wind driven flames that started in a dust dry lumber pile early tonight was believed to be under control near midnight after having destroyed the storage and fuel yards of the J. P. McGoldrick Lumber company, an apartment house, a sanitarium, and a dozen frame dwelling houses. The financial loss could not be estimated at this hour.

Political Club Uses River for Taxi Dances

Scene on board the Rotarian, the clubhouse of the Cook County Democracy, moored near the Wells street bridge, where nightly dances are held to which the public is admitted and charged at the rate of 10 cents a half minute, 5 cents of which goes to the club and 5 cents to the girl as commission.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

TAXI DANCES PUT NEW LIFE IN OLD DEMOCRACY BOAT

Also Profit in Pocket of Promoter.

Anchored in the Chicago river, just abaft the Wells street bridge and well hawsered to the pilings of the quay, is the good ship Rotarian, home of the Cook County Democracy club. From Wacker drive the ship looks all dark, for its upper decks are unilluminated, and one might think it some vessel, staid as its name, asleep for the night in the peaceful stream. But nightly since last Tuesday there have been revels to Terpsichore on board.

The lower decks have been ablaze with light; the moaning saxophone has done its bit; strains of jazz waft out into the darkness. Drugstore cowboys and nondescripts and bald pated hunters after their lost youth have glided about with sweet looking young things in their arms. In other words there has been revived the old game of taxi dancing.

Pay as You Dance.

It is called taxi dancing because it is paid for at so much a dance. On the good ship Rotarian it was done in the most approved fashion of the racketeers. Each dance cost 10 cents. Each dance lasts about half a minute. An average of forty couples would be on the floor for each dance.

The "house" gets 5 cents and the girl gets 5 cents out of each dance.

There are about 100 girls—according to one of them—working most of the time, a big field to choose from: "If one girl don't please you, gents, another one will! You're sure to find a partner here!"

How the Profits Mount.

As the police, who last night again looked in on the good craft, figured it out it came to this:

Forty dances at 5 cents each, $2 a half minute, $4 a minute, $240 an hour to the "house." Dancing seven nights a week—7 times $240—$1,680 a week.

"And a conservative estimate," said another.

Betty and Bobby and Beatrice and Vivian, a few of the girls with whom inquirers danced, all told about the same story.

"I work days and make $18 a week—waiting table," said Vivian—"call me Viv!" "I dance at night and I make twice as much. Big boy, you're some stepper!"

Leased by Democracy.

It was learned that the Cook County Democracy club had rented the floor space nightly to George Geary and partners, who ran the old State-Congress Dancing academy for more than two years until the police were able to dissolve an injunction through the courts. Geary later ran a similar place at Union and Madison streets, but persisted effort by Commissioner Russell also finally disposed of that.

This time Geary has them dancing on the river, and perhaps, say the police, he is setting a precedent running that way on a navigable stream.

The detectives who crossed the gang plank of the good ship Rotarian last night, however, could get no information concerning Geary or his cohorts. Somebody led them to the bar in the bow of the ship. "There's the boss; talk to him."

"Miles J. Devine is my name," said the "boss," slipping out a conciliator hand; "Miles Jr., that is. I guess you've heard of my father. Yes, we're just having some dancing here. What's that? Why, my father, Miles Devine, and Walter Powers run this boat."

Husband Shoots Escort of His Divorced Wife

Meeting his divorced wife, Viola, with another man at Leland avenue and Broadway last night, Simon Berneau, 48 years old, an iron molder, of 2034 North Halsted street, drew a pistol and fired. The bullet hit its mark, piercing the cheek of Joseph Paschwitz, 29 years old, 4715 Sheridan road, at whose home Mrs. Berneau has been living. Paschwitz was fined $25 a month ago for assaulting Berneau. Sergt. Edward Galvin and his squad arrested the Berneaus and Paschwitz.

Mrs. Hoover, who is national president of the Girl Scouts and one of the commissioners of the Washington council, arrived at the camp at 1 o'clock, accompanied by several friends. She remained at the camp until 3:30 o'clock before returning to the Rapidan river resort.

FORTY MORE GO BEFORE JURY IN CANAL INQUIRY

Twenty women and twenty men, all pay rollers of the water department of the sanitary district during the régime of Timothy J. Crowe, were taken before the grand jury yesterday in the graft quiz by Assistant Prosecutor Otho Fasig.

One former alderman, Mr. Fasig said, admitted that all during 1928 he [illegible] month from the district for which he performed no work. [illegible] admitted they spent their time in handing out political handbills from the Hotel Sherman headquarters.

"We have now taken scores of affidavits showing many thousands of dollars was paid out by the district for political services only," said Fasig. A total of 450 subpoenas already have been issued by Mr. Fasig. A fresh batch will be issued on Monday.

JOHN COOLIDGE WILL BE WED IN MID-SEPTEMBER

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 23.—(AP)—In an interview with an Associated Press representative tonight, John Coolidge, son of ex-President Calvin Coolidge, said his marriage with Miss Florence Trumbull, daughter of John H. Trumbull of Connecticut, would take place in September. He would not state the exact date, but it was understood that Sept. 15 was the day chosen. Miss Trumbull is at present spending her vacation at Moosehead lake, Maine, with her father.

Rogers Park 'Pants Bandit' Pleads Guilty; Sentenced

Harry Stewart, 18 years old, known as the "pants burglar of Rogers Park," pleaded guilty to a burglary charge before Judge Harry B. Miller yesterday and was given a sentence of from one year to life in the Pontiac reformatory. Stewart was seized by police on July 20 while driving a stolen car. Many of his victims reported that he made sure he would not be pursued immediately by stealing the pants of his victims as they lay sleeping.

Disbar Woman Attorney First Time in California

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The first disbarment case involving a woman attorney in California history went into the records of the state Supreme court today in an opinion ordering the name of Mrs. Maude Stilwell Shattuck of Los Angeles stricken from the roll of attorneys. Mrs. Shattuck was convicted of irregularities while serving as executrix of the estate of Nicholas J. Steiner.

PHONE BILLS OF STOCK GYPPERS $20,000 A DAY

Bell Company Feels U. S. Drive.

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Tipster houses and fake brokerage offices have cost the investing public $36,000,000 in the last year, Assistant United States Attorney Edward S. Silver estimated today.

More than 100 of these fly-by-night organizations have folded up their tents and disappeared with their clients' funds since the federal prosecutor and the postoffice authorities started their drive against them.

Mr. Silver explained that he reached the estimate of $36,000,000 losses by computing from the enormous telephone bills of the fraudulent houses.

Reports $20,000 Per Day in Calls.

The New York Telephone company reports that its business has fallen off $20,000 a day since the drive began. This represents at least $7,000,000 a year in telephone bills.

One company, Mr. Silver explained, which had sold $1,500,000 worth of stocks last year, had a telephone bill of $240,000, or one-sixth of the total sales of stock. Using this ratio as a rough measure, Mr. Silver reached his estimate of the total.

Continuing the grand jury investigation into the alleged fraudulent use of the mails by Hadley & Co., brokerage house, in the sales of the Airvia Transportation company, Mr. Silver again took before that body Arthur H. Montgomery and Gerald Tiffany, the chief promoters.

Tiffany Arrested Third Time.

Before going before the federal grand jury Tiffany was arrested for the third time in the last week.

This time the arerst was made on behalf of the Detroit authorities, who want him for fraudulent sale of $27,000 worth of securities there five years ago.

AIR SPEED HOPE OF ITALY DARTS TO DEATH IN LAKE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 23.—A tragic setting was given Italy's program for the Schneider cup races when Capt. Joseph Motta, one of the six pilots chosen to represent Italy at the Southampton classic, dived at lightning speed from 100 feet into the deep waters of Lake Garda yesterday afternoon at a speed of 200 miles an hour. Neither Capt. Motta's body nor the plane has been recovered.

The plane, a Macchia seven, was equipped with Isotta-Fraschini motors of 1,800 horsepower and was said to be able to develop a speed of 353.97 miles per hour.

Capt. Motta had successfully circled the lake and was banking down when the plane suddenly pitched headlong into the lake. A miniature waterspout almost 100 feet high spurted up from the plunging plane.

Speed Too Much of Strain.

Capt. Motta was one of the most skillful racing pilots. The tragedy, which will seriously handicap the Italian team in the races, is thought not to be due to any error in maneuvering but probably to a rupture in some part of the plane.

Who will be named by Gen. Balbo to replace Capt. Motta remains unknown, but it is said an Italian plane will likely be shipped from Desenzano to England Sunday in accordance with the plans.

This is the third accident since the speed trials began ten days ago, three planes having been put out of business.

Britain Refuses Delay.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 23.—The Schneider cup race is not to be postponed, the Royal Aero club tonight announced. Once the entries are received, rules prohibit postponement, it was explained to Italy, which asked a delay of a week or 10 days because of the tragedy.

"The race could not be held in English waters in October with the uncertain weather and equinoctial gales," said an official. "Elaborate arrangements have been made by seaside towns and transport concerns. A postponement would have meant the loss of at least $500,000 to these interests."

U. S. Test Postponed.

Annapolis, Md., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Bad weather during the afternoon today forced a further postponement of Lieut. Alford Williams' test of the Mercury racer plane on the Severn river.

FIRE DESTROYS GARAGE, ALARMS T. B. SANITARIUM

Fire in a garage at the plant of the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, Bryn Mawr and Crawford avenues, last night destroyed the garage and caused an estimated $12,000 damage to four ambulances and eight physicians' cars.

Hospital attendants had some trouble quieting the fears of a few of the 1,400 patients, quartered in the main hospital building 200 feet from the flaming garage. They had greater difficulty, however, with some 500 patients who wanted to stand out in the night air for a closer view of the fire fighting.

NEW TITLE, TRUST COMPANY SEEKS COUNTY PERMIT

Board Questions Deal, Orders Quiz.

A resolution paving the way for a new title and abstract company, said to be backed by ample capital, was introduced before the county board yesterday by Commissioner John W. Gibson. It asks that the proposed company be permitted to make photostatic copies of records in the recorder's office instead of by longhand, the only method now permitted by law.

The resolution deplores the fact that a city as large as Chicago has but one company in this field, the Chicago Title and Trust company, while smaller cities have as many as four. It heralds the advent of a new concern, under the guidance of L. L. Mosher Jr. and associates, as "a public benefit" and asks that the movement be encouraged.

Commissioners Order Investigation.

However, some of the commissioners stated openly that they suspected the enterprise, so no action was taken on the resolution except that the whole proposal was turned over to a special committee for investigation.

In urging the board to back the enterprise, Commissioner Gibson explained that Mr. Mosher had submitted credentials of his ability to create and build a plant. These were not introduced. The commissioner said that the company is showing consideration in asking to install machines, as it otherwise might incumber the recorder's office with 800 employés making longhand records.

"In addition the company has offered to present these machines to the county," Gibson said. "And furthermore, they offer to build the needed balcony in the office in appreciation for this courtesy, although they are not required to make any payment. This concern is a godsend to Cook county."

"Watch out," Nettlehorst's Advice.

"Watch out for these boys who give when they don't have to," Commissioner Louis Nettelhorst, chairman of the public service committee, said. "They offer $65,000. Well, it looks to me as though some one wants to shake the Chicago Title and Trust company for a sizeable sum. I for one won't pull chestnuts out of the fire.

"The board remembers the Ogden Gas company. It started in 1905. After building a plant and supplying gas for a couple of months the officials thanked their subscribers in a polite little note, with the information that, after the first of the month gas would be supplied by the old company. The promoters cleaned up big."

Commissioner Nettelhorst refused to call a vote and appointed a subcommittee of President Cermak and Commissioners Gibson, Whealan, Jaranowski, Schmidt, and Metzger to study the offer. Gibson protested.

Refuses to Name Backers.

Mr. Mosher was found, on information supplied by Gibson, in the Chicago Temple building. His name is not listed on the directory. He occupies offices with the Otis Investment company and a number of similar concerns. His name is not on the door.

"I cannot reveal my backers," he said, looking into space. "I can only say that they are known in their business throughout the country. Some are from the Chicago Title and Trust company and would not want to be named. We intend to go ahead with a $3,000,000 building as soon as we get permission. We could get the records in three weeks. I will manage that.

"We will capitalize at $25,000,000 for a start. I have worked in the recorder's office for three months; I know the system here."

Officials of the Chicago Title and Trust company smiled when they were informed of the proposal. They said that similar mysterious announcements have failed to mature in the past.

Plan League to Keep U. S. Prosperous at All Times

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

Williamstown, Mass., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Initial steps were taken at the Institute of Politics today to form a nationwide organization which will bring home to every community the necessity for planning in advance for construction of public works so that when certain indices show that the nation is headed for a depression credits for construction of the planned works shall be released and the slack in unemployment taken up.

The organization, to be known as the Planned Prosperity league, or the Prosperity Reserve league, was born today after a general conference on unemployment conducted by Dr. William T. Foster, co-author with Waddill Catchings of numerious books and pamphlets dealing with the importance of systematic planning by federal, state and local governments for the construction of public works.

Focus Public Attention.

It also was suggested that inasmuch as states and cities do not realize that the time selected by them for expanding public works has any effect on stabilizing or unbalancing general business that it might be necessary to have a federal stability commission similar to the law enforcement commission which would focus public attention on the necessity of a construction program in which the states would join.

It was asserted at the conference that unemployment was "the great communal crime of our civilization," that as no aboriginal tribe returning home from a successful hunt would fail to find a way to distribute the proceeds of the hunt, there was no reason why civilization should not find a way to abolish unemployment. While Secretary of Labor Davis was quoted as saying that 86 per cent of the American people were poor it was maintained that poverty, in the most of the great resources of the United States was an indictment of the nation and contrary to the ethics of its religion.

From Another Angle.

American "prosperity" was discussed from another angle previous to the general conference by Prof. T. E. Gregory, of the London School of Economics, at the round table conducted by Dr. Harrison E. Howe. Mr. Gregory said the degree of prosperity in the United States had been overstated, that the miracle was that the country was not more prosperous. In a frank talk on his observations in this country, Prof. Gregory said he regarded the relative degree of prosperity to be found here as being due to factors other than those which would flatter the American mind and conscience.

Among these factors, he included enormous natural resources with a population relatively smaller than Europe; the relative plentitude of capital and dearth of labor; the extraordinary mobility of labor which was discharged ruthlessly, but which was shifted into expanding industries; the growth of the consumer idea of buying standardized goods.

BANKERS SKETCH GLOOMY PICTURE OF CAR FINANCING

Call Transit Securities Unpopular Investment.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Melvin A. Traylor and Frank O. Wetmore of the First National bank, Harold Foreman of the Foreman National bank and President Thomas Conway Jr. of the Cincinnati, Hamilton and Dayton railway, presented a gloomy picture of the financing of the proposed consolidated transit company at yesterday's session of the "deadlock committee."

They predicted it will take some time to reestablish the credit of the local transportation lines, but, they added, under a proper franchise and good management there are possibilities that the consolidated system might become one of Chicago's best utilities. They gave the impression that the financial problem is not so much a question of division of the probable profits as it is of getting enough return to create credit for the new company.

Traction Securities in Disfavor.

"Under present credit conditions and the odor attaching to traction bonds, it is almost impossible to sell traction securities," said Mr. Traylor.

"Traction securities have been in public disfavor for a number of years," commented Mr. Foreman.

"No one wants traction bonds or stocks now," added Mr. Wetmore.

"There is a lack of confidence in the economic stability of urban transit systems," said Dr. Conway, who has been professor of economics at the University of Pennsylvania, as well as president of the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin interurban third rail line.

All four witnesses recommended that the relationship of stocks to bonds in the new company should be equal, as nearly as proves practicable. All four urged with emphasis that no fixed financial plan be placed in the franchise.

Oppose Rigid Finance Plan.

"That would be a fatal mistake," said Mr. Traylor. "It would be the forerunner of failure."

"No one can predict what the conditions will be in six months or six years," argued Mr. Wetmore.

"It is hazardous to insert rigid provisions in the ordinance," said Mr. Foreman.

"It will be a mistake not to treat the situation with liberality and foresight," commented Dr. Conway.

The four were unanimous in recommending that control on the investment be left to the local transit commission. Three of them [Mr. Wetmore made no estimate] gave as their opinion that transit bonds cannot now be sold for a coupon rate of less than 6 per cent, if approximately par is to be obtained for them. The four specialists emphasized that a sound financial plan must permit the companies to meet changing conditions as they arise. They agreed with Joseph E. Otis of the Central Trust company and A. W. Harris of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, previous witnesses, that no financial plan will work without adequate sinking funds for bond requirements.

Amortizing Plan Unpopular.

On amortizing the entire valuation of the transit properties, which will probably reach $700,000,000 or $750,000,000, the bankers and the eastern operator were not so keen.

"Let us think with as little prejudice as we can," observed Mr. Traylor, "and not kid ourselves. The amortizing must be paid by the car riders. It is a silly dream of the city to try to amortize the property in any reasonable time, because they would unreasonably raise the car fares.

"That is a feature of a fixed financial plan and no one is wise enough to write such a plan that would not work an injustice on the car riders and investors. The surface line values are fixed and the elevated values will be fixed, and both will be fair. If we have learned anything from experience, there should be a fair and reasonable return on those fair valuations. Without that we are foreordained to fail.

Urges Reasonable Return.

"Perhaps those who have had no opportunity to get the facts do not appreciate how much in disfavor traction securities are. The men in each bond department say that they have first mortgage bondholders in every day who say that if they can get their money out of traction securities, they are through. A well managed transit property, with liberal terms for operation, sold its first mortgage bonds in 1927 to yield the investor 7.6 per cent and its stock, at a discount, to yield 9.5 per cent. That is one of the best traction properties in the country. The new Chicago company must be allowed to earn a fair and reasonable return on all its investment to get the securities back into public favor."

"I believe that investors look upon traction companies as upon a man slipping on the ice," said Dr. Conway. "If he does get straightened out, the onlookers are not certain that he will not begin to slip again. It is advisable to have a better financial plan for traction than is necessary for other utilities. The danger of large return is only theoretical."

The deadlock committee will resume hearings Monday morning.

WORLD CHAMPION SEA SCOUTS BACK FROM JAMBOREE

Competition Too Easy to Suit Chicago Boys.

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Chicago's world champion sea scouts got back from the International Boy Scout jamboree at Birkenhead, England, today. The delegation headed by their skipper, Louis Oloff, arrived on the Cunard liner Berengaria.

Accompanying the party which won the first honors at the jamboree for sea scouting, was Howard Gillett, chairman of the National Sea Scouts committee and honorary skipper of the sea scouts. The homecoming scouts were Albert Collinet, David Floreen, Elmer Hanshen, and Sumber Summerfield, all quartermasters; and Harold Collinet, Henry Drugemuller, George Gruner, Noel Howard, Ross Utter, and Lester Rolth, all able bodied seamen.

Amazed by Dancing.

There were three contending contingents for the sea scout honors at the jamboree, Chicago, St. Joseph, Mo., and Philadelphia. The Chicago scouts said there was no foreign competition and one of them expressed amazement that the Hungarian sea scouts had demonstrated, as one of their qualifications, woodland dancing.

"It looked funny," the amazed youngster said, "to see them gyrating about like tops."

The Chicago boys were plainly disappointed over a lack of keener competition in the contests.

"What we went for," they declared, "was to compete in cutter racing and sailing and there was little of it."

Claims Peace Advanced.

Col. Dan C. Beard, chief commissioner of the United States to the jamboree, returned full of enthusiasm for the Scout cause.

"A few more gatherings like this one," he said, "and the world will have no further need for Hague conferences or naval disarmament treaties. The Boy Scouts' meeting did more for peace than all the other peace movements combined."

Forty-two different nations were represented in the jamboree and Mr. Beard declared that the representatives of each were "all actuated by the same scouting motives."

"Our American boys did fine," he said. "They came up to all of my expectations."

Mr. Beard is chief scout in America, having fathered the work here in 1905, three years before Baden Powell started the organization in England.

Policeman Missing Since 1927 Dropped from Roster

Policeman Andrew S. Orzada, 49 years old, who disappeared mysteriously on Nov. 9, 1927, was ordered formally dropped from the police department roster yesterday by the police trial board. Orzada, who was married and lived at 3109 Kimball avenue, disappeared after he had left home for the Cragin police station, where he was assigned to duty. He has not been heard from since.

FORMER SLAVE'S WISH FOR ARLINGTON GRAVE IS GRANTED BY U. S.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The war department lifted its rule against civilian burials in Arlington cemetery long enough today to inter "Uncle Jim" Parks' body where he spent his life as a Negro slave boy, a freed slave, an aging worker and a guide.

A slave of George Washington Parke Custis, the adopted son of George Washington and father-in-law of Robert E. Lee, he saw the battle tides of the Civil war roll over the wooded hillsides and fields where he played as a boy, saw the coffins "stacked like cordwood" after Manassas. Then, puzzled and aging, his sad old eyes watched the ever increasing wave of white headstones roll farther and farther through the lanes and glades of Arlington "estate" as the nation buried its heroes of that and later wars.

The guns of war spoke soon after he, with the rest of some 500 slaves, had been freed by the will of their master. Blue clad soldiers came to the plantation, and the spurred boots of their officers rang discord through the quiet house that had been Gen. Robert E. Lee's home.

The blue soldiers marched south and soon the bewildered Parks was aiding in the first military burials at Arlington. He helped build Fort Whipple, the civil war fortification where Fort Myer now stands. Time quieted the cannons and peace returned to the old plantation, but never again the old order.

"Uncle Jim" stayed on. Lately, physical incapacity has kept him from the places he loved best, but he has dreamed more poignantly than ever of the proud days of lace and lavender, forgetting, perhaps, at times the changes personified in the children of his children, five of whom served with the A. E. F. during the world war.

financing either the Monroe or Polk street projects but mentions that the west park board, through its president, Dr. John Dill Robertson, has declared a desire to construct the elevated speedway on the north side of the Chicago and Northwestern embankment. It is likely that the city council will dedicate the street as a west park boulevard within a few weeks.

Bond Issue to Go to Vote.

The park commissioners obtained legislation at the last session of the legislature permitting them to submit a $20,000,000 bond issue to a referendum election. Such a proposition will probably be on the November ballot. The county board has adopted a resolution, introduced by President Cermak, appropriating sufficient money from the county's share of the gasoline tax to cover the balance of the cost.

"The right of way," says the committee's report, referring to Kinzie street, "can be obtained at little cost and there are no unusual engineering difficulties in the way of its early construction.

"It makes a direct connection with Lake street at the western city limits and will connect directly with the Illinois street elevated highway proposed in the north central district, which is the northern boundary of the express highway quadrangle."

The Kinzie Motorway Route.

The route of the Kinzie elevated highway, after leaving the Illinois-Clinton-Avondale intersection, follows Austin avenue to Ogden avenue, and then curves with the North Western embankment so that the superhighway will be in Kinzie street from Ogden to Austin boulevard.

Ramps, at half mile intervals, will reach the pavement widened in an easy curve so that these approaches from the ground level will not interfere with the flow of traffic.

The detailed plans show a sixty foot roadway on the eighty foot right of way. Fourteen feet for sidewalk is allowed on the side opposite the railroad and six feet for a passenger loading sidewalk on the side abutting the railroad property.

"The sixty foot roadway can be disposed of in several ways," says the committee's report. "It is considered most desirable, however, to construct a curb providing a twenty foot roadway for east bound traffic and forty feet for west bound. The forty feet for west bound would accommodate two lanes of express traffic without interference from vehicles turning in and out from the curb."

Future Benefits Pictured.

The committee report, in conclusion, paints a picture of the motorist of the future getting a more adequate return from the investment in his automobile.

"With the completion of the express highway system," the report says, "a loop worker living in an apartment on Cicero avenue could reach the central business district in from six to ten minutes, and park his car in a multiple floor garage contacting the quadrangle streets. He could reach his office from the garage as quickly as any railroad commuter does from the rail terminal.

"His car thus housed and located in the central business district would be available in a few minutes, ready for use on a system of express highway right of ways leading out in every direction in the metropolitan district of Chicago. The tremendous investment in motor vehicles would then be getting a fair return."

COURT DECISION DELAYS GOTHAM BUILDING PLANS

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Between $65,000,000 and $75,000,000 worth of construction work in apartment houses and tenements already being erected or about to be started will be delayed indefinitely as a result of the decision of the State Court of Appeals upholding the constitutionality of the multiple dwellings act, Tenement House Commissioner William F. Deegan announced today.

The decision reverses a Supreme court ruling handed down June 26, which held the law to be unconstitutional, and as a result of the opinion of the Court of Appeals an emergency situation has been created in the building industry here which has caused Mr. Deegan to cancel all vacations in his department.

Under the multiple dwellings act certain safety and sanitary improvements are made compulsory and Commissioner Deegan ordered all building plans on file in his office, not yet approved, to be returned to architects.

ROBBED IN HOME.

ANDREW STEIN.

Mrs. Minnie Stein, landlady of a rooming house at 137 Ogden avenue, discovered yesterday that $1,500 which her husband, Andrew, aged 60, had hidden in the house had been stolen. She told the police she suspected William Ball, 29 years old, 12 North Curtis street, and he was arrested, but denied knowledge of the theft.

According to Mrs. Stein, Ball rented a room Wednesday night and was given a key which he took away with him. Se believed he learned of the money cache that night and sent a confederate yesterday to steal it.

EJECT LAWYER FROM COURT FOR DEFYING JUDGE

Uproar as Youths Are Ordered Held.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Julius Brown, burglary, sentenced to Pontiac for 1 year to life; Harry Stewart, burglary, sentenced to Pontiac for 1 year to life, by Judge Harry B. Miller.

Municipal Judge Daniel P. Trude of the Felony court and Attorney Frank P. McDonnell clashed in court yesterday and Mr. McDonnell was forcibly ejected from the courtroom.

Persistence in what McDonnell called a determination to "protect my client" caused the uproar. Assistant State's Attorney Frank Mast was questioning Olga Montoya, 29 years old, 2177 Ogden avenue, who had charged that six youths assaulted her when Attorney McDonnell began to object strenuously.

Ordered to Keep Still.

"I'm bidden by the constitution——," again began McDonnell.

"Keep still, I tell you. Go over there and sit down," again ordered the judge.

"I'm here to protect my client," shouted McDonnell. "Your honor is making this a personal matter."

"Yes, it's a personal matter," responded the judge, heatedly. "You don't have to vote for me if you don't want to. Sit down."

Refused To Quiet Down.

McDonnell still declined to obey and instead directed his client, one of the boys accused by Miss Montoya, to waive examination.

Then, by the court's orders, McDonnell was seized by the bailiffs and led from the courtroom.

All six of the defendants were ordered held to the grand jury on $5,000 bonds each. They are Francis Carmen, 2434 Fillmore street; Frank De Ambrosio, 1132 Taylor street; Ralph Grecco, 2175 Ogden avenue; John Steffeenelli, 2239 Taylor street; T. Cogliance, 2247 Taylor street, and John Battista, 2184 Flournoy street.

WRIT ASKED TO HALT LOYOLA U. LAKE FILL WORK

Park District Disputes Legality of Plan.

The North Shore Park district yesterday filed a petition for an injunction in the Circuit court to restrain Loyola university from filling in lake front property to extend its campus. The district contends that the school has not obtained permission from the federal government and that it has no legal right to the area.

On Aug. 1 the university began building a breakwater into the lake 150 feet from the shore. Under the plans the breakwater is to extend 600 feet and the enclosed territory is to be reclaimed. It is estimated that the area would approximate $150,000 in value. The breakwater would cause deposits to be placed on the shore of the campus which would aid the filling in work.

Claim Land for Park.

The petition, drawn for the park district by Attorney Maurice T. Weinshenk, claims the submerged land under the founding act passed by the state legislature in 1908. The act empowers the district to reclaim submerged land where the water is unnavigable, according to the petition, which charges usurpation.

The petition charges that the building of the breakwater damages property of the park district, and also that privately owned near the school. It also declares that the filling in would seriously interfere with lake front drives which might be erected in the north shore.

Want Site for Library.

The reclaimed land is designed to provide a setting for the library building to be erected as a memorial to Mrs. Edward A. Cudahy by her husband, chairman of the board of the Cudahy Packing company. The building is to cost $300,000. Mrs. Cudahy is living.

The petition will be heard by Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski today or early next week.

Burns Fatal to Pair Trapped in Flaming Home

Mrs. Mary Prince, 40 years old, and Simmie Johnson, 41 years old, both colored, who were trapped early Thursday in a fire that destroyed a dwelling at 863 Orleans street, died of burns yesterday in the county hospital.

Reveal Lorimer as Backer of Resurfacing Contracts

William Lorimer, friend of the present city hall administration who was ousted from the United States senate in 1912, was revealed yesterday as the contractor who President Faherty of the board of local improvements intimated is charging an excessive price for resurfacing streets. Lorimer's connection with a company selling a patented paving product was first revealed in May of this year.

As Faherty talked yesterday of the excessive prices, he exhibited a "Pavrite" corporation contract which called for a price of $5.60 a lineal foot for resurfacing on South Artesian street between 63d and 67th streets. Four contractors have assured Faherty that the same work can be done for $2.37 a foot, or a better job for $4.46.

Evades Lorimer Questions.

However, Faherty made no mention of Lorimer's name, and he returned evasive answers when questioned about the connection of the ex-senator with the paving contract.

In his sales talks to residents, Lorimer has characterized his material, "paverite," as the "greatest paving material ever made." Faherty disputed the statement, contending that a two-inch binder course, with an inch and a half of asphalt topping, which he would put down for $4.46, would last much longer.

The importance of laying a good surface on the 600 miles of old macadam streets in need of repair was stressed by Faherty. He said he would ask the city council to investigate all varieties of pavements and test them to determine the best. He expressed the belief that until that is done no more streets should be resurfaced.

Estimates Are Exceeded.

Street repairs have exceeded the estimates made early this spring according to a report submitted yesterday by Deputy Superintendent of Streets Butler. Of the $3,209,000 allocated from the vehicle tax funds for ward use, $1,419,022 was spent in the first six months of this year.

The report contained a recommendation that a special fund of $376,000 be set aside by the council from the vehicle tax money for repairs deemed absolutely necessary. A survey of streets adjacent to schools, churches, hospitals and fire stations will be made and the money expended to repair those in the worst condition.

LANDIS FAMILY, HEADED BY K. M., HOLDS REUNION

The Landises, headed by Kenesaw M., former judge and present czar of baseball, held a reunion yesterday. Maj. Reed Landis, son of K. M., and his cousin, Maj. John, son of Charles Landis of Delphi, Ind., represented the young generation. K. M. and his brother, Frederick, from Logansport, Ind., carried the colors for the senior generation. They met first at the Tavern club for luncheon, then they went to see the White Sox and Athletics play ball, and in the evening gathered in Judge Landis' apartment at the Chicago Beach hotel.

LAKE DIVERSION CUT; MISSISSIPPI IS LOW FOR BOATS

Show Seaway Dependent on Chicago Flow.

While the waters of the great lakes are spilling over, flooding docks, beaches and lowlands, the Mississippi river is lower than in years, and government dredges are being worked overtime in an effort to maintain navigation.

With four dredges constantly at the task of scooping out the channel of the Mississippi below St. Louis, the navigable depth of the river is now less than eight feet, it is reported by the government engineer's office at St. Louis. The government requirements call for a nine foot depth to be maintained constantly.

These conditions were cited yesterday by engineers for the Chicago sanitary district as further proof that in order to have a successful lakes-to-the-gulf waterway, a sizeable amount of water must be diverted from Lake Michigan. The present conditions on the Mississippi cause delays by grounding ships and require costly dredging operations, the engineers say.

Drops 5½ Feet in 13 Days.

Since Aug. 10 the level of the Mississippi at St. Louis has fallen from a gauge reading of 10.3 feet to a reading of 4.8 yesterday morning, a loss of five and a half feet. Part of this fall, it was revealed yesterday by sanitary district engineers, has been caused by a sharp decrease in the amount of water being diverted from Lake Michigan through the drainage canal down to the Mississippi.

Beginning Aug. 5, it was stated by Horace P. Ramey, assistant chief engineer, the amount of the diversion has been gradually reduced while experiments were conducted testing the capacity of the main channel.

It takes five days for water to flow from Lockport to St. Louis, and the engineers pointed out that it was just five days after the sanitary district began reducing the flow at Lockport that the Mississippi began to fall. It was conceded that most of the fall was due to natural conditions, there having been a long dry season in the Mississippi watershed, but a substantial amount, it is believed, may be traced to the cut in the diversion.

What Official Reports Show.

Official reports of the United States engineer at St. Louis show that a withdrawal or deficiency of 10,000 cubic second feet of water at that point lowers the level of the Mississippi one foot. The reports show that when the St. Louis gauge stands at 5 feet, its present stage, the flow of water is 72,000 cubic second feet. At 6 feet the flow is 63,000 c. s. f.

These figures, according to Mr Ramey, prove that if the Chicago diversion were halted, as is demanded by six great lakes states in the suit before the United States Supreme court, there would be a loss of depth in the Mississippi of one foot.

The following table, compiled by sanitary district engineers, shows the rate of diversion at Lockport, in cubic feet per second, beginning Aug. 5, and the St. Louis level of the Mississippi, beginning five days later:

5	10,300	10	10.3
7	10,300	12	9.2
8	9,800	13	8.9
9	9,400	14	8.4

18	6,100	23	4.8
19	5,600	..	...

The river is still falling at St. Louis. On Aug. 22, Thursday, the sanitary distcirt increased its flow to above 10,000 cubic feet per second, and it is expected that in a few days the effect of this increase will be noted on the St. Louis gauge.

Child, Orphaned by Tragedy, Adopted

Gets New Family

Three year old Dorothea Flener, who was left an orphan last week when her father, Clarence Flener, slashed the throat of his wife, Flora, and then killed himself with the same knife on a lonely road near West Chicago, was adopted yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. August J. Penkava, 6130 Nassau avenue, Norwood Park. The proceedings were approved by I. L. Weaver, assistant to County Judge Jarecki.

The Juvenile court recommended that the child be placed with an outside family, rather than with relatives, so that she might escape the influence of the tragedy. Her foster father is a Chicago accountant. The Penkavas were selected from a number of applicants because their suburban home offers pleasant surroundings and because they have a son, August Jr., 5 years old, with whom Dorothea can play.

REDS HOLD CHINA BORDER CITY; AID SENT BY NANKING

Grant 2 Million Credit to Manchurian War Lord.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Despite the Russian denial that its troops had crossed the Manchurian border, Chinese unofficial sources maintained that the Russians still held Tungning, near the eastern border, over which a severe battle was reported to have waged several days ago.

In the meanwhile, China continued today its intensive preparations for any eventuality in Manchuria. The foreign relations committee of the Nationalist government met in Nanking and in secret session drew up proposals for defense which were submitted to the state council.

A Japanese dispatch from Nanking said that $2,000,000 Mexican had been placed at the disposal of Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang for purchase of war materials by the central government. This marked the first time that credit had been extended the Manchurian government by the Nationalist government.

Paralyze Chinese Mines.

PEIPING, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The object of reported Russian military raids on the east and west frontiers of Manchuria is thought here to be the paralyzing of the Chinese Eastern railway by shutting down the coal mines at Dalai Nor, near Manchuli, and at Muling, near Suifenho.

Russian Troops Concentrating.

PEIPING, Aug. 23.—[U.P.] — The Russian leader, Gen. Vasilli Blacher, who was once the soviet advisor of Chinese military leaders, is supposed to be approaching or near the Manchurian border, where Chinese soufces estimate about 30,000 to 40,000 Russian troops are concentrated. Meanwhile the movement of Manchurian forces to the Manchouli area and to the eastern border continues.

Neutrals May Quit Harbin.

LONDON, Aug. 23. — [U.P.] — The Daily Mail correspondent at Peiping reported tonight that foreign diplomats are considering evacuating their nationals from Harbin, Manchuria, in anticipation of serious clashes between Chinese and Russian troops there.

Troop Trains Move Up.

SHANGHAI, China, Aug. 23.—[U. P.]—Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, youthful war lord of Manchuria, has ordered the mobilization of the entire reserve forces of the three northeastern provinces—Heilungkiang, Kirin, and Fengtein—which are estimated to number at least 120,000 men.

Official reports from Peiping indicated that 50,000 Mukden troops were moving northward by way of Taonanfu and that in addition heavily loaded troop trains from Kirin province were moving toward the border by way of Changchun.

Try to Mine Railroad.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—[U. P.]—Chinese soldiers dispersed a gang of Russians laying mines under the Chinese Eastern railroad near Manchouli. It was also reported that the Chinese had captured 40 Russian soldiers during the fighting at Dairen and sent them to Harbin.

Relay Yankee Sailor.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 23. — (AP) — An American sailor named Jedraskiewz of the American Yangze patrol gunboat Panay is reported in dispatches from Ichang to have been severely beaten by Chinese soldiers on Aug. 22. He was believed to have been carried off by the Chinese with a second sailor who went to his rescue, but this was not definitely known here.

The dispatch said that Jedraskiewz was dragged behind a hut by five Chinese soldiers, who beat him with bayonets. Quartermaster Fisher of the Panay rushed ashore followed by the commanding officer of the gunboat. When they arrived at the scene of the disturbance the entire group disappeared, and it was not known whether the Americans had been rescued or if they were still missing.

Information here indicated that the commander of the Panay after returning to his ship reported to higher American naval authorities that the Panay had been subjected to severe firing from Chinese ashore and that he was prepared to return the fire in event that the attacks became seriously heavy. However, no further action was reported.

FRENCH RED LEADER SAYS BUREAUCRACY RULES SOVIET RUSSIA

[Copyright: 1929: By the New York Times.]

PARIS, Aug. 23.—Disillusioned after a visit of 15 months in soviet Russia, Paul Marion, former head of the communist propaganda bureau in France, has returned to Paris and resigned from the Communist party.

"In Russia where I remained from November, 1927, to February, 1929," writes M. Marion in his resignation letter, "I passed a year in close collaboration with the comintern. I was placed in the closest contact with the workers and with the common people and I became completely disillusioned.

"I learned that the Russian situation is not due to transient errors but because behind the façade of rule by the proletariat lies hidden the cruelest and the most hopeless reality of the domination by caste of a few million bureaucrats ranging from Stalin down to his smallest village correspondent.

"I talked with the workers who were the former revolutionary combatants and who considered as the mistake of their lives that they should ever have fought under the false hope of 'gaining possession of power.' I saw experts ashamed of the statistics and predications which they have been forced to formulate and who privately told me that with the increasing separation between industry and agriculture, city and village, that the country was headed not toward socialism, but toward pre-capitalism and barbarity."

South Side Hall Scene of Time Contest.

To the sound of a brass gong and a blare of jazz, Chicago's first rocking chair marathon started at 7 o'clock last night at Croation hall, 96th street and Commercial avenue. Eighteen contestants were in the chairs, four women and fourteen men, the youngest 18 and the oldest 44, not one of them ever having been in such a contest before. Every one believes he can beat the world's record, set in New York recently, of 331 hours, 10 minutes, of continuous rocking.

The rivals brought their own chairs, grandfather arm chairs, wicker porch favorites, commodious leather, hard backed modern, frail sewing rockers. One chap, hoping to win the grand prize and make a trip back to the old country with it, puts boundless faith in his red leather, roomy, elongated affair from Germany.

Cots Behind Chairs.

Behind each chair is a cot, decked in striped blankets, blue silk covers, and white sheets, according to individual taste. One man has rigged up a table for toilet articles, chewing gum, harmonica, shaving materials, all that he might need during the long rocking hours or the ten minute rest intervals allowed after each hour. The girls are in sleeveless dresses and high heels.

The contest is being put on by W. G. Newbould, a promoter. He declared last night that this contest is a forerunner of an "international" one he intends to put on later at the Coliseum. He believes that the scores of rockers made at New York and the yet lesser records set last week at Champaign are to be laughed at by any one serious in becoming the world champion rocking chair rocker.

Dancers Watch Contest.

Croation hall was filled with dancers who took their intermissions watching the long line of rockers at the south side of the floor. Little fatigue was evidenced in the first four hours, the contestants taking their ten minute intervals stretching and laughing or eating sandwiches, only four of them lying down instantly on their cots to rest.

Prizes totaling $3,000 will be awarded in this marathon, Mr. Newbould said. Seventeen of the 18 contestants will have to drop out of the marathon before the final winner is declared.

FIND DEATH A SUICIDE.

Suicide committed while temporarily insane was the verdict returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of Herman Schieve, 46 years old, 4214 Leland avenue, Lyons, whose body was found hanging in his garage on Aug. 15.

TAX ON PERSONAL PROPERTY TO GET ITS AIRING NEXT

Malone Follows Up Realty Reform.

BY CARL WARREN.

Appointment of a nonpolitical committee of four, including three tax experts, to find out what is wrong with Cook county's personal property tax system and to recommend remedial action was announced yesterday by William H. Malone, chairman of the Illinois tax commission.

The membership of the committee will be: John C. Watson, statistician for the Illinois Agricultural association; Prof. Herbert D. Simpson, head of the institute for research in land economics and public utilities, Northwestern university; Prof. Simon E. Leland of the department of economics, University of Chicago; and John H. Walker, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor.

Acts on County Board's Request.

Selection of the investigation committee by Mr. Malone followed his receipt of a resolution, adopted by the county board, demanding that the reassessment of real estate be followed by a reassessment of personal property, railway rights of way, and capital stock.

Although the resolution contained "certain erroneous inferences," Mr. Malone explained that he accepted it as sincere in purpose and has named the committee in an attempt to "meet the request courageously and to let as much sunlight into the problem as an honest, intelligent inquiry will permit." At the present time, he said, the personal property tax situation admittedly is chaotic under a law that is unenforceable.

Only Fraction of Tax Collected.

Although the personal property tax brings in approximately $25,000,000 a year, this amount is only a fraction of the sum which is payable, according to Mr. Malone.

"I have requested the committee to investigate the entire subject and make recommendations," he said. "If then a reassessment is the proper step, it will be taken. If legislative relief is the proper course, it will be asked for. If a constitutional change, as favored by Gov. Emmerson, is the remedy, that course will be urged."

Deplore Financial Situation.

Two more statements deploring the financial situation of the tax spending bodies, as a result of the real estate reassessment, were forthcoming yesterday from the city and county buildings.

Ald. John Clark [30th], chairman of the city council finance committee, verified the prophecy of City Controller Schmidt that the corporate fund will face a $12,000,000 deficit at the end of the year. Michael O'Connor, clerk of the county board, announced that the payment of county employes' salaries after Sept. 1 is problematical. Drastic economies will have to be made if they are met, he said.

AL SMITH'S KIN MAY BE QUIZZED IN BANK SCANDAL

Cashier Tells Who Got $5,000,000 Loot.

New York, Aug. 23.—[Special.]—The district attorney's office investigating the failure of the City Trust company, brought out startling evidence before the extraordinary grand jury today.

Through the testimony of Anthony di Paola, the cashier-treasurer of the bank, and Gennaro dell L'osso, brother-in-law of Francesco M. Ferrari, its late president, it is known now where most of the $5,000,000 lost through the crash went, according to Ferdinand Pecora, acting district attorney. It was learned also, Mr. Pecora said, that "staggering sums" were paid by the bank to a state official and others for favors and that the evidence of crime in this direction was definite and positive.

Two Names Mentioned.

It was understood that a notation in a notebook found in Di Paola's desk, referring to a payment of $30,000 to "Redraw," was explained by the witness, and that "Redraw" was interpreted as referring to Frank H. Warder, former state banking superintendent, who is facing charges of accepting gratuities while in office.

The notation referring to a trip by "Eddie" to Albany to obtain the charter for the then City Trust bank was said to have been explained as alluding to Edward F. Glynn, nephew of former Gov. Smith, who had been retained by Ferrari for legal services, and who received substantial payments in addition to a yearly retainer.

Mr. Pecora said that both Warder and Glynn might be called before the grand jury and that waivers of immunity would be required.

Di Paola Key Witness.

Di Paola, who has turned state's evidence, was the closest confidant of the dead president, and knew where all the money of the bank was going. The flood of worthless notes spread across the records of the bank, it is now learned, was to cover up payments to persons with whom Ferrari deemed it advisable to court favor. These persons are said to have been identified in the testimony.

More than 1,000 members of the Hamilton club, their families and friends, attended the annual picnic of the club, held yesterday in Wayside grove, near the village of Morton Grove. Freak races, horseshoe pitching, baseball, golf, and other outdoor events furnished entertainment in the afternoon, with dancing in the evening.

SAY TARIFF BILL IS 'MONSTROUS'; PLAN FIGHT ON IT

Senate Democrats Meet to Map Campaign.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Holding the tariff bill as revised by Republican members of the senate finance committee to be a "monstrous" piece of legislation, minority members of the committee today mapped out their plan of campaign against it.

They will continue their meetings next week and by the time the senate resumes work on Sept. 4 they expect to be ready with scores of amendments. Senator F. M. Simmons [Dem., N. C.], ranking minority member of the committee, acted as spokesman for the group.

"We all feel it is a monstrous and a very bad bill and ought to be defeated," said Senator Simmons. "We can't make a good bill out of it, but we will do the best we can in trying to amend and improve it."

Others participating in the first conference of the minority members were Senators Pat Harrison [Miss.], W. H. King [Utah], David I. Walsh [Mass.], Elmer Thomas [Okla.], and Tom Connally [Tex.].

Divide Up the Attack.

Senators Simmons and George are to assume the leadership in the attack on the various textile schedules. Senators King and Barkley will be in charge of chemicals, earthenware, glassware, and metals. Senators Harrison and Connally will handle agriculture, sugar, and tobacco. Senators Walsh and Thomas will deal especially with the wood, paper, and sundries schedules.

The Democrats did not reach consideration today of specific items in the rate schedules. The general discussion developed the fact that they are a unit in opposing shifting from a foreign to a domestic valuation basis, to the changing of the formula for the fixing of duties under the flexible tariff and to the continuation of any kind of a flexible tariff.

"The United States valuation scheme is as objectionable as the Smoot sliding scale for sugar," said Senator Simmons. "It would open the door to much manipulation, would introduce much uncertainty and would confer on the commission discretion which is likely to be abused."

Object to Competitive Clause.

Senator Simmons said that the provision of the house bill approved by the Republican members of the finance committee providing for consideration of competitive conditions rather than costs of production in the adjustment of tariff duties under the flexible tariff is "one of the most objectionable features."

Senator Simmons said that the Democrats would cooperate with Republicans who, under the leadership of Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], will attempt to eliminate all increases in industrial rates and confine the tariff revision to agriculture.

Senator Duncan U. Fletcher [Dem., Fla.] accused Republicans of the finance committee of favoring New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Utah and California, and discriminating against Florida. He pointed to reductions in house rates on limes, grapefruit, tomatoes, turnips and rutabagas, peppers, eggplant, cucumbers, wrapper tobacco and china clay, all produced in his home state. As against these cuts he said that the duty on lemons, which are now produced commercially in Florida, was raised.

Pennsylvania, he said, got increased duties on pig iron and the placing of manganese on the free list; Massachusetts, special favors for woolen and shoe manufacturers; New Jersey, a reduction in the duty on China clay, and California, an increase in the duty on lemons.

BOOKS

"Dark Journey" Is Novel About Furtive Passion

It's Written by a Youthful Parisian-American.

"The Dark Journey," by Julian Green. (Harpers.)

Julian Green is an international literary phenomenon whose work is so undeniably the flower of his own background that any clear understanding of him as a writer is not possible without a knowledge of the facts of the life of Julian Green, the person.

Perhaps the most important of those facts is that he is twenty-nine years of age, a very serious person, and still as shy as a boy of fifteen. Two important commentaries on his work are inherent in those facts. They are on the subject matter which he chooses and the manner in which he develops it. "The Dark Journey" is the third long novel from his pen. It, like its two predecessors, is concerned with the terrifying power of passion seething under a surface apparently not only calm but peaceful. That surface is not only the surface of village life, ostensibly so remote from events as to seem not only somnolent but actually asleep, but it is also the surface of human life.

Of the principal characters in "The Dark Journey" there are two that frankly are open and lived upon the surfaces—those of an old libertine and of a young girl who gives herself with complete casualness to all and sundry. But the others are all lives which are lived in subterranean passages of the minds and the emotions. There is a shy, unhappy tutor who suffers so passionately from unrequited love that he commits a sadistic crime of the most gruesome kind and then casually kills an old man who looks at him on the street as he is trying to escape.

There is an old woman so driven by the passion of curiosity that life is entirely twisted out of perspective for her and her passion entirely dominates not only her own life but the lives of every one who comes in contact with her. There is a woman so cold that nothing in the world can touch her, neither love for her child nor pity for the oppressed or maimed, but so vivified by the idea of the tutor's crime that she harbors him, intends to give him money to escape, and finally kills herself, because she realizes that his crime was committed, not because he hated a woman but because he loved her. The surface iciness of her life covers a volcano of passion.

The comment which the ordinary reader would make on the characters and the technique of the author probably would be something about the depressing disillusionment of the book. The ordinary reader might be inclined to look on it as the work of a man who had seen life at its most nauseating. But that reader would forget the most obvious thing about writing—that only to the very young, the very introspective, the very shy is unadulterated tragedy possible or normal.

That is the reason why I say Mr. Green's youth—his serious youth in contrast to the almost blatantly self-sufficient gay youth of the other kind of young men, of twenty-nine—and his own personal shyness explain his choice of material and his technique.

The other contributing factor to his unique power is the fact that he has been brought up in an alien culture and either consciously or unconsciously it has made a much more creative impression upon him than his own native culture. That happened to Joseph Conrad and Michael Arlen.

Julian Green was born of American parents and educated in Paris. The preciseness of French literature, the subjugation of matter to style, the "dry light" that Bacon recommended should be turned on the emotions and which is characteristic of French writing, gripped him with their Ancient Mariner hands. Because they were not a part of his natural heritage they had an effect upon him much stronger than if they had been.

"The Dark Journey" is not entirely a work of genius, but it shows so obviously traits of genius that whether one likes it or not, whether one shudders at its content or sees it merely as a strange psychological study, whether one admires the almost stark style of the author or finds in his rare similes a strangely thrilling beauty, one cannot deny that there is something tremendous in it. That something is rare in the literature of today and something that holds you with all of the tenseness of the most pulsating mystery story as it flows on with the apparent calmness and majesty of an epic. Whatever "The Dark Journey" has or hasn't, there is no denying its strange power over the reader.

"The Sun Cure," by Alfred Noyes. [Cosmopolitan.]

Alfred Noyes never has until "The Sun Cure" dipped into the business of writing novels. His first venture is a gay foolery about a very self-conscious and self-important young curate who, lured by the idea of taking a sun bath, slipped out of his clothes in a ruined house and woke to find that they had been stolen.

ALFRED NOYES.

What happened to him then was not, as the world is wont to say, "nobody's business," but the business of everybody in the countryside, even the business of the great London dailies, for his disappearance happened coincidentally with the stealing of some very valuable jewels from one of the local ladies together with an even more valuable set of false teeth—an object d'art which she never had admitted owning to her fellow townsmen.

Being a modest gentleman the curate felt it impossible to walk through the streets in the charming dishabille in which he was so thoroughly enjoyed his sun bath, and every attempt at begging or borrowing a covering for his complete nudity was frustrated. When he finally stole the clothes off the back of a scarecrow his troubles really did begin, because in the pockets of those clothes was the loot of the burglary. It's a funny yarn, and not in the least the sort of novel that you would think Alfred Noyes would do.

Graham Greene Wins Praise on His First Book

Has 'Delicacy, Fragrance,' Swinnerton Says.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—Two new novels by young writers which are attracting considerable attention in London just now are "The Man Within," by Graham Greene and "The Midnight Bell," by Patrick Hamilton. Mr. Greene's is a first novel of great delicacy and fragrance, while Mr. Hamilton is already favorably known to those who follow new novels and plays as the author of a novel called "Twopence Coloured" and a play called "Rope."

GRAHAM GREENE.

Readers who wish to read what is freshest among contemporary literature upon this side of the Atlantic should bear Mr. Greene and Mr. Hamilton in mind. It is sometimes difficult, amid the conflict of publishers' advertisements and some other kinds of advertisement, to distinguish between books published at a distance which are really making an impression and those which are only seeming to make an impression. These two books are the real thing.

Within the next few weeks we shall be having a great many new novels from those firms which have been conducting colossal competitions for the best. One firm is said to have received entries of six hundred manuscripts; another (Messrs. Hodder and Stoughton) has been compelled to delay its announcement regarding the winner of a religious novel competition because of the enormous number of manuscripts received; while a third (Jonathan Cape) is engaged at this very moment in sorting out the prize winners.

The competition idea may therefore be said to be upon its trial in England at the present time. So far as the size of the cash prizes is concerned, the country has known nothing like these competitions.

If the books offered are not very good indeed we may see a slump in such competitions in the future. Nevertheless, one prize novel is enjoying considerable reclame just now, and this is "A House Is Built," by Barnard Eldershaw. The book was awarded a thousand pounds as a prize by The Sydney Bulletin of Australia, for the best novel submitted by an Australian writer. It is the work of two girl students at Sydney university and is the result of a year's collaboration between the two—Miss Barnard and Miss Eldershaw. The latest amusement in London is the attempt to discover joints in the collaboration; but as both writers have hitherto been completely unknown the results so far have been entirely unsuccessful.

Meanwhile, I am told that the Book society (which is the English equivalent of the Book of the Month club) now has a membership of five thousand; which gives the society a claim to the attention of publishers. Although it has not picked any of the three novels I have mentioned above, it may at any moment discover a real winner, and if it is successful in this its activities will soar to importance.

The English bookselling trade definitely is opposed to the entire book club idea; but as the number of new novels bought each year by the British public has hitherto been negligible, it would seem as if the real opponents of the scheme would be found rather among the circulating libraries than among members of the trade.

And it cannot be said that young writers have any difficulty in getting their work before the attention of the readers of new novels. On the contrary, with competitions, book societies, and hosts of eager reviewers all anxious to discover unknown talent, the beginner now has a series of advantages the like of which has never previously been known.

THE RED NAPOLEON

The most convincing piece of speculative writing since "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea"

A stupendously conceived story of the next war, thrilling and world-wide in its scope. KARAKHAN of KAZAN, The Red Napoleon, believes that the supremacy of the white race must be ended; that all races should be put in the melting pot so that only one human race should emerge: and with this object in view, invades America to kill white men and capture white women . . . New England is devastated . . . Air raids kill hundreds of women and children in Boston . . . New York is in ruins . . . Washington is evacuated and St. Louis becomes the capital . . . Seattle is taken on the west . . . Mexico is invaded . . . 8,000,000 Americans are under arms . . . The nation turns to the Navy . . . United States sea-power holds the fate of white civilization!.

While the premise of "The Red Napoleon" is, of course, imaginary, every detail of the military operations involved has been carefully worked out by army and navy experts to insure fidelity to fact. FLOYD GIBBONS has spent ten years in collecting material for this book. He is the author of "The Red Knight of Germany" and a noted war correspondent who received his baptism of fire with Villa in Mexico.

[NOTICE TO PRESENT MEMBERS: If you did not get your first book free, and wish to take advantage of this offer, you may do so by extending your subscription for an additional year from its present date of expiration.]

A GREAT many people (we know) have been on the verge of joining this organization, but have "put it off" through busyness or oversight. This special offer is made, frankly, at this time, in order to overcome this procrastination, and make it clearly an advantage to you to delay no longer. We suggest simply, that you get full information at once, about what the Book-of-the-Month Club does for you, and decide once for all whether you want to join.

In this connection, here is a pertinent fact that may be important to you. Of the 100,000 people who now belong to the Book-of-the-Month Club, not a single one was induced to join by a salesman or by personal solicitation of any kind. They were simply given the facts as to what it does for book-readers. After reading these facts, they subscribed.

And what sort of people are they? Cabinet members, senators, judges, governors; leaders of industry and finance; the outstanding figures in thousands of communities, large and small. Our list of members, indeed, reads like a "who's who," in every profession, in every walk of life. These are judicious people, in other words, not of the kind to be easily influenced or to follow fads. They know what they want.

This being the case—if you have ever thought of joining this organization—it does seem sensible to get the facts as to how it operates as quickly as possible, and then (if you want to) join before this special "first-book-free" offer expires. So, if you are interested mail the coupon, now, before you forget to do so.

Six distinguished foreign authors now serve as an International Advisory Committee for the Book-of-the-Month Club. The function the individuals in this foreign group perform is to keep our judges advised about what they consider the significant new books published abroad, each in his own country. Chicago, Great, Also Gaudy, in Latest History Dealing with This City's Versatile Reputation.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Chicago, the History of Its Reputation," by Henry Justin Smith and Lloyd Lewis. [Harcourt Brace.]

No city in the world has such a reputation as Chicago. It varies in various parts of the world, but it is always a positive one, of crime, or greatness, or the miracle of its rapid growth, or the bizarre incredibilities of its politics, or its potential beauty, or its stockyards or railroads or its park system.

Whatever the point of view, Chicago is talked about. It never is a negative quality that is ascribed to Chicago. Silence never greets the mention of its name. Chicago is dynamic, whether as "hog butcher to the world" or as a bathtub for the milling thousands that live within its limits, or those who rush to its lake shores from the over-sunny south.

Everything that Chicago does it does in superlatives. There is something at once grandiose and naïve about Chicago. It makes the world laugh and the world remembers its laughs often after it has forgotten its tears.

The story of Chicago is set down by two men trained in newspaper work—and therefore neither over-sentimental nor overdidactic, who have a deep affection for their city, a keen understanding of its still childlike soul as well as its gaudily caparisoned body, and who are detached enough from their subject to be at once thrilled by its dash and amused by it.

Lloyd Lewis tells the story of Chicago before the world's fair. There are moments of real poetry in his narrative. You can feel at times the tremendous power and beauty of Chicago's struggle out of the mud that spiritually as well as physically mired the city—the same power and beauty that is in Carl Sandburg's "Chicago."

Mr. Lewis makes the early history of Chicago an epic. There are gripping moments when he shifts from the past to the preent tense, moments that come alive out of the past and hold you. There are calmer chapters when the surface of life flows gently, when Chicago seemed really to be attaining the "city in a garden" ideal which she took for herself. But in a few pages the zest of youth and the burst of energy of the young city leap into Mr. Lewis' paragraphs. Then Chicago is making you, the reader, as it made the world at large, gasp with surprise, or fear, or amusement. It is the romantic story of a gaudy life that Mr. Lewis tells.

Mr. Smith takes up the tale with the World's fair, and it is of Chicago's adolescence that he writes, with a less fervid, a less ecstatic, a less brilliant pen than Mr. Lewis. He is concerned more with facts than with tendencies or the blossoming of ideals. His story is more the political history of the city than the story of its still groping spirit. Much of Chicago's latter day reputation is the reputation of its politics. Its beer runners, its enormous civic improvements, its buildings, its social life, its poverty and its wealth, its extravagances of action—all seem, from Mr. Smith's point of view, either the outgrowth of its politics or the cause of them. There is less romance in Mr. Smith's half of the book, and more statistics.

"Chicago" reminds one more of Mark Sullivan's "Our Times" than of any book of the last few years, for it is done in exactly the manner of that tremendous piece of work. It is a compilation of research which must have taken years of intense digging to assemble, and it will be, as "Our Times" is, of our times in general, a source book for all writers and students concerned with Chicago. It is a book of unquestioned importance. And, like "Our Times," it is so well done literarily that quite apart from its authenticity and its importance historically, it is a thrilling book to read.

One Volume of Keyserling.

A one-volume edition of Count Keyserling's "Travel Diary of a Philosopher" has just been published. The text is identical with the two-volume edition and includes a translator's preface, a biographical note and an index. The price of the book is exactly half the price of the two volumes.

MORE ABOUT CHICAGO

Here are the joint authors of "Chicago, the History of its Reputation," Henry Justin Smith (the one with the glasses and the intense look) and Lloyd Lewis (the rather dreamier looking one). "Chicago" is a modernistic tapestry of our town, a history not only of its reputation, but of its soul. Both Mr. Smith and Mr. Lewis have another book on the summer lists. Mr. Smith has a novel of Chicago, "The Poor Devil," and Mr. Lewis "Myths After Lincoln," the most important contribution to Lincolniana of the year.

Wife of Professor Writes Novel About Those 'Lone Voyagers'

"Lone Voyagers," by Wanda Fraiken Neff. (Houghton Mifflin.)

Life is a lonely voyage for all humans who do not live by their senses or by some tremendously comforting articles of faith, but the loneliest voyagers of all, perhaps, are those men and women whose intellects are too keen to permit their acceptance of anything without proof and whose souls are so sensitive that, even if they would, they cannot share with other human beings the hunger that is in their hearts.

There are more of that kind of person in a college or a university community perhaps than in any other group of a comparable size. It is such a background that Wanda Fraiken Neff has chosen for her tale of "Lone Voyagers." The surface of such lives is placid. The undercurrents are turbulent. There have been countless tales of college life, tales of jazz and jollity mostly. They are tales of the floating population of education.

There have been few of the stable group of professors and their wives and children. The difference between those two populations is as great as the difference between the typical visitor to New York and the typical little man who has a little wife and lives in a little flat and brings up his little children and does his theater going in the neighborhood movie and never has been on Broadway, except once when Aunt Ethel came to town and wanted to see the electric lights.

The difference is as great as that between the tourist in Paris who walks in six or eight streets, hears his own language spoken everywhere he goes and the typical French family man [than whom there is no one in the world who is more a family man], who shuns the streets gilded by American dollars and who neither eats, drinks nor thinks as the tourists have pictured him.

Mrs. Neff knows her material from experience for she was herself a school and university teacher and she is married to a university professor, Emery E. Neff of Columbia university. If you remember "We Sing Diana," the heroine went to England to study the Victorian working woman. Mrs. Neff herself went to England on such a fellowship and the result of her work there has just been published in a very impressive, and scientific, volume by the Columbia University Press, "Victorian Working Woman," an historical and literary study of women in British industries and professions, 1832-1850. Even so serious a document cannot disguise Mrs. Neff's impressively forthright and interesting style. And it gives the weight of sociological importance to her fiction.

SZUKALSKI WINS IRONIC TRIUMPH IN AN EDITION DE LUXE

Stanislaus Szukalski, Polish artist, who created a sensation ten years or so ago in Chicago with what were labeled radical designs and sculpture, and who has consistently defied academic artists and school teaching in general, is rather ironically being published, very grandly, by the University of Chicago Press.

A book "Projects in Design" has just come from that press in a de luxe edition. It is an attempt, he says, to show specific designs for a new style in architectural and monumental sculpture. In a letter to the university, he say his education is "not equal to the American five grades of public school." But he adds, "I have been an obedient pupil of myself, causing myself no distress or worries."

Of the book he says, "Within it are new motives on new alphabetic values for the transbirth of architecture as an art. The book would be of no use in creatively derelict Europe; there the authority is the right, while in America, in the land of creative virility, the right has the authority."

In response to a request for a list of his honors he replied, "There were some medals and the Grand Prix in the International Decorative Art exposition in Paris a few years ago and some in the Academy of Kracow, but I have lost track and order of them. My sister had them hung on a dog collar and had them dangle until the dog lost all."

Szukalski is an exponent of the theory that the best creative work in art is now being done in America and among the peasantry of central Europe.

Japan Since 1912 Crowded Stage of East's World Story

Another book on Japan—fast, not fiction—is "Japan in Recent Times," by A. Morgan Young. He tells the story of the country since 1912, Japan's part in the world war—especially her much criticized methods in China—her enhanced importance in the comity of nations, the acceleration of her westernization, the orgy of post-war profiteering. He talks of the landmarks in Japanese constitutional government, the rise of labor, the elevation to the premiership of a great commoner and of his assassination. The episodes are dramatic and the whole picture interesting.

MRS. EDDY
The Biography of a Virginal Mind
By
EDWIN FRANDEN DAKIN
Few individuals have ever had an opportunity to weigh the facts regarding Mary Baker Eddy at anything approaching their true relative values. The author has approached his task in the conviction that an effort to understand the reality of Mrs. Eddy is a truer tribute than an attempt to carve her down to the image of a marble saint.

George Washington
By Shelby Little
SHELBY LITTLE'S important and fascinating book strikes an entirely new note in biography. Writing neither as eulogist nor idol smasher and presenting only facts, she has brought forth an astounding figure—a Washington so real that you know him intimately, a Washington who lives and breathes and walks the world of men. Here is biographical achievement of the first order—a great book on a great American. Regular edition, $5. A special, limited edition (oversubscribed) may be had at some bookstores.

Time turns back, and you are there because events are set down just as they appeared to Washington and his contemporaries. Here are Washington's struggles, his triumphs, his bitter defeats, not as we regard them from the perspective of 1929, but as they seemed at Valley Forge, at Mt. Vernon, at Philadelphia, or at New York while the 18th Century was drawing to its long close. The effect is strange and fascinating, much as though time had turned back and left you at the beginning of our national history, facing the man who loomed largest then as he does now.

THE UNITED STATES AND THE BRITISH WEST INDIES.

Any discussion of naval strength between the United States and Great Britain which covers the question will take in the element of naval bases. That will include the British West Indies. They were not considered in the Washington conference, and the Geneva attempt broke up on a cruiser issue without getting anywhere.

Military possessions along American trade routes and near the American shore cannot be ignored. They may be a serious or a minor threat. It depends on conditions. Military prudence never wipes them off the map as negligible. If they are in other hands it remains for the future to tell what their import may be, as it remains for the future to reveal what the methods of warfare will be.

When it was suggested that the United States should buy the British West Indies, as it has bought other territory, including not many years ago the Danish West Indies, the British reply was that it could not consider the transfer of British subjects to another allegiance, particularly without their consent. An alternative suggestion has been made in British public discussion of the subject—namely: to demilitarize the islands on the condition that the United States then guarantee them immunity from attack if Great Britain should find itself in war with another nation which might raid them and use them as bases for attack on British trade through the Panama canal.

The British experience with German raiders in the war would indicate to them the danger of having unprotected islands along trade routes which could be seized and used for commerce raiding. A superior sea power could dislodge the enemy, but it would require a diversion of force to do it, and the injuries suffered might be considerable. Therefore the suggestion that if the islands are not to maintain their own protections their security should be guaranteed by the United States.

This would seem to be in accord with American policy, which desires so far as possible to keep the western hemisphere from being involved in conflicts starting elsewhere. An understanding that the United States had treaty obligations with respect to the British West Indies would be sufficient in any trouble which can be reasonably foreseen.

Demilitarization of the islands is the minimum proposal, of course, by which Great Britain could give evidence of complete good faith in discussing limitation of naval strength and the avoidance of competition. That the United States should enter into a contract to assure the islands protection seems nowise objectionable in American view.

Meanwhile a new aspect of this important subject is disclosed by Waverly Root of the Tribune Foreign News Service, who cables news of the activities of a British company to offset the energetic advance of American commercial aviation in the West Indies and South America. This, it is feared, will soon result in an American monopoly, and representations have been made to the British, colonial, and Venezuelan governments for subsidy and assistance for the British enterprise. It is hoped a network of air communications can be created connecting the British isles, the British West Indies, and possessions on the isthmus and South American coast.

The ambition is natural enough and an inevitable corollary of British possession of territory in this region, but it emphasizes significantly the possibilities of divided control and the desirability of coming to a clear understanding with the British government as to our special interests and hegemony. The best solution is the transfer of the islands to us, with, of course, proper compensation and guaranties.

A COURAGEOUS EDITOR VINDICATED.

There is nothing in the constitutional guaranties of freedom of speech and of the press that excepts criticism of the judicial branch of government. But among certain of the judiciary there seems to be a theory that alone among the agencies of government judges are exempted from adverse criticism. The process of contempt has been employed in some cases to enforce this theory and this is the most obnoxious, because the most arbitrary, manifestation of the judicial fallacy. Judges, however, have the right as citizens to the normal recourses of the law and a California police judge, offended by newspaper criticism, has recently sued an editor in criminal libel.

The criticism was directed at the judge for imposing a small money fine upon a young woman charged with driving while intoxicated, with reckless driving and with possession of liquor, and remitting the fine. The defendant is alleged to be the fortunate possessor of "social standing," and political and financial influence, and the editor called attention to this aspect of the case and contrasted the very lenient action of the judge with his practice in other cases of this character. "Ever since he has been on the bench Judge O'Connor has had the reputation of giving the people the limit in cases in which liquor is involved," Editor Baggerly testified in his defense. "In the Grant case the regular rule was suspended, the eyes of justice were blindfolded. I felt that Judge O'Connor had been awed by the affluence of the girl and had deferred to wealth."

The trial came to an abrupt close—after the hearing had been moved to a large courtroom to accommodate hundreds of spectators—by action of the complaining witness the judge criticized, who said he was convinced Editor Baggerly had acted without malice.

The incident illustrates one of the major responsibilities of editorship. The press is guaranteed by the fundamental law of the land and by the constitution of all the sovereign states of the Union that liberty of utterance which, as John Milton asserted, is the most important of all liberties. The guaranty implies a responsibility to use the liberty guaranteed, to use it subject to the consequences of abuse, to use it for the ends it is designed to serve, for the public weal. Editor Baggerly struck at what he believed to be, and with plausible evidence to sustain his belief, a grose miscarriage of justice. Had the judge criticized possessed the powers of an equity court, he might have tried, condemned, and imposed imprisonment upon his critic under the formula of contempt. His resort to a prosecution for criminal libel was an alternative which Editor Baggerly courageously subjected himself to, as any editor who is determined to do his duty must occasionally do, and he deserves the approval not only of his profession but of all citizens who realize the vital importance of honest and fearless publicity and fair comment upon all public officers, including the judiciary.

FRUIT JUICES.

We are indebted to a member of the Grape Growers' association of Fontana, Cal., for a copy of the local paper displaying an interview with the director of the California Vineyardists' association which will put our great moral reform of prohibition in a new and more favorable light for many ingenuous scofflaws. The director comments upon an opinion which seems to have been had from no less unimpeachable an authority than Prohibition Commissioner Doran, and we may add that this opinion now seems to have the indorsement of the Circuit Court of Appeals of the district of Virginia. In effect, we understand, Dr. Doran has assured the bewildered grape grower that cider and "fruit juices" manufactured for purely home consumption are not unlawful under the terms of the Volstead act, although they may contain more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol, provided they are not "intoxicating in fact," and the director of the Vineyardists' association remarks with a certain satisfaction, which we trust we are not ascribing to him unjustly, that the fact is to be determined by a jury.

The interesting possibilities of this aspect of our great experiment we will leave to our readers, but a further comment of the director of the Vineyardists' association is also worthy of meditation. "The prohibition commissioner's caution," he remarks, "against classifying home made fruit beverages as 'wines' is unnecessary (we are sure of that) so far as the industry itself is concerned. It long since learned to avoid the banned term, and now in California cities and towns consumers are offered various 'types' of 'grape juice.' (The quotes are the director's, not ours.) Barrels of various sizes are delivered at the door containing 'port type,' 'sherry type,' 'Burgundy type' and other types with enticing names but all are designated as 'grape juice.' It is intimated that delightful 'beverages' can be made from them."

The ruling came, says the director, just when shipments are beginning to move from California vineyards, and we may add just as the federal farm board has granted several million dollars to aid the raisin and grape growing industry. And we note also the prediction of the director of the Vineyardists' association that "various factors indicate that this season will be more profitable to growers than the last several years under uncertain legal conditions."

We are inclined to believe that the prediction will be justified and we also expect a notable strengthening of our great moral experiment, not least in the dry states, where "delightful beverages" of various "types" of "fruit juices" will be available, manufactured for "purely home consumption," of course, innocent of the sinister appellation of "wine" and subject as to its legality only to the judgment of a jury of the consumer's peers.

Wine is a mocker, but whosoever is deceived by the notion that a fruit juice is wine is not wise, unless he cannot count on his jury.

Editorial of the Day

A DUBIOUS PROPOSAL.

[Baltimore Sun.]

Senator Carter Glass of Virginia is hard at work preparing a bill he will introduce in congress next winter, restricting speculation in stocks and bonds. For weeks, it is announced, he has been engaged in the task, and may find it necessary to rewrite the measure several times before regarding the draft as complete.

Out of such travail he proposes to produce a bill that will "protect" those who would gamble in securities by having the government fix a prohibitive tax on certain transactions. Specifically, this tax would fall on all resales of stocks and bonds made within a limited period of their purchase.

How the senator proposes to collect the tax is not made clear, but obviously any method adopted would call for the erection on top of the existing machinery of taxation of a vast new bureaucracy of jobholders. For, even were the clerks and bookkeepers of Wall street—already working inhuman hours in busy seasons—required to keep the multitudinous records such a tax would impose, there would still have to be hordes of federal inspectors to check their work, and, perhaps, other inspectors to check the inspectors.

And then to what end? Senator Glass would protect that element of the public which, ignoring the moral of the moth and the flame, will persist in singeing its wings. Well, suppose this bill did succeed in keeping "suckers" out of the stock markets, could he keep them from squandering their savings elsewhere? Would he feel it incumbent upon the government to protect them likewise from dubious speculations in real estate?

Much of the dealings in Wall street may, as the senator says, be gambling, but what with reputable people of all classes—including an occasional bishop—indulging in the sport, it is questionable whether such transactions are downright immoral.

As for his desire to protect the credit needs of the country, it is yet to be shown that with all the activity in Wall street, America is suffering on that score. We seem still to be able to lend billions of credit abroad.

WHEN BODIES WEAR OUT.

ASSUMING the same external conditions it is difficult to find much evidence that the average physical condition in this country today is much more hardy or more enduring than it was fifty, one hundred, or one hundred and fifty years ago. Notwithstanding our longer-life-lower-death-rates and improved health rates, the human body will last only just so long and will stand only just so much.

These conclusions are found in a comparative study of health conditions in New Haven at this time and in East Haven in 1790, made by Russell and Lucia. For the purposes of the study they put to one side death rates—the standard usually employed—and consider life tables. Life tables divide the population into age groups and they consider life expectancies, death rates, and such separately for each age group. This is the basis on which insurance companies base their premium rate.

In 1790 nearly one-half of the population of East Haven was under sixteen years of age. The New Haven population of today is much older than that, but not old enough on the average to bring them to the periods of high death rates. In New Haven the expectation of life of children under fifteen is now much better than it was in East Haven in 1790. But at ages over 20 it is not so good. New Haven makes its poorest showing in comparison with the age forty group. In each group the death rate was lowest at age twelve.

The authors got some light on their study of New Haven from a report of the comparative health of the Romans in Rome in the heyday of that city and of the same racial groups in Roman provinces in Mediterranean Africa in the same period. The Romans living as farmers in northern Africa were healthier than their cousins living the hectic life of the Romans at home.

The conclusion to be drawn from this study is that while our improvements in the care of foods and water, in the disposal of sewage, in sanitation and prevention and in the care of the sick, are making good, we are falling down in such efforts as we may be making to build up bodily vigor.

This may be because we are disregarding genetics or it may be because one's habits are bad. We are not getting enough exercise and such, or it may be because of both factors combined.

RHEUMATIC HEART.

J. M. writes:

1. What causes a rheumatic heart?
2. Is there a possible cure?
3. A doctor told me I have an apex murmur. Is it dangerous?
4. What is the best thing to do for such a condition of the heart?
5. Will diet cure rheumatism?
6. What causes a cracking of the joints?
7. Is a person with such a condition allowed to exercise?

REPLY:

1. Rheumatism. This includes tonsillitis, St. Vitus' dance and growing pains.
2. There is a cure for the symptoms but not for the leak in the valves.
3. It may or may not be. Depends on what goes with it.
4. If you have dropsy and are asthmatic stay in bed. If not, exercise and work properly.
5. No.
6. Any form of arthritis.
7. People with heart murmur should keep physically fit. They must keep their muscles in trim.

NO DANGER FROM ASPARAGUS.

REPLY:

No.

The chemical produced when asparagus is eaten is mercapton. This has no harmful or helpful effect on the organs referred to.

HAVE TUMOR EXAMINED.

Observer writes: A friend of mine has a lump in her left breast as large as a marble which has been there over twelve months and is sore when pressed. She thinks it is a cancer and she also thinks it causes a shortness of breath at times. It is situated about four inches from arm, slanting down. It feels as if it were on an artery running through the breast.

REPLY:

This tumor may be a cancer. It should be examined and operated on if necessary. Delay may mean death.

SEE FRENCH CONSUL.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—[Friend of the People.]—If a naturalized American citizen born in France returns to France for a visit and is made to serve in the French army by the French government, will the United States government uphold the rights of its citizen? A. C.

1. The question as to what the French government will do in case one of its citizens becomes naturalized in this country and returns to France is one that should be taken up with the French Consul. 2. The government of the United States will protect a naturalized citizen in all parts of the world including his native country, unless there be treaties between his native country and this country in reference to citizenship. H. L. ROETHE,
Acting District Director of Naturalization.

WOULD BAR GAS STATION.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am interested in buying a piece of business vacant adjoining a corner. The two pieces are owned by one party. Can I make a legal agreement that the corner which I do not want to buy can never be used as a gasoline station? M. G.

Such an agreement would be more clearly enforceable if a reasonable time limit were specified.

WHO OWNS FENCE?

Chicago, Aug. 17.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A boy builds a fence in his yard of his own material with the landlord's consent. A year later the landlord sells the property. Who has the real claim to the fence? H. B.

If the fence employs posts which are set into the ground, then it is the property of the owner of the ground.

NANCY HANKS.

Meekly as Mary came to Bethlehem,
But with her mother's mission half fulfilled,
She came into the wood. And over them—
Her plodding mate, herself, her son—was spilled,
Through verdant groins and arches far aloft,
Largess of sunshine, honey-sweet and soft.

Humble as Mary's manger was her bed;
Her mother dreams—soared to the stars o'erhead
And searched unseen horizons for their themes.
Thus, building stately castles for her child,
She lived in squalor and was reconciled.

And so she lived in patient solitude,
And so she passed away, without complaint,
Drudging and dreaming in the silent wood,
A pioneer, a mother and a saint,
Solaced and satisfied for that her son
Might some day scale the heights her vision won.

They buried her, there, in the forest gloom,
Mourned her a space, then stolidly moved on
And left the winds to strew her lonely tomb
With withered leaves and drifting snow, anon,
But, sleeping there, perhaps—perhaps she knew

READ IT AND WEEP!

It's really a remarkably interesting story. It's in this week's Liberty. It's a story within a story apparently. The main story is by Fred Palmer and called "How They Drink in Canada," but the story within the story is printed in very fine type, in the center of the page. We got out our pocket magnifying glass and started reading it: "165. Nierstein, 1922 . . . Quart, $2.50; pint, $1.50. 166. Rudesheim, 1921 . . . Quart, $3.35. 167. Liebfraumilch, 1922 . . . Quart, $3.25. 168. Hochheim, 1917 . . . Quart, $3.50; pint—. Burgundy (Red). 196. Beaujolais . . . Quart, $1.75; pint, $1.00. 198. Beaune——" No, no, no, don't tell us how it comes out. We want to read it through and find out for ourself.

Mergers are all the go nowadays. We hope they keep on merging until we get what we want, and that is for the restaurant where we take our frugal noonday luncheon to merge a hot dog sandwich with a chicken sandwich on rye. Why not buy the two kinds of sandwiches? asks you. Because we don't want to eat so much at noon. Merge, lady waitress; do not err, merge in the presence of the customer.

WE READ in the Baltimore Sunpapah where Senator Edge, the newly appointed ambassador to France, has, according to his friends, no qualities for the position except money, Republicanism, and a wife who wants to live in Paris. Which reminds us of what Julius Cæsar said to Brutus: "I can protect myself against mine enemies, but God save me from my friends." And right then Brute pushed the knife between his fifth and sixth ribs.

CUTTING THE PIE

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

WASHINGTON. — Dispatches from the Army of the Potomac state that a considerable battle occurred on Sunday morning, Aug. 21. It was occasioned by the rebels making a desperate effort to drive our forces from their position on the Weldon railroad. The rebels were completely repulsed with heavy losses in killed, wounded, and prisoners. The 16th Mississippi regiment was captured entire, with colonel and colors. Captured men say that Lee declared he was determined to drive our men from the railroad if it cost him his entire army. Our forces are strongly entrenched and there is no prospect of the enemy being able to dislodge them. It is reported that Gen. A. P. Hill of the rebel army was mortally wounded and Keath Lee, son of R. E. Lee, killed in the fighting.

NEW ORLEANS, VIA CAIRO. — On Aug. 16 the land forces of Geh. Granger were within 300 yards of Fort Morgan at Mobile bay.

FORT KEARNEY.—Maj. Gen. Curtis arrived here to straighten out the Indian affairs. There is not a white inhabitant between here and Denver. All have fled to the posts for protection. The country around Denver is reported to be swarming with hostile Indians. Gen. Curtis had a conference with chiefs of the Pawnee tribe who agreed to help him fight the hostile tribes.

NEW YORK.—The Herald has a dispatch from Gen. Averill's headquarters, dated Aug. 22, which states there was heavy skirmishing the day before along portions of Gen. Sheridan's lines in the Shenandoah valley. Heavy firing was heard in the direction of Charleston and the supposition was that a battle was in progress near there.

CHICAGO.—George H. Flavell and Miss Mary S. R. Edwards were married on Aug 22 by the Rev. J. H. Leonard.

LONDON.—Reuter dispatches declare that the reply of President Kruger to the British note is a practical declaration of independence. It is asserted Kruger refuses absolutely to consent to the proposals of Chamberlain for a joint committee, and offers instead a five years' franchise law, a vote for president and eight new seats in the Volksraad for the Rand. Kruger exacts conditions, also, demanding that Great Britain give up for all time her suzerainty rights over the Transvaal.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The state department has been informed that Gen. Otis on his own responsibility has applied the Chinese exclusion act to the Philippines. The action came as a surprise here.

CHICAGO.—Miss Ethel May Van Hise and Hugh Stewart Campbell were married at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Johnson of Glencoe.

MARFA, Tex.—Eight bandits, believed to be part of the Jesus Renteriz gang, which kidnaped Lieuts. H. G. Peterson and P. H. Davis, American aviators, have been captured by Mexican federal troops at Coyame, Chihuahua, according to a report to Col. George T. Langhorne from Mexican Consul Cosme Bengoechea at Presidio. Reliable information here is that the American troops which have been hunting the bandits will be ordered out of Mexico within 24 hours by the Washington authorities.

PARIS.—Herbert C. Hoover, head of the interallied food commission, is receiving hundreds of letters from friends in the United States asking him to consent to be a candidate for the presidency on the Republican ticket. He wrote to a certain well known easterner that he "disliked the idea of going into politics because he feared political life would require him to abandon certain of his principles, and that he could never consent to do."

This mutuality of business interest is further strikingly evidenced by the large number of branch offices maintained throughout Wisconsin by Chicago concerns, and by the steadily increasing number of branch offices being established here by Wisconsin manufacturers.

The lake ports seek to give better service both at home and abroad. Common sense and mutuality of interest prompts a waterway hook-up with our seaport neighbors as a natural solution of a national necessity. Chicago merely sees the light somewhat more clearly than others, and as usual, has the faith to fight for its convictions.

The politicians are doing their utmost to befog the waterway issue. Be generous. Give them a few more red hot cold fact broadsides from Mr. Evans.

SPAIN'S NATIONAL SPORT.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—A native of Brooklyn, who has acquired a reputation as a matador in Spain, longs to popularize bullfighting in America. He bases his hope on the fact that Americans admire nerve. So we do, but it is the type of nerve or courage which faces equal odds and not as in the bull ring where by a series of tortures a poor creature has been goaded to a point of blind fury and weakness. Spain is welcome to the young man. He is not missed in this country. Thank God, we have risen above the sport of the amphitheater and the torture of beasts whose death is predordained. Baseball, football and other athletic contests between humans who engage on equal terms are quite satisfactory to the American sportsman. We leave to others the harassing of dumb brutes to make a Roman holiday. May the time quickly come when our Spanish brethren will see in their national sport a form of cruelty that is holding their people back from taking their place among the advanced nations of the world.

Pitting humans against dumb creatures is inhumane, cowardly and criminal and the lowest kind of unfair sport. The animal in his dumbness is utterly unable to cope with the cruel cunning of man. Bull fights and all sports which must depend upon giving pain and torture to some animal unable to voice its wrongs, should be condemned as cowardly brutality by the right minded citizens of any civilized country.

COSTLY PARKING SPACE.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—Why tax property owners for the widening of streets if the extra space is to be turned over to automobiles for parking purposes? Ever since I witnessed the way Wacker drive was turned over to the parkers I have voted against all bond issues for more roads. I have also gotten others to vote against the same bonds and will continue to do so. ALFRED DAY.

THE CHICAGO PORTAGE.

Chicago, Aug. 21.—I had the honor yesterday to take a number of Jesuit historians, who were attending the convention of Jesuit scientists here at Loyola, to historic spots in and around Chicago. They exhibited great interest in the Chicago portage at Harlem and the drainage canal. They were all greatly pleased to learn that THE TRIBUNE has recognized the importance of preserving this spot, which played such an important rôle for several centuries in the early history of our country as the doorway for missionaries, traders, soldiers and travelers on their way from Canada into the Mississippi valley and on their return.

Almost equal interest was taken in the less definitely, though most probably established site of Father Marquette's winter camp from December, 1674, to April, 1675, at Damen avenue and the Chicago river. The desirability of commemorating that spot with a park and a suitable monument was quickly recognized by these historians and teachers, particularly in view of the paucity of places in our metropolis with historic associations.

Dean, Loyola University.

WISCONSIN AND THE WATERWAY.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—In yesterday's article on the Illinois waterway subject, Mr. Evans indicated how some of Wisconsin's prominent business men feel toward Chicago and its position on the lake level question.

From my many personal contacts with leading manufacturers of Wisconsin's lake port cities, I know that they are in complete accord with the sentiments expressed by the Nash motor officials. Judge Alford sums it up exactly—"The whole region from Milwaukee to Chicago is bound together by indissoluble economic ties, and one city profits from the prosperity and growth of the other."

This mutuality of business interest is further strikingly evidenced by the large number of branch offices maintained throughout Wisconsin by Chicago concerns, and by the steadily increasing number of branch offices being established here by Wisconsin manufacturers.

The lake ports seek to give better service both at home and abroad. Common sense and mutuality of interest prompts a waterway hook-up with our seaport neighbors as a natural solution

UNCLE POM

By HENRY C. ROWLAND

SYNOPSIS.

Penrose Penfold, a wealthy American widower nearing fifty, loves to travel and visit ...ds. When the story opens he is a guest at the château of his sister, Alicia, and her ...band, the Comte de Rennec. He is disturbed by the sight of an intruder—a man in ...ilor costume—who appears on the estate and stares rudely at Maia, the count's lovely ...-year old daughter by a first marriage. Maia admits having met the man in America. ...e says his name is Capt. Seagrave.

Kirby Colton, handsome scapegrace son of an American bishop, an old friend of the ...nrose family, calls at the château unexpectedly and is invited to spend the night. He, too, had met Maia in America.

The count surprises Uncle Pom by telling him Maia loves him, and indicating the ...tch would please him. Maia overhears and confirms her father's remarks. Later ...e confesses that both Kirby and Seagrave are erstwhile suitors. Knowing the two men ...ll of each other, Uncle Pom goes in search of Kirby to avoid a clash. He is attacked ...om behind, knocked unconscious, and robbed of a belt containing priceless diamonds ...d money. That night a prowler in his room tries to choke him, then escapes. Maia ...spects Seagrave of both attacks—he is always in financial difficulties—but Kirby aston...hes every one by giving an alibi for his rival. And he confides in Uncle Pom that ...e has not come to see Maia, but to borrow $1,000 to save an innocent girl from trouble. ...ncle Pom gives him the money.

Seagrave calls and is unabashed when told he is under suspicion for assault and bat...ry. He denies the charges, announces he intends to marry Maia, and infuriates Penfold ...y telling he knows something to her discredit which he could use as blackmail. Pressed ...r details, he declares she is involved in a case of murder and says Colton can confirm it ...ce he was a witness. Colton explains that Maia did shoot a man in America by acci...nt through Seagrave's fault. He challenges the latter to a duel, but later agrees ...th Penfold that this would only bring scandal to Maia's name, and the best thing for ...m to do is to clear out at once.

First, however, Kirby makes a deposition, swearing he fired the shot, in order to fore...tall more blackmail threats, and surprises Penfold by confiding that he has just put ...rough a coup with European financiers that will make him rich. He pays off the libel ...n Seagrave's yacht, hoping to get rid of him, because he feels Maia has more cause to ...ve the man since she asked Kirby not to clear his rival by giving the alibi.

That night Uncle Pom is disturbed by a noise downstairs and, investigating, finds that ...ncle's swords have disappeared. He suspects a duel and begins to search the ...use. He hears Maia and Kirby talking in the moonlight and discovers they are in ...ve. He releases Maia from the engagement and then tries to persuade Kirby not to go ...rough with the duel, but in vain. Seagrave injures his opponent, though not seriously.

Mr. Penfold is still puzzling about the theft of his diamonds when Maia confides she ...s gone on the day she found him unconscious, hoping to use a charge of robbery as ...n excuse to dispose of Seagrave. She did not, however, take the money.

Kirby admits to Uncle Pom that he loves Maia, but fears he has no chance with her, ...s other man encourages him. He has grown fond of Kirby these recent days and would ...ke to see the young pair happy. So he goes to Seagrave, meaning to dispose of him once ...d for all. He charges him with attack and robbery and declares he does not believe ...s figure in yachting costume, referred to in Colton's alibi, was Seagrave at all. He lays ...wn these terms: He will make no charges against Seagrave if the latter will promise ...ver again to trouble Maia. Seagrave gives his word and they part friends, Seagrave ...mitting that he did make the attack.

INSTALLMENT XXX.

THE FINAL ADMISSION.

Mr. Penfold went ashore presently. As he was stepping into his car, he ...ard the clanking of the yacht's chain as she weighed anchor. His heart ...ght on the drive back to the château. He did not regret his loss of Maia ...s a bride, a wife, because he had felt all along that this relationship must ...nd with the sweeter, previous one of courtesy uncle. How could a man ...f middle age feel toward a girlish wife who persisted in calling him "Uncle ...m"? It was unesthetic—not in accord with the fine delicacy of arbiter ...legantiarum with which he had pleased to invest himself.

No. Such a situation must have contained always a false note. Maia ...ust have felt it by repercussion. Youth was incapable when ardent of ...ppreciating that the sentiment of age for beauty can be pure and rare, of an ...mpersonal pleasure that a conjugal relationship could scarcely help but ...ullify.

The trouble was that the more beautiful and rare and impersonal this ...motion, the less it would content a girl of Maia's temperament.

Curiously enough, it did not occur to Mr. Penfold that through keenness ...f wit he had brought off a brilliant coup of detective work.

There was still one large fly in the amber of Mr. Penfold's content. He ...as not pleased with Maia's conduct in the affair, and his previous faith and ...ld trait he most admired in her, a sweet and limpid candor, was shaken. ...he lionesque quality she had first shown in facing her pursuer had been ...rne out too consistently with the stealthy traits also possessed by that ...ame in her method of dealing with him later. Maia's admitted intention ...f bribing Seagrave to silence and backing this bribe with a counter blackmail ...ked on Mr. Penfold's code of ethics.

Another problem that had escaped Mr. Penfold during this last inter...iew with Seagrave was why the man should have brought his engineer with ...m on his first reconnaissance instead of coming alone. This looked almost ...s if Seagrave had come prepared for some sort of high-handed attempt in ...hich he might need help, just as when he had come to the midnight ren...ontre. It was possible that he actually intended to abduct Maia, staking ...verything on his being able to coerce her later into admission that she had ...one with him of her own accord. And Mr. Penfold wondered if perhaps Sea...rave might not have some reasonable grounds for counting on this.

There was only one possible excuse for Maia, but that, as Mr. Penfold ...ew it, was an ample one. She might have acted from a high sense of pride, ...f sacrifice and honor to save Kirby from being her scapegoat in the New...ort affair. Mr. Penfold remembered his disagreeable shock at the cool way ...n which she had seemed to accept Kirby's deposition, without protest, with...ut any evidence of gratitude or the appreciation that a girl of any heart ...ould have been expected to show at this chivalrous gesture on the part of ...er would-be-well. Maia must have appreciated the fact that it might go hard ...ith Kirby to face such a charge. An act of homicide that could readily be ...xcused in a young and inexperienced girl entirely foreign to her surround...ngs was bound to be more sternly dealt with in the case of a man of Kirby's ...eputation, past record for profligacy, and entirely familiar with conditions. ...Maia might have realized all this, and determined that at any cost to herself ...Kirby should not be let pay the penalty of her own act.

This theory Mr. Penfold felt to be entirely consistent with Maia's char...cter and traditions. Noblesse oblige was no idle slogan to a girl born and ...ed in her mediæval surroundings and with a father who was a sort of ...rowback composite of D'Artagnan and Don Quixote.

And, after all, to strike a lower note, Seagrave had something, a domi...ant quality, compelling force and physical allure. The pirate motif when ...e pirate was well born.

This redeeming theory cheered Mr. Penfold considerably, because it was ...ways easier for him to believe the best of everybody, find the saving grace, ...e precious principle in the filtrate of his analysis of people, himself included.

Let everybody be exculpated, Mr. Penfold felt benignantly—absolvo. He ...raphorically spread his hands with a gesture of absolution, like a genial ...ntiate. Perhaps really he should have been a bishop himself rather than a ...olonel.

His softly purring car drew up before the perron and he got out and ...alked around instead of through the house. It was the hour for a tasty ...ffle with Bertrand, to whose aphorisms he was in the bland mood to ...sten. Then coming silently abreast of Kirby's window and seeing the terrace ...mpty, Mr. Penfold was moved by the impulse to relieve that sufferer's mind. ...The volets hooked together, except for a four inch aperture, suggested ...hat as the room was darkened thereby, Kirby might be asleep. Mr. Penfold ...assed the doctor's car on his way back.

He tiptoed softly to the window and peeped through the slot between ...e iron shutters to see if Kerby slept. Slowly the details of the darkened ...om took definite form as Mr. Penfold's vision grew accustomed to the gloom. ...But this gloom he then discovered referred only to the absence of strong ...ght. To the clairvoyant eye the room would have been rich in couleur ...e rose. Kirby was scarcely visible, almost totally eclipsed by Maia, whose ...ading contours were on Mr. Penfold's side of her stricken champion. She ...as kneeling, her arms around Kirby's neck and his uninjured one flung ...ross her shoulders. Her cheek was against his, her face partly buried in ...s pillow. Both were so still that if it had not been for the low muffled ...murmur of Maia's voice Mr. Penfold might have received the horrified impres...on of a suicide pact here consummated.

Even as it was, he wondered how Kirby was able to breathe with so much ...f Maia in a suffocating position. Perhaps he did not need to breathe. Pos...ibly at that moment his state of ecstasy transcended the necessity for such ...a vital function. It was evident, however, that he was still alive, as his ...hand was softly tapping a golden patch of Maia where the neck of her dress ...was cut out a little at its base.

Just as a word to the wise is sufficient, so also may a glimpse of the ...rue be all revealing to the understanding. Here was the question answered ...the final admission to what Maia had, no doubt, felt for some time past ...without admitting it to herself. For that reason she had previously resented ...Kirby, his hold on her heart, the lure that she had fought against in a man ...of her reason told her must be unworthy of any such emotion. The sort of ...frivolous irresponsible with no aim or ambition beyond ephemeral pleasures ...that were not even harmless. Something between a buffoon and a social ...parasite, little brother to the rich and a mischievous little brother at that. ...The sort of man to whom a girl of Maia's ideals and traditions could not ...possibly surrender her high heart.

GASOLINE ALLEY—ANOTHER CAREER PETERS OUT

WHAT IS THAT, LARRY?
IT'S A CRADLE. SOME OF THE GRAIN WAS LODGED BY THE WIND AND THE BINDER CAN'T HANDLE IT. SO I HAVE TO USE THIS.
THEN I HAVE TO TIE IT INTO BUNDLES. BY HAND WITH A STRAND OF GRAIN. ALL THE HARVESTING USED TO BE DONE THIS WAY.
THEN CAME THE REAPER THAT DIDN'T BIND IT AND NEXT THE SELF BINDER, WHICH DOES. OUT WEST THEY HAVE MACHINES THAT THRESH THE GRAIN AS WELL AS CUT IT.
I WAS GOIN TO BE A FARMER BUT MAYBE IT'S TOO MUCH TROUBLE.

Good morning!

"The Four Feathers" has a wonderful animal sequence; it has a lonely beleaguered fort on the desert. Therefore, as the ads inform you, it is reminiscent of "Chang" and "Beau Geste." Otherwise it is itself—a very good picture, its jungle and animal stuff photographed by Meriam Cooper and Ernest Schoedsack, who trained their cameras so expertly on "Chang."

Most of you are familiar with the story by A. E. W. Mason. If not—it sings of the soldier son of a gallant general who is "afraid of nothing but fear,"—an obsession which causes him to tremble at the thought that, in the face of danger he MIGHT prove unworthy of the traditions of his martial family, and makes him plan to quit the British army at a time when he believes that he alone knows his company is soon to be summoned for active duty on the Soudan.

But he is careless with a telegram and his three best friends learn his secret. Believing that cowardice alone is father of his intention to retire to private life, they send him three white feathers with their cards. The girl he loves—the daughter of a soldier, hands him another.

How the unhappy youth redeems himself in the eyes of the world and his own estimation is screened graphically.

This is quite a stirring story, aptly staged and acted. The plum rôle belongs to Richard Arlen who handles it well, though, somehow or other, he doesn't make your heart ache for him as much as you feel that it should.

I would like to tell you about the animals and what they do, but resolutely curb my desire—this sequence being, I thought, the film's big act.

You will find "The Four Feathers" excellent entertainment in the main.

French Women's Yearly Beauty Bill 300 Million, Statistician Reports

PARIS, Aug. 23.—[U. P.]—The cost of keeping beautiful for the women of France has just been computed by a statistician at $300,000,000 annually.

No other women in the world, not even Americans, spend so much in the quest of beauty, it is declared.

The ubiquitous lipstick, tiny as it is, works out the most costly in the aggregate, sharing a third of the total. Thus, $100,000,000 is paid out to keep the French woman's lips nicely rouged and bow shaped. Other items in the bill comprise:

Face powders.
Skin lotions.
Eye lotions and eyelash preparations.
Hair lotions, etc.

These statistics follow the disclosure that manufacturers of beauty preparations in France rank with automobile magnates as the richest men in the country, the principal honors for wealth being shared by the auto king, Andre Citroen, and the manufacturer of cosmetics, Francois Coty.

Just why it costs so much for French women to look beautiful is explained by the continual changes in facial makeup.

Crane Expedition Sends Rare Birds, Beasts to Museum

Rare species of tropical birds, mammals, and reptiles were received by the Field museum yesterday in a shipment from the Crane Pacific expedition, now in the Philippines. The trophies were obtained in the Solomon islands, Celebes, and New Guinea.

About 500 birds, notable for their brilliant plumage, and including parrots, parrakeets, hornbills, cassowaries, and cockatoos, are in the collection. There are also specimens of pygmy geese, penguins, drongos, curious frogmouths, orioles, bee eaters, and fly catchers.

Outstanding among the mammals obtained were a black Celebesian ape with no tail. There also was a babirusa, an almost hairless wild pig with four tusks which curve in opposite directions in the manner of the handles of a Chinese teapot. A crocodile skull more than 30 inches long, which may prove of record size, is another specimen.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Miss Louise Burr, 1215 Lunt avenue, was awarded $5.

The Question.

The Answers.

Lew Tarre, 3211 Pierce avenue, actor—I don't mind it, because it doesn't make me nervous in the least. Many golfers become self-conscious when being observed by an audience; in fact, ninety per cent of all persons are too nervous for their own good. An audience puts me on my mettle, and I particularly enjoy it if I make a good drive.

Miss Vera Connell, 2970 Sheridan road, nurse — It has been some time since I have played golf. With 7 o'clock in the morning until 7 o'clock in the evening for hours on duty, the time for me is not propitious for golf. I did not mind having a crowd of observers at any point on the course, and I am left handed.

W. D. Keefer, Winnetka, Ill., engineer—No, I don't mind. I am a rotten player, couldn't be much worse, so I am nothing to watch. But other people are about as bad as I am, so what difference does it make? Golfers are supposed to be good sports.

Miss Marie Sturzenegger, 1508 53d street, Kenosha, Wis., artist—I never care. I don't mind people watching me because I don't take golf seriously. I play merely for the fun there is in it. If while I am playing I see a bird that interests me I will stop playing to see what it is. I also stop to examine an unusual flower.

Harry W. Harder, 64 West Randolph street, salesman—It isn't the audience that bothers me; in fact, the larger the audience the greater the kick I get out of it. My troubles are in finding time to play as often and as much as I would like. Observers do not bother me in the slightest when I am playing golf, bowling, baseball or anything else.

Annie Besant Predicts Hunger Revolt in India

There is grave danger of a revolution in India and, unless her starving millions are given relief, it is not far away, Dr. Annie Besant said yesterday. Dr. Besant, Theosophical leader, came to Chicago for the world congress of Theosophists and the 43d annual convention of the American Theosophical society, which opens this morning in the Stevens hotel.

Dr. Besant has spent years in India teaching theosophy. She said that recently she had been trying to help India obtain political measures by which the country may throw off the "yoke of England."

"It is estimated that 70,000,000 of India's 300,000,000 population are actually starving," Dr. Besant said. "Sixty per cent of all her people, according to a recent report, have had less than three-quarters the nourishment necessary to health. They must be freed from such conditions or revolution is inevitable."

The eyes of the 82 year old English woman were bright and very grave as she peered up at her interviewers. Her white bobbed hair hung over her forehead. She was dressed in a white robe with gold design. Her gestures and her voice are still vigorous.

"England's rule has throttled the education of India and the fine civilization she had before England came," she continued. "The trouble started when the village system, under which India prospered, was destroyed."

Dr. Besant was asked the cause of the widespread starvation at the present time. She answered without hesitation: "Taxes."

"The taxes," she continued, "are no longer based upon the crops, but on the land, and they must now be paid in money. They are very, very high. A bad crop will bring intolerable conditions and revolt may result.

"I have been trying to help obtain the dominion system of government for India—her only salvation. I hope the revolution will not come, for the people are in no way fitted to fight. Millions of them would be actually physically too weak to bear arms.

"If a revolt were to flare up, the English, with their bombs from the air and their land and water machines of war, would simply cut them down like grain before a scythe."

ROME, Aug. 23.—(AP)—This city today gave a Roman welcome to the visiting party of members of the American Legion, headed by National Commander Paul McNutt. Their day was filled with visits and receptions. The climax was an audience with Premier Mussolini, who was wounded during the world war.

The Legion men then visited Prince Boncompagnie Ludovisi, governor of Rome, at the capitol and received from him the freedom of the city. Flags of the two nations were exchanged between the American and Italian veterans and the day closed with a dinner at Ostia-by-the-Sea. They were guests at a restaurant at the end of a pier overlooking the water.

Red Cross Reports Summer of Few Big Public Disasters

After administering nearly $8,000,000 in the last fiscal year in aiding disaster victims, an unusual lull in disaster relief during midsummer is being noted by the national headquarters of the American Red Cross, according to an announcement received yesterday at the Chicago chapter.

In the year ended June 30, the Red Cross expended from its treasury $433,788 in the relief of disaster sufferers, the greatest operation of the year being the relieving and rehabilitating the victims and areas of the great West Indies and Florida hurricane of last September. Twenty smaller disasters since that relief closed in March, chiefly floods and tornadoes, were cared for by the Red Cross.

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Well, girls and boys, you saw the Cubs won another yesterday, getting a clear eleven game lead on the Pirates—with Hornsby and Wilson boosting drives over the fence for homers just for good measure. And if they win from the Phillies today, and clean up tomorrow's double header with the Reds at Cincinnati tomorrow, won't they be sitting pretty when our party turns out Monday to welcome them home—with scalping the Reds as the business of the day?

But I know you have all that figured out—you're as anxious to hear the National league pennant flapping over the Cub Park as I am—and what you want to know is who my two hundred guests will be on Monday afternoon when the umpire calls "Play Ball!" There's only one day to wait to know that—tomorrow's TRIBUNE will tell the story. And if your name is in the list, won't you be happy—and won't you be counting the minutes until Monday afternoon?

Well, there's not much more to say now, with the important news coming out tomorrow. But I know you'd like to read some of the good letters I've received. So I'm printing one from a girl:

"Ladies and gentlemen, we are now broadcasting from the press box at Wrigley field, the home of the Chicago Cubs. This is station W-G-N, the Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel, with Quin Ryan at the microphone. Pat Piper, the field announcer, is ready to announce the batteries. Here it is! 'For Chicago, Bush and Taylor. For Cincinnati, Kolp and Donohue.'

"You have just listened to Pat Piper, the announcer. We have a crowd of about forty thousand people and down in the lower deck I can see Miss Sally Joy Brown and her two hundred lucky boys and girls attending the game today. You know, folks, when Cincinnati comes to town there is war.

"It is now the ninth inning with the Cubs trailing four to seven, and two Cubs are out. Looks like a lost game, friends—but wait! English hits a single, goes to second on Cuyler's scratch hit. Cuyler is now batting second in the lineup. Now Hornsby is safe on an error. Bases are loaded now, maybe there's something doing, with Hack Wilson at bat.

"Here it comes—first ball pitched is called a ball. There goes the pitcher's hands up in the air again—the ball is pitched—and the ball is hit. It's a home run and the Cubs win the ball game eight to seven!

"Please, Sally, invite me, because I have never seen the Cubs in action and that's what I hope we will see.

"J—— F——."

Repeats Fanatics Injure the Dry Cause.

The Rev. John Thompson, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church, yesterday assailed Attorney John Thornton Gilbert for having permitted publication of correspondence between them regarding the bucket shop speculations of Bishop James Cannon Jr. of Virginia, Washington, D. C., and the Methodist church, south. Dr. Thompson had called the bishop an unworthy leader. The fanaticism of Bishop Cannon is hurting the cause of prohibition Dr. Thompson declared yesterday.

Dr. Thompson recently preached a sermon in which he said Bishop Cannon brought reproach on the Methodist church and the cause of prohibition and left himself open to charges of covetousness. Mr. Gilbert, the son of a South Carolina Methodist minister, withdrew from Dr. Thompson's church after protesting against what he regarded as an attack on Bishop Cannon.

Mr. Gilbert's letter, asking transfer of membership to St. James' Methodist Episcopal church, and Dr. Thompson's reply were printed in THE TRIBUNE. Mr. Gilbert called the attack un-Christian and uncharitable, Dr. Thompson defending what he had said. Dr. Thompson in a written statement yesterday said he would leave the public to judge of the type of "mind and malice of a man who would release private correspondence." The statement continued:

"Mr. Gilbert has been a very infrequent worshiper at the First Methodist church. I do not suppose that more than 5 per cent of our membership know him. Those who read this correspondence will be wondering who he is. But this is no accusation against him.

"I have answered both his letters. The facts are I never made an attack on Bishop Cannon. I am glad to have this opportunity to say that publicly. I was preaching on 'Are We Pagan or Christian,' and mentioned covetousness as an old sin, characteristic of both pagans and Christians, and used Bishop Cannon's case, which was just then coming out in the papers, as enforcing the necessity for us to take heed of Jesus' words, 'Beware of covetousness.'

"I observed carefully that that was on the assumption that the newspaper reports were correct. Later developments have shown them to be correct. There was no attack upon him whatever. Perhaps it would have been safer to use Judas as an illustration of the danger of covetousness."

Dr. Thompson then said Attorney Gilbert had not heard the sermon in question, and also did not hear any of his seven sermons on the moral issues of the Smith-Hoover campaign of 1928, which caused his life to be threatened. Dr. Thompson implied Mr. Gilbert was seeking publicity. Then he continued:

"Mr. Gilbert would have had me put prohibition into every sermon. His leaving is to me a relief, and most pastors have had men of that type. Jesus' life might have ended very differently if Judas had withdrawn.

"I am a prohibitionist, but frankly say now that fanaticism is hurting the cause. Mr. Gilbert is a good, well meaning man, a man I have respected, but, frankly, it is difficult to understand the type of mind that would release private correspondence to the public press without mentioning it to the other party involved in the correspondence."

Christianity Facing History's Hardest Test, U. C. Professor Avers

Hyannis, Mass., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Prof. A. Eustace Haydon of the University of Chicago declared today before the Institute of World Unity here that the Christian religion was facing the greatest crisis in its history.

The western world, Prof. Haydon said was not accepting the bitter refusal of Christianity to make adjustments to the new era of civilization which began with the renaissance. One by one, the determining factors which make civilization have broken away from the control of religious idealism, according to the speaker.

"The new civilization," he said, "of the era of applied science and industry has been created without any consciousness of a religious vision or any consecration to the ideal of making a world in which the ordinary man's dreams of a worth while and full life can be realized."

British Women Tennis Stars Will Play Here

BY THALIA ——.

The South Shore Country club, which is gay and sociable for its members the year round, with parties and dances every little while, and the Folies and the horse show for the more spectacular activities, is to be have an extra excitement this season.

A two day program of women's tennis matches to be played by the English team that played recently in the Wightman cup matches at Forest Hills, N. Y., giving the Americans a hard tussle for their close victory, and the four ranking middle western players is to take place on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons, Sept. 3 and 4. The matches will begin at 2:30 o'clock each afternoon and will include both doubles and singles games. Of course, there will be numerous luncheon and dinner parties besides.

The matches should be exceptionally thrilling ones, as the British players are highly proficient and hard-playing contestants. Miss Betty Nuthall, who held Helen Wills to one of the closest games of her career in the recent matches; Mrs. M. Watson, who with Mrs. Leo Mitchell won the women's doubles championship at Wimbledon this year; and Mrs. Shepherd-Baron and Mrs. Phillis Covell, runners-up for the Wimbledon doubles, comprise the English team.

The Americans will be Miss Clara Rike and Miss Ruth Oesman of Cincinnati, O.; Miss Katherine Wolf of Indianapolis, Ind., and Mrs. Barbara Kelly of Cleveland, O. Mrs. Watson and Mrs. Mitchell, by the way, defeated Helen Wills and Edith Cross in the doubles of the Wightman matches.

The national polo pony show is to take place at the Oak Brook Polo club at Hinsdale this morning.

Mrs. Henry Eager Mason and Mrs. Rodney Starkweather Mason of Highland Park gave a tea yesterday afternoon for the bride of the Mason family, Mrs. Arnold Dale Kerfoot Mason, at Mrs. Henry Mason's residence.

Mrs. Mason's mother, Mrs. Everett J. Harrington of Newton Center, Mass., who is visiting here now, and Mrs. William J. Louderback, Mrs. Rodney Mason's mother, assisted the hostesses to receive, and the women presiding at the tea tables included Mrs. George Allen Mason, Mrs. William A. Field, Mrs. Van Gorder Kirk, Mrs. Frank G. Gardner, Mrs. Charles Buell, Miss Sarah, and Miss Jane Louderback.

The marriage of Miss Louise Fitch Wardwell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fitch Wardwell of 5423 Hyde Park boulevard, to Lieut. Col. Norman Jay Boots of New York took place at noon yesterday in the chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church. The ceremony was attended by a small group of friends and relatives, and was followed by a reception at the residence of the bride's parents. Summer flowers and ferns decorated both the chapel and the house.

The bride wore an aqua marine crepe frock and a small brimmet filet hat of matching color, and carried a colonial bouquet of lillies of the valley and gardenias. Her matron of honor, Mrs. Tonset David of Akron, O., wore a peach colored chiffon dress trimmed in rose, and a biege felt hat. She held a cluster of Talisman roses and larkspur. Dr. Ralph Boots was best man for his brother. Col. and Mrs. Boots will spend their honeymoon at Lake Louise, after which they will reside in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Fisher of 1313 North State street are to introduce their daughter, Miss Ruth Fisher, to society at a tea at their country residence, "Highbush," 1060 Sheridan road, Hubbard Woods, on Sunday, Sept. 8, from 4 to 7 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Clive Runnells and Mr. and Mrs. Persifor Frazer of New York City were the guests this week of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Smith (the former Mrs. Lawrence Viles) on board the Smith yacht Blackbird. The Blackbird is reported to be one of the largest yachts in the bay this season, and cruised out along Cape Cod to Provincetown. The Runnells recently have had as their guests Mrs. Runnells' brother, Pierce Withers of Houston, Tex.; Mr. Runnells' sister, Mrs. Robert Banks, and Miss Harriett McLaughlin.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Crone of 1209 North State street and their daughter, Miss Helen Crone, have departed for a motor trip in the east. They are to be the guests of Mrs. William M. Kimball at Swampscott, Mass. Their son, Charles Jr., is also to go east, but will return shortly.

Mrs. Frank David Fulton of Winnetka writes that she and her daughter, Miss Helen Fulton, are at the Lido, in Venice, Italy. Miss Fulton, who is the second ranking tennis player in the Chicago district and third in the western district, attracts quite a crowd when she plays with her instructor.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special]—Mrs. Barnett, wife of Maj. Gen. George Barnett, returned to her country place, Wakefield Manor, on the Rappahannock today, after spending a few days in town. Maj. Gen. Barnett is at the naval hospital here for a short time.

Rear Admiral Dr. Cary T. Grayson, who was physician to President Wilson, sailed today for Europe to join Mrs. Grayson and their sons in Europe, where they have been all summer. They will return here after the shooting season in England.

Society in Washington is quite excited over the announcement that the premier of England, Ramsay MacDonald, will be accompanied to this country in October by his daughter, Miss Ishbel MacDonald. During their stay in Washington, they will be entertained at the British embassy with the ambassador, Sir Esme Howard and Lady Howard as their hosts.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY FRANK RIDGWAY

Hungry fruit trees need more than a few shovelsful of commercial fertilizer. Orchardists who produce big red apples that catch the consumer's eye use cover crops as well as ready mixed plant foods.

Too many orchard owners like to do things up in a hurry and expect their fruit trees to gobble up food like pigs, so they give them what is known as a quick acting, nitrogenous fertilizer. No one doubts the value of these fertilizers when they are properly used, but the pomologists of the University of Illinois have decided that quick acting, nitrogenous commercial plant foods actually may deplete orchard fertility unless the grower recognizes their limitations and plans his soil program accordingly.

Growing cover crops is one thing that must be done in cultivated orchards to keep up the humus of the soil, according to V. W. Kelley of the state agricultural college. He explains that cover crops—crops sown in late summer to cover the land in the fall and winter—in addition to maintaining or increasing the humus content of the soil, prevent the leaching of soluble nutrients set free by germs during the summer and fall. They also lessen destructive erosion so common on orchard slopes. Cover crops give the roots some protection from low temperatures during winter and they help the tree mature its wood.

Oats, cowpeas, soy beans, and buckwheat are crops recommended for orchards by Mr. Kelley. While all of these crops make rapid growth during late summer and fall, they do not live through the winter to come up in the spring and compete with the trees for food and moisture.

This authority does not consider rye a good cover crop because it lives through the winter and comes out extremely early in the spring. He does not approve the practice of depending on the natural growth of grass and weeds because they do not give uniform protection to the orchard.

Women's Peace League Considers Means for Balking the Next War

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PRAGUE, Aug. 23.—In the event of a new world war, the International Women's League for Peace would not hesitate to order its members the world over to engage in a program of passive resistance.

Representatives of 25 countries are gathered here for the sixth international congress of the league which convened today with Miss Jane Addams as chairman.

The famous Chicago welfare worker outlined the existing agencies of peace but asserted that in a crisis the women's attitude is a deciding factor. "The league in such a case will order its members not to co-operate in any branch of war service, even working in factories, running street cars and buses."

Mrs. Laura P. Morgan of New York, who with Miss Addams and Mrs. Emilie Balch of Boston, is among the leaders of the American delegation, made much importance of the Kellogg pact, saying that since war was declared illegal the moral status of those who resist is easier to define.

Shower Follows Hopi Indians Snake Dance to Honor Rain Gods

Winslow, Ariz., Aug. 23.—[U. P.]—Tourists who had traveled through sun parched roads to look at the Hopi Indians' snake dance to the rain gods, worked their way back through mud to the paved roads tonight.

Soon after dawn today when the final ceremonies were under way, the sky became overcast.

Tonight, rain was falling and the Hopis began making merry. Nearly 4,000 whites traveled to witness the snake dance. For the next three days the Indians' merrymaking and feasting will be continued.

Hundreds of Chicagoans are coming back from the woods, the lakes, and the mountains, back from weeks of play remote from the city's noise and worry. Refreshed, bronzed from outdoor living, a sparkle in their eye and a quickened step, they plunge into the workaday work with a new vigor. That's what a real vacation does for one.

It's tough to be a Maxwell street resident when summer comes. There's no money for vacations in streets like that, where money doesn't grow on trees.

It costs only a few dollars to send a tenement mother or child to Camp Algonquin for two weeks. That seems a very small bit compared with the vacation expense of the Chicago business man or a member of his family to the north woods, or the lake country.

Chicagoans who have the finances to run away from the city's heat may find a way to express gratitude for good fortune by helping those who are underprivileged. Ten dollars means two weeks of sunshine, unbroken sleep, good food, and freedom from responsibility for a tenement mother or her child. Ten dollars would scarcely be missed from the purse of the average business man or woman.

A few weeks remain to give the less fortunate Chicagoans outings at Camp Algonquin. Contributions will be gratefully received by the Camp Algonquin in care of the cashier of THE TRIBUNE.

Expect 500,000 to Enroll in Chicago Public Schools

The public schools' enrollment this fall will approach 500,000 students, according to Superintendent Bogan. The enrollment forecast estimates 92,266 for the senior high schools, 29,127 for the junior high schools, 263,000 for the elementary schools, 11,000 for the continuation schools, 2,389 for the corrective schools, and 1,600 for the Normal college. Six new elementary schools will be in use when the schools open on Sept. 3. They are the Burbank school, Mobile and Armitage avenues; Dixon, 83d street and St. Lawrence avenue; Hubbard, 62d street and Hamlin avenue; Mount Vernon, 105th street and Morgan avenue; Sayre, Newland avenue and Cortland street, and Schubert, Parker and Long avenues.

Lands on Wrong Tee.

My most embarrassing moment was one which, no doubt, many other neophite golfers have experienced. It was my first attempt at golf. The place was Lincoln park. O, before I got on the tee it seemed so easy. Vain confidence! As my turn came to tee off I began to grow nervous. Not one person in my foursome did I know. And day of days! It was Sunday, with the usual Sunday crowd watching each golfer tee off. I teed up my ball with shaky hand, promptly forgot all the instructions with which I had been plied, took a stiff swing at the ball, and missed! Once! Twice! Finally I tapped the ball on to the ninth green [about 15 yards from the first tee] and went after it feeling about as small as a microbe, and as red as an old toper's nose.

ARMS CUT FATE UP TO AVERAGE MAN, SAYS DAWES

Simpler Terms Needed for Understanding.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 23. — Ambassador Dawes today reiterated Prime Minister MacDonald's statement Tuesday that substantial progress is being made in the British-American naval negotiations, but admitted "the parley has not as yet reached the state of useful discussion in detail by the press." The ultimate fate of the negotiations rests in the public sentiments of the countries concerned, he said.

Mr. Dawes spoke at a ceremony in Elgin, Scotland, where Mr. MacDonald was given the freedom of the borough. He seemed somewhat irked by statements of certain newspapers that he and the prime minister were getting nowhere with their informal discussions.

"Mr. MacDonald said Tuesday that a distinct advance had been made," declared Mr. Dawes, "but I noticed shortly after press comment indicated that he had no progress to report. I think we should remember that naval negotiations may have favorably advanced, though they may not yet have reached the proper state for useful discussion in detail by the press.

Need Simpler Terms.

"Time must be taken to reduce these discussions to simpler terms so that the average man can understand better what it's all about. If the problems are not mastered so that the final solutions are clear and satisfactory to the average man, even though the governments may arrive at a preliminary agreement, parliaments and congresses may not ratify it in the end.

"Whatever is agreed now as an easily understood matter of common sense and fairness in constituting part of the progressive simplification of the terms of the problem, then it is a most important step in advance."

Naval technicians, whose endless haggling over technicalities resulted in the breakup of the conference two years ago, are being eliminated in the present discussions going on in London and Washington, the ambassador believes.

Asks Technical Differences Reduced.

"The smaller the compass to which the necessary technical naval differences can be reduced," he said, "the clearer will be the public perception of the relative insignificance of the quantities involved, when compared with the total naval strength of the powers; and the more general will be the demand that these smaller technical differences be fairly adjusted in order that the cause of world peace may not be jeopardized unjustifiably thereby.

"We must realize that one unforgivable thing now would be an inadequate preparation for the proposed conference."

MacDonald Statement Monday.

Mr. MacDonald stated that as soon as The Hague conference comes to some sort of a conclusion he will issue a definite statement regarding his departure for the United States and he hopes that will not be later than Monday.

Mr. Dawes returned to Blair Athol this afternoon, where he is passing his vacation grouse shooting. He will return to London next week to confer with Mr. MacDonald before the prime minister goes to Geneva Aug. 31.

DENY BRITISH AGREEMENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Administration officials hastened today to deny optimistic reports that a naval reduction agreement has been reached with the British government and intimated that some time would elapse before the two governments were in accord on even the basic principles which should govern the next naval curtailment parley.

While encouraging progress is being made in the working out of the preparations which must precede the approaching naval conference, the highest government officials said that the work of laying the ground work for a successful parley was necessarily slow.

Indications are that President Hoover is finding the task of working out a preliminary accord with Great Britain more difficult than was anticipated when Ambassador Charles G. Dawes went to London last summer to discuss the subject with Ramsay MacDonald, the British premier. Administration officials asserted, however, that the prospects for a conference in the near future were hopeful.

Efforts Thus Far Limited.

Up to the present time the United States and Great Britain have confined their efforts to the establishment of certain basic principles to govern a later conference. Agreement has been reached on the principle of parity, but agreement on some of the other subjects, such as the factors which should be included in the measuring stick used in comparing the fighting strength of the various navies, and the weight which should be accorded these factors, apparently has not been effected.

Administration officials today pointed out that before a naval agreement can be effected it will be necessary for delegates representing the powers to meet formally and draw up and ratify it. Before such a conference could be held, it was explained, it would be necessary for this country and Great Britain to agree on the principles and submit these in advance to Italy, France and Japan.

Feared Mistrust.

Just what inspired the administration to puncture reports so emphatically was not made clear. It is believed, however, that Washington acted so as to prevent France, Italy and Japan from getting the impression that Great Britain and the United States were working out an Anglo-American agreement without taking them into full confidence.

Officials here apparently are also anxious to have the principles approved by Great Britain and this country submitted in full to Japan, France, and Italy prior to their publication in the press.

their chests, with sashes and ribbons flashing across immaculate shirt fronts, and medals jingling on conventional black tail coats. The cloak room contained a startling array of rare old vintages of high hats from curly brimmed silken tubes to flower pot crush opera lids.

Briton Refuses New Offer.

But behind all the smiling faces were aching hearts as the delegates recollected that the pretty words were merely part of the setting for the royal scene, because this afternoon the crippled, slender little chancellor of the British exchequer gently but firmly rejected the four creditor powers' latest offer to cut up the German reparations as "quite unsatisfactory."

The four powers declared their newest offer represented 75 per cent of Great Britain's demands for an additional $11,424,000 per year. British treasury experts translated the magnanimous offer as meaning concretely about $5,950,000.

And that is not enough. Mr. Snowden wants Great Britain's 22 per cent share allocated by the Spa agreement and will not take a farthing less, it was stated tonight.

"Want Rightful Portion."

"We are not asking favors or sacrifices from anybody—we only want our rightful portion decided on when the allies figured out the shares due each one at Spa nine years ago," the British insisted tonight.

So tonight, after the royal banquet, the delegates of the other four creditor powers are meeting again in evening clothes, silk hats and all, to try again to devise some combination increasing Great Britain's proportion to some figure which Mr. Snowden may accept.

But since none of the worthy gentlemen cares to slice his own country's share to augment England's portion, it is generally believed there is small chance of the conference reaching a compromise.

The full commission meeting was postponed until Monday in the vain hope that something may turn up over the week-end.

Halts Rhine Freedom Talks.

Awaiting the final result of the financial angle, Premier Aristide Briand has applied four wheel brakes to the political side of the conference and halted discussions over the Rhineland evacuation date. Meanwhile Dr. Gustav Stresemann, German foreign minister, is sitting pretty, and insiders of the German delegation assert Germany will not pay even the Young plan annuities next month unless the Rhineland is liberated.

U. S. Adviser to Poland Gives Good Budget Report

WARSAW, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The report for the second quarter of 1929 of Charles S. Dewey, American financial adviser to Poland, was made public today. It stated that the condition of the budget was favorable, told of the great development of the new Polish port of Gdynia, and forecast its further development.

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

An interesting new detail of this pretty frock is the tie collar with loose hanging ends. The sleeves with turn down flaring cuffs are fitted through the wrists, and the back is straight and is crossed by a belt to hold in the surplus fullness. A tiny check in green in sheer woolen is just the thing for early fall wear, while a peach shade in crêpe de chine, chartreuse green chiffon, yellow washable silk crêpe, and suntan beige silk crêpe are interesting suggestions for immediate wear.

The pattern, 2897, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material with ¾ yard of 39 inch contrasting and 9½ yards of binding.

There Are Diets for Thin Gals, Too, but They Won't Use 'Em

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Said the thin sister to the plump one: "Why is it that the diets are all on the side of fat folk? Pineapple and lamb chop, tomato and egg, eighteen day diet—all the popular ones are for the fat. But who cares what we skinnies eat?"

But the diets aren't all on the side of the fat. It's only that you hear more about the latter. Thin people don't make so much noise about their condition. AND—very important, thin people aren't half so sincere about wanting to put on weight as the plumps are to take it off. They won't stick to a program the way the plumps will once the latter have their minds made up to a reformed silhouette. That's why you don't hear more about diets for them.

Then, too, building up weight often is a matter of eating the things the thin person won't eat. The fat girl may not like her shredded wheat biscuit any better—but she'll eat it if it is going to take off a pound.

Improper digestion, bad elimination, lack of proper assimilation of food and disease are conditions that often have to be provided for before weight is added. But careful eating is as essential to the very thin as to the very stout person. An acid stomach is a cause of emaciation and where this condition exists sugary and starchy foods must be avoided by the thin. Fruits should be eaten in abundance for their aid to digestion.

Butter is something that thin persons should eat plenty of. It has the highest food value of anything the market provides. It is easily digested. It builds health and vigor. And fresh vegetables are invaluable in the diet for the thin one. The thing, when eating to put on weight, is not to attempt to crowd a number of starchy dishes into one menu. The starches should be eaten in a meal by themselves. Fresh milk should be the favorite beverage. Until chocolate digests with perfect ease, avoid it.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Be Sure of Yourself.

"Dear Miss Blake: My fellow has proposed. I am 19. Am I too young?

"ANNA."

If you have associated enough with boys to be sure of your love for this young man, and are of the settled type, you may consider marriage at this time.

A Little Philosophy Is the Best Tonic for Wounded Pride

BY DORIS BLAKE.

How difficult it is for the human race to accept philosophically a changed state of heart in one of the opposite sex! We accept death, accident, mishap with finer stoicism.

But let a girl or a man become friendly with one of the other sex. Let them go around together for six months or the year. If one becomes careless in his telephone calls or the other asks that dates be restricted to once a week or twice a month, the party of the second part is puzzled, grieved or wounded beyond all proportion to the offense.

Leon says he has known a girl for four years, and for a year he squired her about steadily. Last month she went on a vacation. On her return there was a difference in her attitude toward him. The presumtion is that some other Leon has intrigued her.

Or, Grace has known a chap for five months, during which time they have been seeing a great deal of each other. Lately the calls and dates have grown fewer and fewer. Grace can't figure it out. Why should he change?

Attempting to figure out the reason is an idle waste of time, chiefly because we can't see ourselves as others see us. We may be quite different persons on closer acquaintance than we appeared to be in the beginning. But most of all, it is foolish to spend wistful moments mourning over a lost interest since nothing can be guaranteed stationary about one's emotions.

A man may be attracted to a girl this month by the pretty trick she has of lifting her eyebrows. Next month he may be as completely ensnared by a smile. Until the thing known as love reduces him to a state of permanent slavery, these fluctuating emotions have to be counted on. Girls have them just the same, until the deciding force, true love, enters and slays the fickle fancies.

It need be no personal reflection whatever upon the courted one to be made to wait for the calls that do not come. Anyway, it is better to assume that it is not, and to check off the incident as simply one of those things that happen in the best regulated lives, and let it go at that.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

French Toast.

The item we might call fried bread is more universally called "French toast;" yet in a French cook book I once found it under the name of "Spanish toast." Commonly, however, in the French it has the name "pain perdu," which is translated lost bread, and the stale bread can be so completely lost as to be sold as a substitute for coffee cake, in some of the bakeries.

In Germany it has the name "armer ritter," which is translated "poor knight." It is sometimes also mentioned as egg toast, and I have even seen it called "bungalow toast" [because it is one of the easiest things to cook]. It is most usually fried in the frying pan, but may be cooked in deep fat almost instantly because the egg cover sets so soon. Sauces, sirups, fruit or bacon are served with it.

Just as we can find a great number of titles for this simple and pleasant toast, which is something more than toast or near to an omelet, so do the dips into which the bread is put before it is fried, or in which the bread is soaked for a little while, vary enormously. Probably the easiest and most common dip is simply one-half cup of milk with one egg and a little sugar, or up to four tablespoons.

When the treatment is to be more elaborate there is much more milk, and one finds that many different flavors have been used until it is possible to find recipes which direct that the bread be soaked in beaten egg without any milk, but in place of the milk there were such items as brandy and rum. Vanilla, lemon, and orange flower water are some of the flavors that we can find in different recipes for French toast. By using brown sugar for the sweetening we can change it a little.

One French girl, "Marierose," once sent me a recipe for "pain perdu au caramel," or caramelized bread, which was printed here and read: "Two or three egg yolks. For each egg yolk add two tablespoons of cold water, beat lightly and add one tablespoon of blanched almonds cut in small pieces. Soak in this some slices of white stale bread for eight or ten minutes and fry in butter, turning often, and each time sprinkle generously with some granulated sugar. When it is well browned take off the fire, sprinkle with cinnamon and leave it on a buttered plate and serve cold."

This Frock Spells Chic in Every Spiral

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—If Tennyson were writing today he would probably expand from "Airy Fairy Lillian" to "Aero Fairy Lillian." Why? Simply because women are going in so strongly for aviation these days. More than that, too. Their clothes reflect many of the terms of aeronautical parlance.

Just for example, there is the "spiral curve." This line has defined some of the smartest evening gowns of the summer, and it is being carried over for autumn, not only in evening gowns, but in numerous daytime frocks and coats.

Today's street frock of beige silk crêpe is an excellent example of the spiral motivation. See how the material is cut to encircle the hips in a slanting line which resolves itself at the front into the desired flare. As will be seen, the top of the spiral is adjusted into a single tab of material confined by a loop of the crêpe. The skirt is perceptibly longer in the back.

Final details of interest are found in a touch of ecru lace at the neckline and in the slanting insets of self-material which vary the sleeves. The accompanying hat is made of brown felt with border of beige felt and the extended back and side are characteristic of the mode.

In deference to the vogue of both brown and beige, as well as to combinations of the two, a great deal of costume jewelry has been prepared to carry out this message of tone. Amber, for instance, in both the yellow and red shades occupies an important place in costume jewelry for street wear. Silver, of course, does not harmonize well with brown and beige, and if metal be chosen gold is the usual accompaniment. As regards this, there are now some lovely new mottled effects in necklaces of this metal.

Slow Down the Children's Lives in the Summer

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

Summer is a good time to do lots of things. It certainly is a good time for us all to get into more natural outdoor ways of living. We love that ourselves—most of us—but to children outdoor life is a sort of miniature heaven.

While they have so many outdoor things to do, in summer, try to reduce on some of the more highly civilized forms of amusement. Don't let them go to the movies so much. Have less radio and more consciousness of the sounds of the woods and water. Do less automobiling and see that they have more physical activity.

Then when winter comes, try to keep to that reduced diet of sophisticated amusements. We don't realize how many impressions are beating on the children's brains and how few of us use discretion in shutting some of them off. Just to use the radio as an example, it is quite a usual thing to see people turn on a radio and then all proceed to talk right through it. If good music is playing, how can it be appreciated? And the constant sound of radio, good or bad, is fatiguing.

When children are taken to the usual run of movies they rarely see anything which it is right for them to see. They are over-stimulated and receive multitudes of swiftly moving impressions of things that should be foreign to their experience until they are nearly grown up. Some movie critic for children not long ago dismissed the solicitude of parents over their children's seeing the movies by saying, "Ask a child what he's seen five minutes after he's seen it and he won't be able to tell you—he will have forgotten."

What a superficial estimate this is of the impressions things make on children! Some of the deepest impressions children receive they don't talk about, nor consciously think about, but they color and influence their thoughts and feelings without the children knowing it.

Did you ever notice the expression of people when they're automobiling? Then compare it with the way they look when they're walking for pleasure, or playing games or doing something active. There's an aliveness, an alertness about the latter which you don't see inside a car. Just from the physical standpoint alone, the less automobiling children do, the better. Let them do active things, or go three miles of country on their feet rather than thirty in a car.

They have lots of time ahead of them for sophistication and speed. Let them take life more slowly and naturally. They'll benefit in nerves, in poise, in zest,—in every way.

Little Amanda, who lived in a small town, was accustomed to seeing an occasional cow or two, but never a large herd.

One day while driving in the country she saw a large herd of cattle grazing. It was a beautiful scene and the cattle were all "dressed up"—sleek and fat.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 23.—A home run barrage today moved the Cubs a half lap closer to the October classic and its pot of gold. The homers loomed from the bats of Hack Wilson, Rajah Hornsby and Zach Taylor, and drove in all the tallies accumulated by the coming champions in the second of the series with the Phils. The score was 6 to 1. The Chicagoans now are moving along smoothly with an eleven game margin over the Pirates.

The robust attack mustered by the Cubs off Ray Benge in the late innings made the day easy for Pat Malone. The big right hander, who is being mentioned as the man who may give the Macks the greatest amount of trouble in the oncoming October show, let the hard hitting Phillies have a limited portion of five hits. Only two of these were produced in the last 7 innings. When Pat didn't throw a fast ball he threw a curve, and one was as bothersome as the other.

About the only good thing accomplished by Benge was that he kept the Chicago delegates away from the plate for five innings. Then things began to happen speedily and effectively. Heathcote, who was at work because of the indisposition of Stephenson, and Hornsby got on. Hack's thirty-third homer of the year followed. Heathcote got on again in the seventh, and Hornsby slammed his 28th round tripper of the campaign. Then to prove that there's dynamite at almost every point along the batting order, Taylor thumped one with the bags vacant. All of them went to the long part of the field, and all across the short right field barrier.

Malone's appearance today was a last minute change of plans by Boss McCarthy. Nehf was slated to start, and Malone was due tomorrow, but when the veteran left hander put in a bid for one more day of rest, McCarthy made the change. Nehf probably will draw Koupal as an opponent in the final. Today's victory gives the leaders a record of eleven wins against four defeats in the final eastern invasion.

Quite a bit of excitement was stirred up in the Phils' second when a run almost reached the plate. After Malone had set down two men, Thevenow worked a single to center. Lerian caught a fly so far into left center that neither Cuyler nor Wilson could get it. The ball bounced off the bleacher fence and Thevenow regarded it as a delightful opportunity to score, but just as he slid into the plate Taylor touched him with the ball which McMillan had relayed from Wilson. The Phils had quite a bit to say to Umpire Hart about his decision at the play but the arbiter merely advised them to conserve their energy.

Benge Hard Pressed.

Benge had to extend himself a bit in the third inning when the rising breeze from the west spilled two hits in the Baker bowl turf. Malone made the first of this pair just after Taylor had fanned. English followed with a one base safety to center. This failed to develop into a rally because Heathcote fled to center and Hornsby was thrown out by Thevenow.

The Cubs connected for another pair of hits in the fourth. Wilson opened with a single to center. Cuyler worked the count down to 3 and 2 and Hack started for second on the next pitch. Cuyler missed his swing for a third strike and Hack was forced. Blair then singled to center and McMillan forced him.

The real business of the day began when Heathcote slipped a single into center to open the sixth. The phlegmatic Hornsby knew what he wanted and spurned substitutes. The result was four transportation. Wilson did the same as Hornsby. He wouldn't chase the curve balls outside. This finally brought the count to

Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 23.—Tommy Armour and Horton Smith kept well to the forefront on the second round of the Western Open championship at Ozakee today but Gene Sarazen moved up to threaten both on the final 36 holes tomorrow. Armour, one shot in front by virtue of his 65 on his first round, increased his lead to two shots by scoring 37—34—71 today, giving him a total of 136.

Smith fell back to third place by three, putting a couple of greens and going over on a couple of others to finish with 73 and 139. Meanwhile little Sarazen, with a 68 to work on, went around in 38—32—70 for second place with 138. The stocky little Italian scored that 70 despite a seven on the par four third hole on which he took four putts. Disgusted when his second putt didn't drop, he slapped the next two with the back of his putter.

Kirkwood, Hutchinsons Tie.

Five shots back of the flying Armour were Joe Kirkwood and the Hutchinsons of Chicago. Jock, the Glen View veteran, scored 71 to add on to 70 yesterday and Willard, the Lake Shore youngster tacked a 72 on to a 79 of the opening day. After that the field was bunched with F. E. [Dick] Nelson, Bill Melhorn, Abe Espinosa, Frank Walsh, Henry Cicul, Orville Schell, Bob McDonald and Leonard Schmutte, all tieing at 142.

The real heroes of the day were Abe Espinosa, defending champion, who took 75 blows on his first round but came back with 34—33—67 today, and Orville Schell, pro at the nine hole Sannuk course at Sandwich, Ill., who also was around with 67. Schell did it by shooting an uncanny 31 on the tough home nine.

Espinosa, practically counted out as a chance for repeating as champion after his first round, fought to stay in the running. He had an occasional shot off line through the fairway, but he was putting beautifully, taking only 27 on the round.

At that he lost one shot by three putting the eighth, but half a dozen other putts for birdies barely failed to drop. He missed an eight footer for an eagle on the second hole and got a birdie and dropped a six footer for a two on the sixth. That put him out in 34, and he started back with two birdies, holing a ten footer on the tenth and putting his pitch dead to the pin on the eleventh. A short second cost him a shot on the twelfth, but he rapped in an eight putt for another two on the fourteenth and finished in par.

Schell's Nine Second Best.

Schell, like Horton Smith, a Joplin, Mo., lad, turned in the best second nine of the tournament with 31. Schell missed the green with his second on the first hole, got his birdie four on the second, and three putted the eighth, finishing the first nine over par by one.

Then he began to bang in birdies. A forty foot putt gave him a three

JABBING LEFT, SPEED—AND MASTRO WINS

Shea and Mastro Market Old Neighborhood Grudge

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Somebody by the name of Earl Mastro won a ten round prize fight in the large Chicago stadium last night. The fellow he licked is called Eddie Shea, but that isn't his name. His name is something Italian. He has thick neck, a quilted left ear, and one of those heads that run up to a modified point. Mastro is an Italian, too, but he has rather delicate features and deep, dark eyes. You would take him for a violinist or barber.

They both come from approximately the same neighborhood on the west side. Nothing has been heard of Mastro around New York but Shea is well remembered there for a fight that he made against Charlie Phil Rosenberg in Tex Rickard's old, weatherbeaten bicycle bowl up near the insane asylum in the Bronx. Rosenberg knocked him out in the third round, thus retaining the bantamweight championship of the world and from the way Shea went down, the knockout seemed quiet sincere, and spontaneous. In fact, you would have thought he had been killed.

Intimated, Not Flattened.

The public was much surprised a few days later, to learn that Shea had not been knocked out but intimidated by some friends of the Rosenberg boy who had a number of very sinister friends. They had called on Shea in his dressing room and asked him if he felt all right. He said he felt fine and they said "Well, we have wagered a lot of money that Rosenberg will knock you out and we certainly hope you won't do anything that would tend to make us lose our wagers, because that would be very annoying and we might lose our tempers and you would not feel fine any more."

This was seven or eight years ago, so Shea is well along in years, as prizefighters go. Since that night in the bicycle bowl, Rosenberg has lost his championship and disappeared, but Shea has gone right along, fighting a lot of people. Never having any championship to risk, he has followed prizefighting as a trade, as regularly as a bricklayer follows bricklaying. Naturally, he became a very workmanlike fighter and an influence among the small Italians of his own neighborhood, including this boy, Mastro.

The Mastro boy used to spar with him in the gymnasium for practice. He is of a different build entirely, with smaller arms and narrower shoulders and a head with some overhang in the back. But one day he let one fly and socked Shea on the chin. This irritated Shea and I am told that he tried to lick Mastro for it. So they fell to socking and socked away for ten or fifteen minutes before their business instincts were aroused, and they realized that they were wasting something with a genuine market value.

They marketed their grudge in the Stadium last evening and the customers were genuinely surprised to see Mastro walk into Shea and give him a serious ten round poking. Shea was so badly out scored that one almost lost sight of his principal merit, which was his absolute self possession at all times. He was having a hard time of it but Mastro was just another hod of brick to the bricklayer and no matter how briskly the fresh kid stroked him on the nose, eyes or mouth, he simply kept on working, although he wasn't doing very well.

Mastro Wears Down Foes.

Mastro is a bothersome hitter. He draws blood and makes little bruises and wears a fellow out. He probably knew all about Shea's rather blunt style of fighting but Shea should have known just as much about his style. Yet Mastro bobbed under fifty or sixty of Shea's left hooks at the head and ripped his own right up to the mouth and nose, and when they were out in the open he was always reaching out with quick, sharp strokes and bumping Shea on the chin, with both hands. In the clinches he would punch for a while and then lay his gloves over Shea's elbows and quiet him until the referee broke them up.

I think there are some boys of his weight around New York who would outwrangle Mastro. Licking Shea just proved him a smart, busy little fellow, but if fighters were rated like ball players Shea would be in the class of, say, the Western league.

Still, the one who licks the champion at the weight becomes the champion, and Mastro certainly should lick Routis, because he is a Blue Ridge leaguer. Even Shea should be able to lick Routis.

They bang away on a big thunder organ between rounds and between fights in the Chicago Stadium, which is an interesting idea, unfamiliar in New York. They shouldn't do that. It drowns out the remarks from the gallery and detracts from the reality of the occasion. One night when Jack Delaney was fighting a troublesome lefthander in the old Garden the two upper galleries spent the time between rounds chanting in unison, "Delaney is a bum! Delaney is a bum!" Nobody can play things like "Delaney is a bum!" on a pipe organ.

Miss Norelius Wins $10,000 Toronto Swim

TORONTO, Ont., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Cramps, cold, and fear after a terrifying experience in the water only one one-half miles from the start of the Wrigley marathon forced Miss Vivian Lee Welsh of Youngstown, O., into the emergency hospital on the shore today. The swim was won by Martha Norelius, Olympic champion, who recently turned professional.

Stroking smoothly along in the annual women's ten mile swim, some distance behind the leaders, Miss Welsh suddenly cried out in pain and fright. Almost hysterical, she flung herself about in the water, attempting to dislodge a large lamprey eel that had fastened itself into the flesh of her side.

Miss Welsh's screams brought a Red Cross boat to her rescue. By the time help arrived she had shaken loose the eel, but was so exhausted from her efforts that she suffered chills and cramps. She attempted to continue but collapsed and was taken from the water.

Miss Welsh, a young sylph in shining black grease, was the only lady who went in absolutely bathroom fashion. She literally hadn't a stitch on, for, about three minutes before the gun went, she slipped off her abbreviated trunks. Another striking nearnude figure of note was that of Miss Ruth Tower, the titan-haired Denver girl.

Miss Tower finished second, 30 yards behind the 21 year old Swedish-American star from New York. Miss Norelius led from the start and had a 25 yard advantage in the seventh mile. First prize was $10,000 and second prize $3,000.

Martha Norelius. Time, 5:04:22.
Ruth Tower. Time, 5:31:18.
Evelyn Armstrong. Time, 5:53:04.
Leah Riley. Time, 5:55:50 4-5.
Ethel Hertle. Time, 6:01:54 1-5.
Dorothy Widmer. Time, 6:29:01.

Police Games Open Today at Soldiers' Field

Opening events of the annual athletic games of the Chicago police department will be held on Soldiers' field this afternoon starting at 2:30 o'clock. Finals in all contests will be held tomorrow at the same place starting at the same hour.

Proceeds of the two day affair will go into the policemen's benevolent fund which provides for families of policemen killed in line of duty. Members of the south park police force also will compete. There is intense rivalry between the two departments.

On each day the games will open with a parade of officials and contestants. When the march is finished, all will stand at attention while the police band plays the national anthem. There will be a mass drill by the pick of the police department, exhibitions of horsemanship by the mounted squad and thrilling feats by the motorcycle squad. In addition there will be a race between the fastest horses in the department, a half mile bicycle race and climbing the greased pole.

The feature will be an act called fighting crime. An automobile will be stopped by bandits in the center of the arena. The bandits will not only rob the occupants but they also will take the car. They are finally apprehended at one end of the stadium in a temporary house. Revolvers, rifles and tear bombs are brought into play.

According to George Getz, chairman of the citizens' committee, at least 75,000 will attend the event on each day. E. C. Delaporte of the Chicago public high school recreation committee will be in active charge of the two day affair. Police Commissioner William F. Russell, E. F. Kelly, president of the south park board; Brig. Gen. John V. Clinnin, chairman of the boxing commission; A. A. Stagg, director of athletics at the University of Chicago, and George Getz will lead the parade.

DEVOS DEFEATS JOHNNY BURNS; MEDILL WINS

15,000 Watch Bouts at Stadium.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Earl Mastro, who learned to box as an amateur in local tournaments, was given the ten round decision over Eddie Shea of the west side in the feature bout of Paddy Harmon's boxing show at the Chicago Stadium last night. The decision was unanimous.

According to the report of the boxing commission 15,239 fans paid $39,073 to see the show.

As is generally the case in a short fight the boxer won. Mastro kept pumping his left hand into Eddie's face. On one occasion he struck four times without returns. In several of the rounds Mastro tore in and traded punch for punch with his opponent.

It was the left hand, one of the greatest offensive weapons in boxing, which gave Mastro the decision. On several occasions Earl scored with straight left jabs and then followed with right crosses to the jaw and body. At times Shea appeared dead on his feet and would not punch back to keep the score even. Mastro put up one of his best fights. He will meet Andre Routis of France, world's featherweight champion, at the Stadium in November.

Mastro Wins Six Rounds.

Mastro won six of the ten rounds, three were even and one went to Shea. Earl took the first round by effective use of his left hand. He took advantage of every opportunity to score points. In the second round Mastro shot a right uppercut to the chin which staggered his foe. Shea missed repeatedly with wild swings. Mastro either stepped inside or pulled away. In this round Mastro was the master and his boxing skill was in evidence.

Mastro took the third round by the same tactics, but Eddie came back strong in the fourth session, which was even. There were several rallies and they punched both at close quarters and at long range. The fifth round went to Shea, who staggered Mastro with a left hook to the jaw. Shea showed his fighting ability and tore into Mastro, forcing him against the ropes with a series of body punches.

Sixth Round Is Even.

Mastro was the master of the situation in the seventh round. His left jabbing brought the blood from Eddie's nose. Earl won the round by a large margin. Mastro's aggressiveness gave him the edge in the ninth and tenth rounds. In the ninth Shea was in a bad way as a result of right crosses and left hooks. Eddie, however, came back strong and held his own in the final round. It was an interesting fight, with both trying at all times. At 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon Mastro weighed 124¾ pounds and Shea 123½ pounds.

Although the Shea-Mastro bout was the best fight on the card, the windup betwen Rene De Vos, the European middleweight, and Johnny Burns of San Francisco was equally as interesting. De Vos was given the decision, but he did not win the verdict by a large margin. The foreigner won four of the ten rounds, Burns was credited with two, while the others were even.

My Sullivan K. O.'s Allen.

De Vos won the mill by forcing Burns to the ropes and then scoring with body punches. Burns tried, but the Belgian refused to let Johnny get set to land with either hand. Burns did connect a few times, but De Vos never was in trouble. Burns scaled 158¾ pounds and De Vos 159¾ pounds.

In the opening bout, My Sullivan of St. Paul won by a technical knockout from Roxey Allen of Camden, N. J., in the ninth round. Allen was cut over his right eye in the eighth round and when the blood was flowing down his face in the ninth session Referee Phil Collins stopped the fight. At the time Allen was beaten and the fight ended after the round was one minute and forty-two seconds old. They met at 149 pounds.

Joey Medill, the west side lightweight, was given the decision over Henry Perlick of Kalamazoo, Mich., in the other ten rounder on the card. The Wolverine took a nine count in the sixth round as a result of a left hook and was in a bad way in the seventh and eighth rounds. The bout was featured by rallies and toe to toe fighting. They met at 135 pounds.

Dempsey Given Right to Promote Chicago Bouts

At a special meeting of the boxing commission Jack Dempsey yesterday was given the right to promote fights in Chicago. His bond must be approved by the state treasurer, however, before his license is granted.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

"Just coasting along," Philadelphia Athletics' partisans will tell you when they contemplate the current conduct of their heroes. Which may or may not be true, but how do they laugh off the fact that Jimmy Foxx, leading batsman of the American league, yesterday struck out the first three times he faced young Hal McKain? How do they wave off the fact that the lowly White Sox made five hits off one of their starting pitchers in one inning?

These questions and many more are inspired by the fact that the White Sox gave the American league leaders another socking yesterday afternoon at Comiskey park, this time by a score of 3 to 1. If you ask us the answers to our own questions we'll say that the A's are developing a lot of bad habits that won't do them much good when they meet our ferocious Cubs, come October.

Why Not in October?

Ball players perhaps do not mind losing a few games when they have a lead like the A's but batsmen like Foxx, Haas, and Miller are bearing down for those old personal marks and if they can slump now they can slump in October. Which is our Chicago idea of nothing to worry about.

The foregoing is not meant in disparagement of the efforts of Master McKain, who pitched a fine game for any kind of competition. He allowed only five hits and four of these came after he had struck out Foxx the third time, in the seventh. They got one in the seventh, one in the eighth and two in the ninth. It was in the ninth that Hal lost his shutout, due to poor judgment by Hoffman in playing Boley's triple, which should have been a single.

The victory was the eighth the Sox have won from the Athletics this year, which is as many times as the Browns have trimmed them and more than any other club has accomplished the trick. It was the fifth Sox win out of the last six games played between the two clubs at Comiskey park and the sixth loss in the last seven starts the A's have made during their present western trip.

All of the Sox scoring was accomplished in the third inning when our boys fell on old Jack Quinn most unmercifully. Successive singles by Perg, McKain, Metzler and Cissell and an error by Perkins did the business.

In the sixth and seventh the A's tested the mettle of our talented youngster Hale. He opened the sixth by walking Bishop and French and threw three straight balls to Haas. Then he struck out Haas and Bishop was doubled going into third. The inning ended when Cissell made a superb diving catch of Miller's low liner.

Burns Forces Boley.

After Foxx had been called out on strikes to open the seventh, Boley walked, then Perkins lofted an easy fly which did not pull Reynolds out of his tracks. Carl, however, muffed the ball. The Texan was not censured, though, great relief being felt that his skull was not fractured. Cochrane then beat out an infield hit and the bases were full. Burns batted for Quinn and forced Boley at the plate, McKain to Berg and Bishop flied to Reynolds, who caught the ball for the third out.

In the ninth Hoffman tried to make a diving catch of Boley's liner but tailed, the ball rolling for a triple. He scored the A's lone run on Pinch Batter Summa's single to right.

BROWNS AGAIN BLANK YANKEES; REGAIN 3D PLACE

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The Browns scored their second successive shutout over the Yankees today, turning back the champions, 5 to 0. George Blaeholder pitched three hit ball until the ninth, when two infield singles gave the Hugmen an opening of which they failed to avail themselves.

Cleveland, Ohio, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Danny MacFadyen, Boston' leading pitcher, hurled the Red Sox to an 8 to 5 victory over the Indians today. Although MacFayden was hit harder than in his recent appearances, he was steady in the pinches. Bill Regan started him to victory by tripling with the bases full in the first inning.

TEXAS MAN WINS GRAND AMERICAN TRAPSHOOT TITLE

Vandalia, O., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The Grand American trap shooting championship for clay target marksmen was won today by Mose Newman of Sweetwater, Tex., who tied with five other participants with a score of 98 from the 20 yard line. Newman won the shoot-off by breaking 25 straight targets.

Earl F. Booher, Dayton, O., 17 years old, was second, with 24 in the shoot off. Others who shot 98s were E. F. Lockwood, Fort Wayne, Ind.; George Slaughter, Benton Harbor, Mich.; E. L. Axtell, Harvard, Ill., and W. L. Englert, Willard, O. Slaughter and Lockwood scored 23 each, Axtell 22, and Englert 21 in the shoot-off.

Mrs. Norman Tillog of Houston, Tex., won the women's 100 target event. She and Miss Eunice Haggard of Winchester, Ky., tied with 92 targets at 16 yards. In the shoot off Mrs. Tillog broke 22 of the 25 targets, while Miss Haggard hit 28 clays.

BRAVES DEFEAT CARDINALS, 5 TO 2

Boston, Mass., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The Braves evened the series with the St. Louis Cardinals at one all today by winning 5 to 2, behind the seven hit pitching of Bobby Smith. Jess Haines, St. Louis pitcher, got a homer with none on in the fifth.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: In 1891, A. Featherstone (afterward millionaire race horse owner who died recently in California "broke" in comparison to his former fortune) added "safety" bicycles to his line of baby carriages and tricycles manufactured at the factory building (still standing) at the southeast corner of Clark and 16th.

In the spring of that year, came from Dublin two young men to install the new Dunlop air-filled or pneumatic tire for safety bicycles on Featherstone's "Road King" and "Road Queen" which sold for around $140.

Each morning these brothers, Alfred and George, took off their English coats, tied on white aprons, and with liquid rubber and Irish linen taught a score of girls the art of making Dunlop tires stick to metal rims. They returned to England the following year. From this small beginning developed Dunlop Limited and other combines of immense proportions.

Alfred had won many races on the old "ordinary" bone-shaker as well as with the new "safety," was well known on the continent, and afterward became M. P. for Coventry.

When George "by the grace of God, King, etc" took temporary residence in Craighwell House, Boguor, Sussex, he became the guest of this same white-aproned worker of other years who with his younger brother occupied a room at 1606 South Michigan avenue on a modest salary, and now entertains his King as Sir Alfred Du Cros, etc., etc.

Red, Shipping Room, 1891.

In 1878 there was an important section of city life centering around 22d street (called Ringgold place previous to 1849) from State to Indiana avenue. On the north side of street from Indiana west was a large brick building of which the second floor was used by J. E. Martine's dancing academy. N. Gray Bartlett had a drug store at the corner, and later the telephone exchange was located next door. At the alley was the large McLachlan & Co. grocery.

Of revelry imparting;

On Heaven's own gate encroaching!

The Wake somehow gets a gratifying "kick" from the St. Louis Cards' treatment of Old "Pete" Alexander. Aleck secured permission to "go fishing" while the team was in the east. Unfortunately, according to reports, he fished in other than water and was sent home for breaking training rules. Now the club excuses him for the balance of the season at FULL PAY. In such action, past services were considered.

MIDWICK POLO CLUB REACHES 12 GOAL FINALS

Equipped with superior mounts, and showing better teamwork and more accurate hitting, the Midwick Polo club of Pasadena, Cal., 1929 intercircuit champions, yesterday swept into the final of the national twelve goal tournament by defeating Oak Brook-Du Page, 14 to 6, at Oak Brook.

The Midwicks enjoyed another scoring spree in the final period, when Dr. Harry Wilson shot the ball through the uprights twice in rapid succession. This was followed by a goal from the mallet of McCarthy, and it marked the end of the Midwick offensive.

OAK BROOK-DU PAGE (6).	MIDWICK (14).
Kenneth Fitsp'k'k, No. 1	C. B. Wrightsman
Maxwell Corpen'g, No. 2	Neil McCarthy [c]
Dave Whyte	No. 3.—Howland Paddock

ONE HELEN WINS, OTHER LOSES IN NATIONAL TENNIS

Forest Hills, N. Y., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Helen Wills completely outclassed her old rival, Mrs. Molla Bjurstedt Mallory before a gallery of 5,000 at the West Side stadium this afternoon, calmly pounding out a victory in two love sets. Queen Helen thereby entered the final round of the national women's tennis championship where tomorrow she will defend her crown against Mrs. Phoebe Watson, English star.

The champion's hard-hitting and perfect aim made her match almost entirely devoid of thrills, but plenty of tennis drama was packed into the other semi final in which the tall, slim, black-haired English woman overcame Helen Jacobs by scores of 6-1, 3-6, 6-4. America's second ranking feminine player fought gallantly against elimination but the unerring marksmanship of Mrs. Watson from the base line finally brought about her downfall as it had done so unexpectedly in the Wightman cup series last week.

LOTT AND DOEG REACH NEWPORT TENNIS FINALS

Newport, R. I., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Playing inspired tennis, George M. Lott Jr., of Chicago, and Johnny Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal., defending doubles champions, trounced Bill Tilden and Frank Hunter in straight sets, 6-4, 6-2, in the Newport tournament today.

Fritz Mercur of Bethlehem, Pa., and J. Gilbert Hall of Orange, N. J., reached the final by defeating E. W. Feibleman, New York, and J. Brooks Fenno Jr., Boston, Harvard's intercollegiate champions of 1921. The scores were 3-6, 6-2, 7-5, 6-2.

on the eleventh, a six footer on the fifteenth, and a twelve footer on the sixteenth, two more birdies. He was just short of the green on the eighteenth, but chipped in for his fourth birdie. He had played the other holes in par to finish the nine four under par.

Joe Kirkwood had the only other under par round of the day with 69, but the totals of the leaders have made pre-tournament predictions that 284 would win appear silly. The record of 278 was set by Arthur Smith at Cincinnati, O., in 1905. Scores worse than 152 didn't even qualify golfers to play among the seventy who will play the final 36 holes tomorrow.

Armour's Putts Add Up.

While Armour's 71 was good enough to give him an extra stroke margin, had he been able to putt he would have come mighty close to his first round of 65. He three putted the first fourth, eighth, and tenth greens and missed an eighteen inch putt for an eagle on the second. He had one birdie on the first nine on that second hole and knocked in two birdies on the twelfth and fifteenth hole, sinking fair putts on both of them and also on the thirteenth and eighteenth.

Horton Smith didn't play quite as well as he did on his first round, but if Bobby Jones of Atlanta is a golfing machine, Smith must be the robot. On the course his face changes expression no more than a miner playing poker. He does not waste any more effort in playing than facial expression. He is even more a machine than Jones, for Jones will take a practice swing or waggle a bit, and even get a bit peeved when a shot goes wrong. Smith steps up to the ball, sets his clubhead behind it, and sends it on its way with one quick swipe.

He didn't even change expression in playing the eighth hole worse than he played any in the 36. His drive slipped into a dry ditch at the right and his number 3 iron was ten yards over the green in a gully of trees. He chipped back, between two trees not three feet apart to the green and his ball skidded off the green on the other side. A weak chip laid it seven feet from the hole and he rapped in the putt for a five. Scores:

Two Tie for Lead in Glen Oak Roundup

In front of a classy field of 200 members and guests, John Morrell of the home club and Tom Frainey, Edgewood Valley star, tied yesterday with 73 each to lead in the first leg of the 13th annual Roundup of Glen Oak Country club.

Today the field will play 36 holes. Numerous handsome prizes, including the beautiful Roundup trophy, will be awarded for the 54, 36 and 18 hole cards.

J. K. Peck of the Maketewah Country club, Cincinnati, O., won the first low net score with 86—15—68, while a home club member, C. J. Keller, was close behind with 79—10—69.

The foursome of Frainey, Morrell, Norman Morris, Butterfield, and Andy Humphreys, Glen Oak, with low net of 296 yesterday was favored to win today.

RAIN INTERRUPTS JENNINGS' MATCH IN PARKS TENNIS

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 23. — (AP) — George J. Jennings Jr., Chicago, present champion, was leading Robert B. Considine, Washington, D. C., in one of the semi-final rounds, singles matches in the national public parks tennis championship here today, when a rainstorm stopped the contest and prevented further play. The Chicago player won the first, 8-6, and stood 3 to 2 and 40-30 in the second set.

PETROLLE FIGHT CALLED OFF.

Detroit, Mich., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The scheduled ten round bout between Billy Petrolle of Fargo, N. D., and King Tut of Milwaukee, at Navin field here on Aug. 28, has been called off because of an injury to Tut's hand.

ELEANOR HOLM BREAKS RECORD IN A. A. U. SWIM

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 23.—(AP)—In smashing performances today on the second day's program of the National A. A. U. swimming championships, a new world's record was established and two new champions were crowned while a titleholder retained his laurels.

Eleanor Holm of New York City won the 300 yard medley exhibition for women in the time of four minutes 25 3-5 seconds. This bettered the old mark by 12 3-5 seconds. Clarence "Buster" Crabbe from the Outrigger Canoe club, Honolulu, continued his spectacular bid for glory by winning the 440 yard free style and placing third in the 220 yard backstroke. Crabbe's time in the quarter mile test was 5 minutes and 4 seconds, slow as compared to Johnny Weissmuller's winning figure of last year.

Frank Walton of Hollywood became the new champion in the 220 yard backstroke, replacing George Kojac of New York City, who did not enter competition this year. Walton's time was 2 minutes 42 seconds. In the ten foot springboard diving, Mickey Riledy of the Los Angeles Athletic club easily proved his right to retain honors in that event.

Walter Spence, veteran from the Pennsylvania Athletic club, Philadelphia, took second place to Crabbe in the 440 yard free style, and third position went to Austin Clapp of the Hollywood A. C.

Neilsen Wins Belvedere Tennis Title at Charlevoix

Charlevoix, Mich., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—A. C. Neilson of Chicago won the men's singles crown in the annual Belvedere tennis tournament today. He defeated Charles Fox of St. Louis in straight sets, 6-3, 6-1, 6-3.

Hornsby Smacks Another.

The three in the sixth were hung on the hook before anybody was out, but the two in the seventh didn't begin until after two were deposed. Heathcote drew a pass. Hornsby cracked his bat into Benge's first pitch and the ball found a landing space close to the spot where Wilson's homer came down in the left field bleacher. After Heathcote and Hornsby had circled the sacks Wilson came through with his third hit, a single to right, but Cuyler forced him. The next hit off Benge was Taylor's homer after two were defunct in the eighth.

After getting past the slight flurry caused by the hits of Thevenow and Lerian in the eighth Malone treated the Phils to a few very uncomfortable rounds. Only three men faced him in the third, fourth, and fifth innings. Thompson broke the spell in the

THAT DECEIVER ESKIMO PLAYS HIS PUBLIC FALSE

Early in the season the fans at Arlington Park discovered that betting as the 3 year old son of North Star III.Gentlewoman was just like going down to the safety deposit vault and clipping the coupons.

He won race after race, to be exact was the victor in six races in eight starts over at Arlington. He usually returned a good fat price to those who backed him.

Make Him Favorite.

The Eskimo fans came to believe he was an iron horse. They were of the same opinion at Hawthorne yesterday. They made him the odds on choice to win the Tower handicap at 4 to 5. The Eskimo backers, after purchasing their tickets settled back into their seats anticipating a new coupon clipping spree. Four to five was all right. "It's just like finding it," some of the Eskimo stockholders were so bold to remark.

But there was a horse called Ben Marshall in the race. He was bred on the farm of Harry Payne Whitney and was a castoff from that great stable. There was another sprinter in the six furlong struggle called Chicleight. He was out of another Whitney stallion called Chicle.

Ben Marshall and Chicleight gave Eskimo a lesson in how to run fast. They made him look like an ordinary plater all the way around and when they staged a little battle between themselves for the big end of the purse near the finish, Eskimo was doing the best he could to shove his nose into third place.

Stake Horses Unplaced.

Ben Marshall ran the six furlongs in 1:12 1-5 which was not out of the ordinary. Two famous stake horses of not many months ago finished fourth and fifth in the field of five. John R. Thompson's Minotaur was fourth, it being his first start since he was badly injured while at the post in the American Derby last June. Neddie, from E. B. McLean's stable, wound up in last place.

With Eskimo the odds on favorite, Ben Marshall which beat Chicleight by three lengths and won in an easy gallop, paid $12.88 to win, $6.14 to place, and $2.40 to show. Chicleight was at $5.72 to place.

It was a sad afternoon for the favorite players. Sailor Boy got them away to a flying start when he won the first race at a little better than even money. Rellitne was also stoutly backed in the second contest. But from there until the finish when such horses as Jeff O'Neill, Elfin Star, and Carin were winning the lads who play the figures were already to step over into Heart lake and spend the night with the ducks.

Carin Never Headed.

Elfin Star and Carin's victories were the more surprising. Each had been beaten off in their last starts. But they ran like champions when the battles started in the stretch yesterday. Carin delayed the start for several minutes and then was started on the extreme outside but he took the lead as the barrier lifted and was never headed. In the mutuels he paid nearly 5 to 1.

Small Mouth Bass Bite When They're Good and Ready

BY BOB BECKER.

Butternut Lake, Wis., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—When the small mouth bass have made up their minds to strike they'll come right up to the boat to hit a bait. When they are laying off, nothing on earth or in the water apparently will stir them into action.

Yesterday afternoon our experience with these husky Butternut lake bass bore out this statement. The wind had changed from the north and was almost due east when we started down the lake for a weed bed near the outlet. Lon, our guide, made a killing near the outlet a couple of days ago. We had decided to try the same spot. But before reaching it you pass a stretch of shoreline covered with tules, ideal for large mouth bass. Lon said it might not be a bad idea to cast among the tules in the hope of snagging a large mouth. So we rigged for action. Trolling along about 100 yards from these tules, where the shoreline is clean and a gravel bar runs out, Eddie Kynoch, the third member of our party, had a strike.

That was all the signal Lon wanted. A strike on that bar meant small mouth bass. As he turned the boat around he remarked that we were going to get a mess of fish. So forgetting the tules and the large mouth bass for about twenty minutes, we operated on that gravel bar. The red eyes were eager for business. It was a case of wham and bang!

At one stage of the game Lon was landing fish when another one struck our lure right at the side of the boat. Before we could set the hook the red eye was on the other side of the boat running for deep water. One of the most interesting things about this party was the presence of a two pound large mouth bass. It was tagging along with the school of red eyes on the bar, having strayed from his preferred habitat, the shoreline weed bed, about 75 yards away.

Radio Music of Many Kinds Pleases Elmer

Wistful Violin Produces Beautiful Melody.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The last act of "Blossom Time," from New York through KYW, 8:30 to 9, was one of these bright spots, though somewhat of a sweet-sadness, this because the Schubert music in this operetta is of a sweet-sad character.

Another bright spot was the rendition of Lohr's "Little Gray Home in the West," by violin choir and male voices, W-G-N, 8:30 to 9 program, but even here, strange as it may seem, there is something slightly close, melancholy in the tone of a violin choir and there's a touch of sadness in the song, beautiful in sentiment and tone as it is.

Another bright spot was the selections played by Theodore du Moulin, cellist, WLS, 9 to 9:30 program. One of these was a Popper selection. Seemingly all of Popper's cello compositions are pippins; they figuratively pop. I think if I were a great cellist I would specialize in Popper's works, knowing that they are so marvelously beautiful.

On one of the early evening W-G-N programs, Victor Young, violinist, played a classic-popular number, the title of which escapes my memory. If I could play that little, tricky violin as enticingly as Mr. Young does I would not let my talent remain almost hidden under a bushel but would upset the obstruction and scatter violin cheer along with the cheer of summer's sunshine.

The band concert, P. J. Gearen conducting, through WMAQ and WCFL at 9:30 was another bright thirty minutes.

The "Dream Ship," W-G-N, 11 o'clock; first with the Andante from Tschaikowski's Fifth symphony. I am far more optimistic than this morsel of music would indicate the composer to be at the time of writing. For instance, I believe that within another year from this date there will be a little less advertising material included in advertising programs. Second number, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I See." Even so, but few know the joys and exaltation I experience when listening to worth while radio programs and of writing about them. And so, as the "Dream Ship" sails away, I too, will steal away for a two week's vacation.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Aug. 23.—American tourists, leaving Riga for Moscow, are being warned by American consular officials to take extraordinary precautions against bands of thieves preying upon foreigners traveling in Russia.

Max Davidson, Chicago banker, who with his brother, Samuel, has been visiting relatives in Russia, informed the consul how they had both been robbed the same night on different trains.

Max Davidson had been visiting an uncle in Brianski and Samuel was visiting in Gomel. Both agreed to meet in Moscow a week ago and arrived the same morning minus their money, passports, and shoes. Other American tourists loaned them funds to purchase footwear and buy tickets to Riga.

OFFICER IS HELD FOR HEARING ON DRY LAW KILLING

Tahlequah, Okla., Aug. 23.—[U.P.]—G. Alfred Demoss, deputy United States marshal, was ordered held for preliminary hearing Aug. 27 on a murder charge today in connection with the shooting of Charles Jenkins.

Demoss reported that he shot and killed Jenkins when the latter fled from arrest on a warrant issued almost two years ago, charging violation of the dry laws. The shooting occurred near Kansas, Okla.

Defense attorneys attempted to have him released on his own recognizance, but their motion was denied. The government may attempt to transfer the case to a United States court.

JEWS AND ARABS RENEW RIOTS; 12 SLAIN, 110 HURT

JERUSALEM, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Jewish telegraphic agency. — Nine Jews and three Arabs were killed and 110 other persons were injured in a fresh outbreak in the city today.

All shops were closed and police in armored cars dashed through the streets. The excitement was intense. Among the wounded was Wolfgang Von Weisl, a Berlin newspaper correspondent.

It was said that Moslems leaving the famous Omar mosque made an organized attack on the Jewish quarter and caught police unawares.

Value Home Furnishings.

An appraisal of the furnishings of the family home at 4754 Greenwood avenue, including rare etchings and books, sets the value at $6,034. The inventory lists the home and property at Houghton, Mich., under real estate. It also lists $50,000 in bonds and $32,000 in notes.

More than 45,000 shares of various mining and metal stocks are listed as "desperate." The document was filed by the law firm of Mayer, Meyer, Austrian and Platt. It was prepared by Mr. Leopold's sons, Foreman N. and Samuel N. Leopold.

Died on April 4.

Mr. Leopold died April 4 at the age of 68. His first wife, who was Florence G. Foreman, died in 1921. In October of 1927 he married the former Mrs. Daisy K. Hahn of Los Angeles. Since the tragedy of four years ago he lived at 420 Roscoe street.

Under his will, dated Oct. 3, 1927, the day of his second marriage, Mr. Leopold created a $50,000 trust fund for Nathan Leopold to be managed by his brothers. The elder sons were left $500,000 to share equally. These sons were associated with their father in his business. The will made no provision for Mrs. Leopold, as she was provided for under a prenuptial contract.

MOTHER OF 8 AND LOVERHANGED FOR POISON CRIME

HULL, Quebec, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Philip Lefebvre, 32 year old trapper from the Gatineau hills, and Marie Viau, 42 years old, mother of eight children, were hanged today. As rain poured down in the jail yard the trapper went to the gallows first, followed 16 minutes later by Mrs. Viau. She was the sixth woman in the history of the dominion to be hanged. They were convicted of poisoning Zephyr Viau, the woman's husband, seven months ago.

Although wooden screens and curtains had been placed about the scarlet scaffold to hide it from the curious, a large crowd milled about the walls of the jail yard during the double execution.

Mrs. Viau was the more composed of the two as they waited in their cells. While she sat stern and unmoved Lefebvre sobbed and fretted. Although Mrs. Viau had expressed a desire to see him before they went to their deaths, he expressed no such wish. One of his last acts was to write a letter to his father asking forgiveness for what he had done.

800 FAMILIES HOMELESS IN SERBIAN FLOOD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, Aug. 23.—Eight hundred families are homeless and tens of millions of dinars [a dinar is about 1.76 cents] worth of property ruined at Skopije as the result of a cloudburst sending the tributaries of the River Varda rampaging over the countryside.

All the lower quarters of the south Serbian town, with the business center, are under water. The bazaars, where the population is mostly Mohammedan, presented a sorry plight. Inhabitants were caught unaware while in bed in the early hours of the morning and took refuge on the roofs. Rescue work is difficult due to vast quantities of debris coursing madly through the streets. Early reports that 50 were drowned have been denied. In Sarajevo, where part of the city was flooded by a cloudburst, a 10 year old boy and a baby were drowned locked in their room as the waters rose.

River Submerges Villages.

BOMBAY, India, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Reports from Karachi today said the flooding river Indus, swollen by thirty-six hours of rain since a dam broke on the upper part of its course, was submerging many villages along its banks and carried the bodies of many villagers and cattle and even wild animals. The population of Kotri has been evacuated. All the townspeople waiting for trains to carry them from the danger zone.

M. J. Henaughan, One Time De Kalb Postmaster, Dies

De Kalb, Ill., Aug. 23.—[Special.]—Michael J. Henaughan, retired banker, four times mayor and former postmaster of De Kalb under Grover Cleveland, died here last night, following a long illness. His wife, Anastasia, preceded him in death by one week.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 2,300 cattle, 5,000 hogs, and 2,000 sheep.

Buyers scrambled for hogs at sharply higher prices when only 9,000 arrived yesterday, the smallest supply of the year, barring Saturdays. The market in all branches broke loose soon after the opening and finished at the highest level of the week.

The top price soared to $11.90, with the day's general average at $10.65, comparing with a top of $11.50 and average of $10.35 in mid-week. Gains of 25c were general, with some instances of more advance cited in medium weight butchers.

Some Orders Unfilled.

Several orders for fancy light and medium weight hogs were still unfilled at a late hour, due to scarcity. Larger houses followed at the general advance, leaving only 1,500 pen holders at the close.

There was a general cleanup in the cattle market at the week's decline yesterday. None choice enough to bring top quotations arrived and best available averaged 1,230 lbs and sold at $14.10. Only a scattering passed $13.00, due to the poor quality. Prices are $1.00@2.00 lower than two weeks ago. Cows and heifers show losses of 75c to $1.25 since a week ago. Calves are mostly in line with a week ago. Stockers and feeders together with range cattle have lost 50@75c during the week.

Lambs Mostly Steady.

Yesterday's 9,000 sheep and lambs met fairly good demand at little price changes, weakness in medium grades offsetting strength reported in top kinds at the opening. Good to choice natives were sorted at $13.00@13.50, with a scattering reported at $13.75 @14.00 to city butchers. Aged and yearling sheep sold steady. Demand for feeding and breeding stock continued urgent, buyers offering up to $13.75 for fancy light lambs and as high as $12.25 for light yearling ewes.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 300 cattle, 5,000 hogs and 5,000 sheep, against 238 cattle, 5,351 hogs and 4,587 sheep the previous Saturday and 853 cattle, 2,534 hogs and 8,295 sheep a year ago.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 28,000 to 44,000. H. Pattison marked 44,000; O. Dwight, 42,000; R. W. Thorne, 40,000; F. W. Young and H. Turner, 38,000; J. M. Waters, 36,000; A. G. Welhener and A. G. Chandler, 35,000; C. Southwick and J. T. Brown, 32,000; W. C. White and F. M. Sherwood, 31,000; H. C. Carlson and F. Knutzen, 30,000, and S. Lund, 28,000.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw market was steady, and while no sales were reported today, it developed that during the last couple of days fully 50,000 bags of Cuban were sold for September shipment at 3.86c and about 150,000 bags for October at 3.83c to local refiners. Today holders are asking 3.83c. Trading in futures again comprised principally September liquidation and exchanging from that position to later months, and of the day's turnover of 41,150 tons fully half was in the form of exchanges. The close was unchanged to 3 points net lower. Prices follow:

Refined was unchanged in all departments, and while a fair withdrawal demand was reported, new business was only moderate. Prices were quoted at 5.50c for fine granulated by all refiners, with second hands available at from 5.15@5.20c.

COTTONSEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23.—(AP)—COTTONSEED Oil—Started quite today, but gained in strength and activity on local coverings and some commission house buying prompted by the firmness in lard and an absence of crude offerings. Contracts were scarce and the technical position was considered firm. The close was off partially but steady at 6 to 14 points net higher. Sales, 12,800 bbls. Prime crude nominal, prime summer yellow spot, 9.50c; Sept. closed 9.36c; Oct., 9.44c; Dec., 9.55c; Jan., 9.68c; March, 9.75c.

FORM ANOTHER BIG COMBINE IN FIELD OF RADIO

Makers of Tubes to Consolidate.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Another big combination in the radio field was announced last night. It will consolidate several of the leading manufacturers of radio tubes and eventually is expected to represent about $40,000,000 of capital.

The National Union Radio corporation was incorporated in Delaware to combine the manufacturers of Sonatron, Marathon, Televocal, and Magnatron tubes. The new concern will have authorized capitalization of one million no par shares, of which 400,000 shares will be presently outstanding. The component companies will form a nucleus for further acquisitions that are expected to give the new concern major rank in the radio industry.

The Radio Corporation of America will have a considerable interest in the new combine. Radio will lend the National Union Radio corporation $2,000,000 and will receive an option on 10,000 shares of stock at $40 a share. This option, when exercised, will cancel the loan. In addition, reciprocal licensing contracts have been made under which both companies may make tubes covered by the patents of each other.

Will Have Five Plants.

The relationship with the Radio Corporation will give National Union Radio the benefit of laboratory developments and research of the General Electric and Western Electric companies, with which Radio Corporation is affiliated. The new concern will have five plants, located in Chicago and Newark, Hoboken and Union City, N. J., with a daily capacity of 75,000 to 100,000 tubes. Joseph E. Davies, formerly head of the federal trade commission, will be chairman of National Union Radio.

News of business and industry was generally cheerful yesterday, although the weekly mercantile reviews pointed to cross currents that usually occur at this season of year.

"Among current features of particular distinction," Dun's review says, "the conspicuous vitality of the steel industry retains the foremost place, while a decided expansion in footwear production has been added to the constructive elements. The textile markets, moreover, are in a stronger position, both in respect of demand and prices, and there is evidence in this quarter, as in other channels, that the public purchasing power remains at a high level. No widespread labor troubles prevail and employment is relatively full, while railroad freight traffic, with continuing gains over the volume of previous years, shows that consumption of goods is unusually well maintained."

Retail Trade Quieter.

"Retail trade, reflecting the fag end of the vacation season and the progress of clearance sales, has tended to quiet down further," Bradstreet's review says, "whereas wholesale and jobbing trade and industry seem to show little change from recent weeks. Trade is about on a par with a year ago, while industry, which shows least effect of summer conditions, is still much more active than a year ago."

Business failures in the United States increased last week to 399 from last week's figures of 368, and were 21 more than the 377 insolvencies of the corresponding week last year.

Contracts let in heavy construction and engineering projects in the last week were substantially higher than in the corresponding week last year, due principally to a higher rate of activity in commercial and industrial building, Engineering News-Record reports.

GOLD OUTPUT UP LAST YEAR; SILVER LOWER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The director of the mint today announced that 2,233,251 ounces of refined gold, valued at $46,165,400, and 31,462,507 of refined silver, valued at $24,206,667, were produced in the United States in the calendar year of 1928. The figures indicated a $746,800 gain in gold production over the prior year and a reduction of 1,971,934 ounces in silver.

Among the gold producing states, California led with 513,249 ounces, valued at $10,609,800, while Alaska was second with 330,604 ounces, valued at $6,834,200, and South Dakota third with 318,095 ounces, worth $6,575,600.

Utah led the silver producing states with 17,749,317 ounces, valued at $10,-242,350, while Montana was second with a production of 10,681,675 ounces, worth $6,248,780. Idaho was third in silver production, turning out 8,949,-716 ounces, valued at $5,235,584.

Elect John A. Nylen V. P. of Peoples Trust and Savings

John A. Nylin has been elected a vice president of the Peoples Trust and Savings bank, 30 North Michigan avenue. His activities will be confined exclusively to new business development. Mr. Nylin started his banking career as a messenger boy at the National Live Stock bank twenty-nine years ago. Since that time he has been connected with several Chicago banks in various capacities. In 1922 he was president of the Chicago and Cook County Bankers' association.

CHICAGO TRIBUNE SURVEY

TRANS-AMERICA HITS NEW HIGH IN CURB MARKET

Soars on News of 150% Stock Dividend.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—The curb exchange continued to flounder about in confusion today, failing decidedly to respond to the violent bullish activity on the big board. Profit taking depressed several of the investment trusts and utility issues, while buying to a moderate degree was witnessed in other utilities and some industrials.

Electric Bond and Share was a strong feature during the forenoon, rising about six points to a record price at 172, but this level brought out considerable realizing which reduced its gain to a single point. Electric Investors was less active and moved in a narrow downward range. American Superpower and United Light and Power "A" and United Gas Improvement all turned weak. Allied Power and American and Foreign Power were under pressure.

Show Persistent Strength.

Commonwealth and Southern and Niagara Hudson were still active, but failed to break out of their narrow trading ranges. Natural Gas stocks displayed moderate but persistent strength, Arkansas Natural Gas and Cities Service again moving a shade higher to new peak prices.

Trans-America, although selling exrights, rose several points to new high ground in response to the 150 per cent stock dividend and announcement of formation of a company to take over its trading operations, leaving Trans-America strictly a holding company.

Goldman Sachs was firm, but trading in Blus Ridge stocks quieted down considerably and they were inclined to sag under further realizing. General Realty was a strong feature, rising to a new high, close to 40.

Oils Attract Support.

Oils attracted some support as bullish operators went forward in this group on the big board. Gulf and Vacuum rose 4 and 3 points respectively in response to reports of negotiations to merge.

In the mines Newmont rose 2¾ points in response to reports of merger of South African properties in which it is interested. Industrials were generally quiet. Anchor Post Fence continued to enter new high territory. Clark Lighter A, a low priced issue, rallied a couple of points, and Eastman Kodak rights were in urgent demand. The new Allis Chalmers and F. G. Shattuck stocks were well bought.

I. C. C. POSTPONES FREIGHT RATE ADVANCE HERE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Upward revision of class rates on west bound freight out of Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Louis, and nearby points to the northwest, which railroads proposed to make effective Aug. 24, was postponed today by the interstate commerce commission until March 24.

The commission announced that meantime an investigation would be instituted to determine the justice of the proposals.

Illustrating the situation which the new class schedules would bring about, the commission said that first class freight from Chicago to Sioux City, Ia., now carrying a rate of $1.20 per hundred pounds would be charged $1.31 per hundred pounds, while fifth class rates to Sioux City, now 42 cents per hundred, would be 47½ cents.

General Motors Acceptance Corp. Charters New Firm

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—General Motors Acceptance corporation chartered its third subsidiary company under a Delaware charter today under the name of General Motors Acceptance company. The organization of these subsidiary companies has been necessitated by local laws in places in which the company wanted to establish branch offices. The newest company will operate an office in Mexico City, and the other two existing operate in India and in Port Elizabeth, South Africa. Prior to these subsidiary companies, which will operate only in the territories the laws of which caused their establishment, the company was operating 54 branch offices in the United States, 8 in Canada, and 15 overseas.

Oppose Unity of Operations by N.Y.C. Lines

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—Alleging that the leasing of the Michigan Central and the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis (Big Four) railroads to the New York Central railroad would violate the federal anti-trust law, the New York Central Securities corporation today asked the federal court here to enjoin the interstate commerce commission and the railroads from carrying out the commission's recent order for leasing the lines.

The New York Central Securities corporation is controlled by Clarence in financial circles for fights he has conducted in the past as a minority stockholder upon railway companies, notably the New York Central and the Rock Island.

The complaint charges that the Big Four and the Michigan Central were parallel and competing lines of the New York Central, and that their unification by lease would lessen competition within the meaning of the Clayton act.

Owns Bulk of Stock.

The New York Central owns 99 per cent of the stock of the Michigan Central and more than 90 per cent of the shares of the Big Four, and for years both carriers have operated as part of the New York Central system. The commission on July 2 gave permission to effect the leases.

It is set forth that on Nov. 12, 1926, the plaintiff moved that the New York Central's petition be denied and that the proposed leases be found to be against the public interest, contrary to law, oppressive to minority stockholders of the Big Four and Michigan Central, and violative of the plaintiff's rights as a minority stockholder.

The leasehold proposals having been approved by the interstate commerce commission, the plaintiff demands that the United States District court enjoin the defendants from all acts in connection with them and that the leases be ordered set aside. A temporary injunction is asked pending the outcome of the suit, in which permanent injunctive relief is asked.

Illustrates "Violation."

It is alleged that the lines alluded to in the leaseholds are now operated by substantially identical or closely interlocked boards of directors and officers, under the direction of the New York Central, as the New York Central Lines.

As an illustration as to how the rights of minority stockholders "are violated" in the terms of the leaseholds it is set forth that Michigan Central stockholders are to receive, unless the leaseholds are nullified, "only 50 per cent a year" on their capital stock. The Michigan Central is capitalized at $18,736,400, so it is alleged, its property valuations amounting, however, to $418,917,602; so that 50 per cent on par value of each share "amounts to but 2¼ per cent value of proportionate holdings set against that share." The earnings of the Michigan Central during 1925 and 1926 are alleged to have been "upwards of 100 per cent" on each share par value.

PRODUCTION OF AUTOS REACHES HIGHEST LEVEL

Washington, D. C., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Commerce department figures show that the total domestic production of 3,723,723 motor vehicles, including passenger cars and trucks, during the first seven months of 1929, established a new high record in comparison with any similar period on record.

The July production, counting only factory sales of motor vehicles, is placed at 500,331, including 426,159 passenger cars, 73,118 trucks and 1,054 taxicabs, as compared with a total of 545,375 motor vehicles produced in June and 392,086 in July, 1928. Output for the seven months' period was larger than in any entire year prior to 1923, and exceeded the production of 1924 and 1927. It was nearly eight times as large as the 1913 production.

Canadian motor vehicle production during the first seven months, the department said, totaled 205,822. It was larger than any Canadian output in any one year prior to 1928, and was twice as large as the dominion's production in 1922.

Southern Cities Company Acquires Island Utility

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—The Southern Cities Utilities company has acquired from the Dominican Republic the electric and water properties which former Vice President Charles G. Dawes and his special American commission advised the republic to sell earlier this year, it was announced today. Mr. Dawes made the suggestion on the grounds that it would improve the finances of the Dominican government. The Compania Electrica de Santo Domingo, the Dominican subsidiary of the Southern Cities Utilities system, today completed arrangements to buy and operate the electric system in Puerto Plata, the principal northern seaport, and the electric and water systems in Santiago, the second largest city of the republic.

Cement Prices Reduced 20 to 30 Cents a Barrel

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—Leading cement companies today announced reductions in prices ranging from 30 to 20 cents a barrel, bringing the New York base price to $2.33. The Alpha Portland Cement company took the leadership in the price reduction by announcing a reduction of 20 cents a barrel on the Hudson river base, and 30 cents a barrel on the Lehigh valley base. The other leading companies followed this lead by announcing corresponding reductions.

McNamer Made Manager of Life Insurance Agency

CHICAGO FIRMS DEPEND MORE ON LAKE SHIPPING

Unload Sugar Barge from Philadelphia.

BY SCRUTATOR.

Thirty thousand bags of sugar, comprising the first shipment ever sent direct from a dock in Philadelphia to a dock in Chicago, by barge through the New York state canals in addition to an open sea and lake movement, was being unloaded yesterday at the north pier terminal, east of Tribune Tower.

The barge, known as the motorship L. L. L.—103, left Philadelphia twelve days and six hours before its arrival in Chicago. Its 1,500 ton cargo is the equivalent of fifty railroad carloads. On the way back it will take 35,000 cases of condensed milk for New York. The maximum draft of the barge on this trip was 9 feet 6 inches and its low deck and almost complete lack of superstructure made it easy to pass under the fixed bridges over the barge canal.

"We made the 1,700 miles a few hours faster than the schedule of twelve and a half days," he asserted. "This ship has been to Chicago before, but we had never brought in a cargo from Philadelphia. The last time we had sugar from New York and discharged it at Milwaukee. Then we came light to South Chicago and picked up a load of corn for New York.

Operates Five Barges.

"Our company, the Erie and St. Lawrence, has five of these barges plying between the Atlantic ports and those of the great lakes. This is the only one that makes the open sea trip to Philadelphia. At present we are limited to barges with a length of 250 feet and a draft of about nine and a half. That is due to the Welland canal, which is now being widened and deepened. The New York canal locks are big enough to take 298 foot length and 43 foot beam, and are 12 feet deep.

"Next year barge cargoes of 1,800 to 2,000 tons can come through without any trouble. The people of the central states don't have to have the St. Lawrence waterway as an outlet to the sea. They have an outlet now—the way we go and come."

Cargoes of sugar have been sent from Philadelphia to Chicago in ships that passed through the small present canals on the St. Lawrence. The advantage in time by the barge canal route is striking, it being estimated that the average for a similar shipment through the St. Lawrence would be thirty days.

The success achieved in this service is regarded as an augury of what may be expected of the gulf waterway when it is completed. The other lake cities, Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit and Milwaukee, are all getting cargoes direct by the New York canal route.

Found Economical.

Barges of the same type undoubtedly will be able to navigate the nine foot channels on and to the Mississippi, and Detroit and Milwaukee will be able to get cargoes from New Orleans as they get them from New York. New Orleans probably will have a greatly increased business, but so will these lake cities. The northern terminal of the gulf waterway will be anywhere on the great lakes.

Barges of the 103 type are economical of operation. Their Diesel engines, according to the chief engineer, require only 11,000 gallons of fuel oil for a round trip and a crew of fourteen men suffices to run the ship. Cargoes are handled with slight damage and a substantial saving in freight is made.

Something like ten sugar cargoes have arrived in Chicago this summer, all but the last one from New York. Evidence that local firms are turning to water transportation in general is given by an official of the terminal company. He stated that its tonnage so far this year, with three months of navigation on the lakes left, was already 30 per cent above the whole year 1928. Full return cargoes have been available for the incoming ships.

Globe Stove Co. Resumes Common Stock Dividends

Directors of the Globe Stove and Range company yesterday announced resumption of common stock dividends after a lapse since October, 1920. The stock has been placed on an annual $1.20 basis by declaring of a quarterly payment of 30 cents, payable Aug. 31. The company was reorganized in 1922 and issued $300,000 in bonds and $200,000 in preferred stock. Since then both of these issues have been retired and the present capitalization consists of 50,000 shares of no-par common stock. Net earnings for the first seven months of this year approximated $60,000 and net earnings for 1928 were $116,000. Sidney Blumenthal & Co. declared a dividend of $5.25 on preferred, clearing up accumulations, also a regular quarterly of $1.75 on preferred.

Flour Sales Lessen; Still Over Capacity

"Flour sales have fallen from the volume reached in the week of Aug. 10, but still average well above the capacity of mills in all of the principal production areas," says the Northwestern Miller.

"Southwest mills dropped from 274 to 172 per cent of capacity, while the average in the northwest is now around 150 per cent. Current sales do not include any huge single orders but there have been several recent bookings of round lots reaching up to 30,000 barrels.

U. S. GOV'T ISSUES FEATURE TRADING IN BOND MARKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—Active buying of U. S. government bonds was a feature of trading on the bond market today. The turnover in the treasury 4s was the largest in weeks and the price advanced 10-32 for the day. Other active issues were up 2-32 to 8-32. According to specialists several large orders have appeared in the outside market which necessitated new buying on the exchange.

Several new highs appeared in the convertible corporation issues. American Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s touched a new peak at 217¾, closing at 215¾, up 4¼ points for the day. International Telephone convertible 4½s shot up to a new high at 207½ on heavy buying, finishing at 207 with a net advance of 12 points. American International 5½s moved up 1¾, while Commercial Investment Trust 5½s, after reaching a new high at 110¼, sold off to 107½, at the close off 1½.

The closely held Norfolk and Western convertible 6s of 1929 established a new high at 270 on the sale of five bonds, up 20 points from the previous sale, which was several days ago. Railroad bonds as a group were moderately active and steady. Sugar bonds continued irregular as did other groups of the industrial list, notably steel and rubber issues. Public utilities bonds were moderately active with price changes generally small.

WILL MODIFY GRAIN EMBARGO NEXT MONDAY

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The nine day embargo on oats, barley and rye from northwest points to Minneapolis and Duluth and Superior, which went into effect today, will be modified next Monday, when shipments of barley will be accepted. This decision was reached at a conference of shippers and grain men here today.

The tension in the northwest grain marketing situation which led to the embargo on recommendations of the northwest shippers' advisory board has been relieved to such an extent that the modification was agreed upon.

The seven northwest railways which joined in placing the embargo took official action to permit the resumption of the barley movement, immediately after the meeting by publishing the necessary supplements to their embargo orders as issued last Wednesday. Shipments will only be accepted, however, subject to delay from causes over which the carriers have no control.

This step, which is calculated to have an important effect in correcting the unfavorable grain marketing situation brought on by the overcrowding of terminal elevators and the resultant embargo on shipments of rye, oats and barley, was agreed upon unanimously by executives of the various railroads, after lengthy discussion of present conditions with spokesmen for the grain trade and officials of the northwest shippers' advisory board.

It was reported at the meeting that about 820,000 bushels of grain, equivalent to around 600 carloads, have been unloaded at the Duluth-Superior terminals for shipment down the great lakes since Thursday morning. Most of this grain was barley, consigned for export to Germany via Montreal. This substantial outward movement from the lakes has relieved the congestion at the terminals and made a notable contribution toward keeping the market open for shipment.

Packers Find Fresh Pork Again Leads in Activity

May Introduce Vickers, Ltd. Shares in American Mart

New York, Aug. 23.—(AP)—Shares of Vickers, Ltd., one of Great Britain's foremost industrial organizations, will soon be introduced to the American market, it is reported in Wall street. It is expected that American depository receipts will first be traded on the curb exchange, and then on the stock exchange. Vickers is engaged in manufacture of steel, ordnance and ammunition, rolling stock, motor engines, aircraft, ship and bridge building.

Soviet Union Reports Upon Foreign Trade

MOSCOW, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The foreign trade of the soviet union during the last ten months equaled 1,350,000,000 rubles total, of which 692,000,000 rubles were export values and 658,000,000 import values. The favorable balance was 34,000,000 rubles, against an unfavorable balance of 141,000,000 for the corresponding period of last year. [The gold ruble has a value of 51½ cents.]

Borg-Warner Star Actor in Chicago Mart

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

Active shares were mostly higher in Chicago stock trading yesterday but the market did not act in proportion to the big upturn staged on the New York exchange.

Borg-Warner was the feature of the day, selling up 2¾ after sales of nearly 64,000 shares in anticipation of favorable dividend action. Directors declared a quarterly dividend of $1 a share on the outstanding common stock, including the stock disbursed recently as a fifty per cent stock dividend.

This establishes a $4 annual cash basis for the stock, which was paid previous to the stock dividend, and is equal to $6 on the certificates outstanding prior to the melon cutting. However, directors previously declared stock dividends of two per cent each quarter in addition to the cash payment, and failure to act in this connection indicates that these disbursements have been discontinued following the payment of the fifty per cent declaration.

Acquires Two Companies.

The acquisition of two additional companies, the Detroit Gear and Machine company, manufacturer of gears, and the Norge company, maker of rotary compressors used in electric refrigeration, was formally announced.

Gleaner Combine Harvester led the general list with a gain of 3¾. United Gas marked up a four point advance on light trading. Gains of a point to nearly two points were registered by American Equities, Merchants and Manufacturers preferred, Ontario Manufacturing, Lion Oil and Bastian-Blessing.

Central and South West Utilities featured the utility group with a gain of five points. National Electric Power "A" advanced 2¾. A single sale of fifty shares of Central Public Service at 65 registered a twenty point gain in that issue. Associated Telephone Utilities was up a point.

Electric Household Utilities was down a fraction. E. N. Hurley Jr., president, stated initial production of the company's new health lamp will be started at the rate of 500 a day.

Grants Patent Licenses.

Q. R. S.-De Vry was also down a fraction. T. M. Pletcher, president, stated that the company has granted licenses to electric sign corporations in Detroit and Miami to manufacture neon tubing under patents held by the company.

Sonatron Tube gained a point in reflection of announcement of the name of the new company in which it has merged and the financial details. Grigsby-Grunow was up a fraction. Initial trading in the stock was registered on the New York exchange. Steinite Radio was off a fraction. The company announced that it will retail a seven tube all electric receiving set at $39.50 through one of the national 5 and 10 cent store organizations with more than 500 outlets.

National Dairy Products Makes New Stock Offering

New York, Aug. 23.—The National Dairy Products corporation today announced an offering of additional stock to shareholders of record Sept. 3 for $55 per share at the rate of one new share for each ten shares of common then outstanding. Subscriptions will be payable Sept. 23. Stockholders of Bryant & Chapman Co., of Hartford, Conn., have approved the offer of the National Dairy Products corporation of 32,000 shares of its common stock for Bryant & Chapman stock. The basis of exchange is four shares of National Dairy for five of Bryant & Chapman. A cash dividend of $4.50 also was voted.

South Omaha Bank Joins Northwest Bancorporation

Minneapolis, Minn., Aug. 23.—(AP)—Affiliation of the Stockyards National bank of South Omaha with the Northwest Bancorporation was announced here today, bringing the corporation's combined resources to more than $267,000,000. The Stockyards National, which has resources in excess of $13,000,000, is the third Omaha bank to join the group. The others are the United States National and the United States Trust company of Omaha. No change in the directorate or officer personnel of the South Omaha bank is anticipated, it was said.

SIMPSON NOTES PROSPERITY GAIN ONLY IN ITALY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—Business in Europe apparently is marking time pending settlement of the reparations problem, according to James Simpson, president of Marshall Field & Co., and director of the Chicago federal reserve bank. He returned today from a tour of Europe.

"Conditions in Europe appear unchanged from last year," he said. "Italy alone impressed me as having gained in prosperity. Reports from Marshall Field & Co. have been very favorable. The volume of business is holding at consistently high levels both at Chicago and at branch stores, with a possibility that the total for the year may exceed the figure set in 1928."

Goodrich Co. Charters New Hood Rubber Concerns

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 23.—The B. F. Goodrich company today was granted charters in Delaware for the new companies which will take over the businesses of the Hood Rubber company and subsidiaries, the acquisition of which through an exchange of stock has been approved by all the companies interested. The companies bear the same name as those which they will succeed, the Hood Rubber company and the Hood Rubber Products company. The former was capitalized at $6,000,000 and the latter at $100,000.

Richfield Oil Strengthens Position in New England

New York, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The Richfield Oil corporation of New York, which entered the New England field last December through the purchase of the Walburn Petroleum company, has strengthened its position in that territory by the acquisition of the Lamson Oil company of Providence, R. I., through the 20 service stations of which Richfield products will be marketed.

Report Progress in Merger of Sinclair, Prairie Oil

New York, Aug. 23.—(AP)—It was reported in Wall street today that important stockholding interests of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation and the Prairie Oil and Gas company have reached an understanding, termed at present as a "gentlemen's agreement," for the merger of the two organizations.

BY FRED HARVEY.

New York, Aug. 23.—No use talking, the stock market did well today. With a $133,000,000 increase in brokers' loans hanging over it and an inevitable Friday afternoon round of profit taking to contend with, the list plowed doggedly ahead and wound up with its usual quota of "big time" gains—10 to 15 points or more.

That powerful interests are at work on the bull side was evidenced by the unusual strength and activity of some of the so-called upper bracket stocks, like Westinghouse, jumping some 16 points, to a new high record; Du Pont kiting 16, also to a new peak; United States Steel running up 9⅞ to a fresh altitude mark, and Columbia Carbon advancing 17½.

Shorts Are Routed.

Traders who had gone short in anticipation of a "shake-out" as a result of the loan increase were thrown into confusion as the flood of buying orders which came into the market at the start continued to gain volume and shorts had to beat an early retreat. Volume increased to nearly 4,800,000 shares.

Credit conditions continued favorable with call money ruling at 7 per cent, funds in ample supply and commercial reports remaining bright. Relief over unchanged discount rates also contributed to some extent to operations for the rise.

Once again United States Steel common was the market leader with heavy buying orders coming and offerings scarce. After opening about a point higher, at 251, the stock rose steadily above 255 and then a block of 5,200 shares changed hands at 256, cleaning up most of the offerings. The next sale was a point higher, when 500 shares were taken. Around midday the price touched 260 and closed only a fraction below that level. Bethlehem spurted more than 6 points, to 139¾, an unusually wide movement for this companion of the steel leader. Republic, Youngstown and one or two others were scarcely less buoyant.

Activity in Oils.

Oils came in for more profitable attention, the principal performers being Standard of New York and Texas Corporation. One block of 50,000 shares of the first named stock changed hands around noon at 45—a deal of some $2,250,000. Buying of Texas Corporation was accompanied by gossip to the effect that Fisher interests are taking more than a passive interest in the current strength of the stock. Texas advances but seldom, but when it does, it usually stays put. Standard of New Jersey also continued in high favor, as did one or two of the others.

The rail shares also were more active with a number of stocks slated

FLUCTUATION IN WHEAT SURPRISES MARKET TRADERS

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

The wheat market continues to fluctuate in a manner that surprises the trade. The excessive bearish sentiment which prevailed late Thursday vanished over night, and with strong cables and private reports suggesting export sales of around 1,500,000 bu hard winters and domestic springs prices moved up 3¼@3¾c yesterday with the finish within a fraction of the top with net gains of 2⅝@3⅛c. Winnipeg was strong and up 2⅛@ 3⅛c, while Liverpool gained 2@2⅜d.

Corn market is gaining friends, with damage reports coming from a steadily enlarging territory, and while the September gained only ⅛c for the day, the new crop futures were ⅞@ 1⅛c higher. Oats were up ⅛@⅜c. Rye closed ⅞@1⅝c higher.

Await Farm Board Meeting.

More than usual attention is being given by the wheat trade to the meeting of the farm board with coöperatives at Chicago Monday, and should anything of a constructive character be attempted it would probably find quick reflection in the action of the market, as every trader is familiar with the extremely close adjustment of supplies to demand the world over, and with approximately one-third of the world's surplus in this country and Europe absolutely unable to secure its requirements without drawing heavily on America, the belief prevails that something might be done that would offset the temporary effect of the unprecedented movement of grain to terminal markets.

The export sales of spring wheat from the northwest were the first claimed this season, and with American grain selling at big discounts under Canadian there was a belief in some quarters that the demand would continue which would help relieve the shortage in storage room. Aggressive buying of futures was in evidence toward the last headed by houses with eastern connections. Selling against offers checked the bulge. Drought continues in Argentina and was a factor in helping along the advance in Liverpool. The local spot basis was ⅛@1⅛c higher as compared with September.

Corn Damage Increases.

Official and private crop reports continue to indicate rapid deterioration in the outlook for corn over a wide area, with serious damage being claimed in Oklahoma, Kansas, Nebraska and parts of South Dakota and unless a soaking rain comes shortly a liberal reduction in the indicated yield is expected to be shown in the private returns due on Sept. 3 or 4. Scattered showers have had little effect. Outside interest in the market is increasing with the new crop months showing the most strength, while the September lagged, due to receipts of 212 cars and purchases of 90,000 bu to arrive.

Hedging pressure on September oats and scattered liquidation widened its discount under the December ¼c during the day. It is said that Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and the northwest are sending cash grain here due to lack of storage room. Commission houses bought on the dips. Longs in September rye took advantage of all upturns to sell, and the market failed to fully reflect the strength in wheat.

BUTTER PRODUCTION DROPS

Reports of a sharp reduction in the output of butter during the last week more than offset the effect of liberal receipts and a good into storage movement, and December butter on the Chicago Mercantile Exchange closed ⅛c higher at 44¾c, equal to $45 per car. August was unchanged at 42c. Sales were 27 cars and receipts 10,987 tubs. More interest was shown in eggs with the November closing ⅜c higher at 37c, the gain being equal to $45 per car. Sales were 98 cars and receipts 9,944 cases.

MAY INCLUDE ANOTHER.

It is reported from Boston that in the event that negotiations for a merger of the First National bank and the Old Colony Trust Co., both of Boston, are successful, the American Trust Co., also of that city, will be included.

PHONE COMPANY BUYS SITE FOR NEW EXCHANGE

Purchases Cicero Avenue-64th Corner.

BY AL CHASE.

Purchase of the northwest corner of Cicero avenue and West 64th street by Charles S. Cutting of the law firm of Cutting, Moore & Sidley yesterday disclosed that a good sized improvement is contemplated for the property. Mr. Cutting took title for the Illinois Bell Telephone company, which is to use the property acquired for a large exchange building when growth of the neighborhood calls for such an improvement. This probably will not be for some time, according to the telephone company.

The property fronts 223 feet on Cicero avenue, with a depth on West 64th street of 125 feet. It was purchased from David S. Shaffner, Ruth M. Johnson, M. Claudia Hawkins, Leonard A. Krentz, M. G. Higgins, Joseph J. Rieter, and Steve Placko. The purchase price for the eight lots is reported to have been $65,000, O. F. Christensen of Willoughby & Co. was the only broker.

Woman Buys 57 Flats.

The fifty-seven apartment building at 6141 Winthrop avenue, lot 75x150, has been sold by Jacob Samuels to Anna Engel for an undisclosed consideration.

John A. Kneale has sold the six apartments at 8249-51 Drexel avenue to Michael H. Haggerty for a reported $56,500. He took as part payment the two apartment building at 7019 South Peoria street. Glatt & Price were brokers for both parties.

Randolph-Sangamon Corner Sold.

The three story building, 21x65, at the southeast corner of Randolph and Sangamon streets was sold by the Economy Wholesale Grocers, Inc., to Birdie Brown.

The vacant business property at 4613-15 Lawrence avenue, 50x125, has been sold by Barney A. Kamins and Max Rosenbaum to J. J. Hooper for a reported $22,500 cash. Edwin M. Wolfe, vice president of James D. Harvey & Co., was broker.

STEEL WORK ON BOARD OF TRADE BEATS SCHEDULE

Steel construction work on the new Board of Trade building at the head of La Salle street has reached the twenty-fifth story, which is two weeks ahead of schedule. The steel work started on April 15, and it is expected that the last of the steel will be in place by Sept. 26.

Stone work also has made unusual progress and is up to about the seventh floor. Sub-basement excavations are 85 per cent completed and the floor under the sidewalks is 95 per cent finished. Tile and fireproofing work is up to the fifteenth floor. It is expected that the building will be ready for tenants by May 1, 1930.

Apartment Building at Kilbourn and Adams Sold

The southwest corner of Kilbourn and Adams, lot 121x75, was sold by Isadore A. Bernstein to Marcus Jorgensen for an undisclosed consideration, subject to an incumbrance of $75,000. The property is improved with a building containing eighteen flats and one store.

Lease 50 Apartments on Kimball for 10 Year Term

Isidore Fifer and Max Margolis have leased the fifty apartment building at 2600 Kimball avenue from Harry Robkin, Sam Mansdorf, and Dr. A. M. Zimmerman for ten years at a term reported to be $228,000. Morris R. De Woskin & Co. were brokers.

WOOL

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The Commercial Bulletin tomorrow will say: "The wool market is fairly active with prices generally firm. There is no feature to the trading that is new. Western operations are practically ended. Tariff tinkering affects trading very little as yet. The manufacturing position appears to be very sound, with orders favoring worsted wools most distinctly. Repeat business is seasonally good. Foreign markets are dull and rather easier. Mohair is generally quiet, with some inshown on original kid hair in the mass of 70@80c. The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from Jan. 1, 1929, inclusive, were 18,642,700 lbs, against 100,786,000 lbs the same period last year. The receipts from Aug. 1, 1929, to Aug. 22, 1929, inclusive, were 2,322,619,885 lbs, against 240,100 lbs for the same period last year."

Youghiogheny and Ohio Coal.

S. L. C.—Youghiogheny and Ohio Coal company $2,000,000 first mortgage sinking fund 6 per cent bonds, dated Aug. 1, 1929, and due Aug. 1, 1945, are secured by a first lien on the Springdale coal property and are additionally secured by pledge of the lease to Allegheny Pittsburgh Coal company. These bonds are high grade, a suitable investment for a business man's funds.

COTTON GINNING LARGER

Ginning of cotton to Aug. 1, as reported by the census bureau, aggregated 303,940 bales, as compared with 278,568 bales for the same time last year and 568,000 two years ago. The report had little effect as a market factor, although showing more activity than last year.

Traders in all were indifferent to factors controlling the market.

Opening trades yesterday were 1 to 4 points higher and closing in Chicago were unchanged to 9 points net higher, while other markets were 3 points net lower to 2 points net higher. Spots were unchanged, with a fair business. New York was 18.65c, New Orleans 18.55c, Houston 18.40c, and Galveston 18.50c. Liverpool closed 1 to 3 points net lower with spot sales 5,000 bales.

Ginnings in Texas aggregate 257 bales, and Georgia 20,875 bales. The Texas crop is estimated by G. E. Terrell, the agricultural commissioner, at 4,356,000 bales.

Bids on October in Chicago for today 18.40c and offers 18.67c. Bids on December 18.63c and offers 18.95c. Prices follow:

PAIGE STRAIGHT 8 BARGAIN. Here's a model 685 5 passenger sedan with the 4 speed transmission that has just come into our possession. It was given the finest care throughout, the finish a rich shade of blue, is like new and the condition of the interior would lead you to believe the upholstery had never been sat upon. The tires are A1; has lots of equipment, including Lovejoy shock absorbers, and we will guarantee it mechanically. $750.

1928 GRAHAM-PAIGE 5 PASS. SEDAN. This popular 610 model was given but a few thousand miles of service and traded to us in new car conditionally. The paint is without mars, scratches, and the nickel is just like new. Interior is immaculate. Tires, of course, are almost new. Has cowl lights and full equipment, speed mascot, etc. - A wonderful value at $675.

PAIGE 6-65 1927 SEDAN. A 5 passenger that will surely please you. It's in the original finish, the upholstery shows no signs of wear, and the entire car is as bright and shiny as when new. Color is a beautiful shade of green. Has seat covers, almost new tires, de luxe motometer, step plates, bumpers, 4 wheel brakes. $475.

1928 GRAHAM-PAIGE 629 SEDAN. This is a 4 door 7 passenger and a recent delivery; has 6 tires, side mountings, de luxe equipment, beautiful maroon finish, first class mechanically, and backed by the Bird-Sykes guarantee; its appearance is perfect and practically identical with the latest cars. You owe it to yourself to come and investigate this particular car. $1,250.

1928 DODGE SENIOR 6 SEDAN. Used only 7,200 miles; appears and performs like new throughout; upholstery, finish, trimmings and rims complete, cowl band lights, trunk, step plates, etc. Guaranteed. $675.

CHRYSLER, 1929 MODEL 75, 5 PASS. SEDAN. Turned in to us after having had about 4,000 miles of driving. It's in such superb condition we doubt if even an expert could distinguish it from new. $1,175.

GRAHAM-PAIGE 5 PASS. SEDAN DEMONSTRATOR. One of our 619s and a most popular model because of its speed, brilliant performance, and 4 speed transmission, which affords a great range of speed with economy. Has cowl lights, almost new tires, and is guaranteed. $1,125.

ASK 20 MILLIO BONDS FOR FIRS WEST SPEEDWA

BY HAL FOUST.

Dr. John Dill Robertson, pres of the west park board, yest went into a week-end session with attorneys to complete the draft o ordinance calling for a $20.00 bond issue proposition on the ba in the park district at the Nove election. The ordinance will ably be passed by the park com sion on Thursday, their next re session.

The bonds will be for the struction of the elevated speedwa Kinzie street and Austin avenue tween Clinton street downtown Austin boulevard at the west limits. This is one of the three side superhighways recommende Friday by the west side committe the Chicago Plan commission. estimated cost of $23,862,300 mak by far the cheapest of the three posals.

Follows Railway Line.

The Kinzie-Austin highway is t built on a fill on the north sid the Chicago and Northwestern road's embankment. The other s highways, Polk and Monroe str es to be constructed as two roads.

Hugh E. Young, chief enginee the plan commission, began work terday in preparing detailed r mendations for the ramps at half intervals that will make the K street elevated highway of great s west side property owners as is serving the western suburbs its terminal at Austin boulevard. other project calls for the eas extension of the elevated hig in Illinois street from Clinton to the outer drive.

The eighty foot top surface Kinzie street elevation provides for parking on the north side right of way so that motorists to and from the loop can par shop.

Ramps will be located at all important north and south street pass under the express highway tomobile owners for miles on sides of the elevated pavemen find it the quickest route for a tant east or west destinations.

Values Are Increased.

New York, which is building vated highway, found that pr values for blocks around a ram doubled in value. It is estimate in ten years the rise in realt alone cover the cost of constr of the west side project.

Mr. Young is treating each north and south street under as an individual engineering p in designing its ramps. None locations are definitely determi yet.

The plan commission made se studies of traffic conditions recommending the superhig Checks on Lake and Madison and on Washington and J boulevards, between Austin bo and Canal street, showed an a speed of traffic varying from f to nineteen miles an hour a time required for the seven m was between twenty-two and minutes.

Speed Will Be Doubled.

On the elevated highways, erage speed of the entire vol traffic will be more than thirt and hour with no stops for cro ds nor for cars making turns to the right or the left.

The plan commission today the inadequacy of the west vehicular transportation fa even as compared with the that serve the north and the sides.

"Nine west side streets," re chief engineer's report, "en downtown district between La Harrison street inclusive, bu sum up the lanes at Halsted exclusive of street car and ances, there are a total of o lanes for the free movement o If the roadways were widene maximum width possible the provide only ten lanes."

More North Side Lane

Seven north side streets e business district east of th branch of the river, and with ction of the outer link and ash avenue bridges there will having a capacity of twenty lanes exclusive of street ca and parking. Widening could the total to thirty-two lanes.
